WAKE COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, INC (WCGS) was organized in April 1982 to promote genealogical study and research, to serve as a medium of exchange of genealogical or historical information, to encourage the preservation of genealogical or historical records, to provide cultural, educational, and social opportunities involving genealogy. In 1983 WCGS was incorporated as a non-profit organization under the laws of the State of North Carolina.

MEMBERSHIP: Membership is open to anyone with an interest in the purposes of WCGS as stated above. The membership year is from January 1 through December 31. Annual dues for new members are $20.00 for individuals and institutions and $25.00 for families (two people, related by blood or marriage residing at the same address). A former charter member can rejoin for a fee of $15.00 - a one-time option.

MEETINGS: WCGS meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month except in June, July, August, and December. Meetings begin at 7:00 PM and visitors are welcomed. The current meeting place is the Olivia Raney Library, 4016 Carya Drive, Raleigh, NC. 27610. Phone: 250-1198.

CORRESPONDENCE: All correspondence should be sent to WCGS, PO Box 17713, Raleigh, NC 27619-7713. For a fee of $5.00, you may request up to one hour of research by the "Please Help Me" Committee.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS: Please notify WCGS of a change of address as soon as it is known so that your journals and other WCGS communications will reach you in a timely manner. There is a $3.00 charge for remailing returned journals. Postage costs for returns have more than doubled since October 1995 and continue to increase in small increments.

WAKE TREASURES is the journal of WCGS and is free to members. One copy is sent for each Family Membership. Bi-annual issues are identified as Winter/Spring, and Summer/Fall.

EDITORIAL POLICY: Emphasis will be on unpublished, primary source documents with historical or genealogical significance for Wake County, NC. Primary source documents from counties from which large numbers of inhabitants migrated into Wake County may be used provided there is no Genealogical or Historical Society serving that county. Articles emphasizing methodology, instructions and "lessons learned" will be welcomed. Manuscripts about Wake County residents, past and present will be accepted. Wake County family cemetery surveys and Bible records will be used as space allows. Articles will reflect a balance regarding time periods and needs of both the novice and the experienced genealogists.

Manuscripts submitted will be judged on style, clarity, consistency, documentation and general appeal to the membership. References used to compile the manuscript must be included. (Send SASE to Editor for guidelines.)

Book reviews will be published for authors or publishers who donate the book to the WCGS library and for publications recommended by members which are pertinent to Wake County or of general genealogical interest. Books are then donated by the society to the Olivia Raney Library.

Neither WCGS nor the Journal Committee shall be held responsible for content, punctuation and/or spelling errors in manuscripts. Such errors are the sole responsibility of the contributor. Documented corrections of content errors, submitted to the Journal Editor, will appear in a later issue.

QUERIES: Members may submit an unlimited number of queries at no additional charge. Queries are accepted from non-members at $2.00 per query. For an extra $5.00, non-members can request a copy of the journal in which their paid queries were included. It is helpful when queries are submitted on a Wake Treasures Query Form. Queries are subject to editing and will be printed as space permits. Requests for Query Forms (send a SASE) and query submissions should be addressed to Query Editor at the address printed above. You may also xerox the query form in the insert placed in the center of the journal when more than one copy is needed.

PERMISSION TO QUOTE: Permission to reproduce or quote from an article published in any issue of Wake Treasures must be obtained in writing from the author(s). Write to the specific author in care of the WCGS address above.

BACK ISSUES: Past issues of Wake Treasures are sold only in volume sets. Volumes I through VII are now available. See insert for price and other details.

STYLES USED IN ABSTRACTS/TRANSCRIPTIONS:

In an attempt to provide consistency throughout Wake Treasures, the Journal Committee has adopted the following styles to be used in all abstracts or transcriptions:

Spelling – retained as found in the original document

surnames – capitalized and bold, even in word-for-word transcriptions

? following a word – letters difficult to read, but it looks like (DUW ?) or there is a second possibility (PANN/PAW ?)

? following a letter in a word – uncertain of the preceding letter (MU?RRY)

... – words, phrases, or sentences omitted from the original

~~word~~ – word, phrase or sentence marked through in original document

Tho_as or Tho__s – letter or letters illegible or missing

_____ – word illegible or missing

[anything in brackets] – comment from abstractor/transcriber

OTHER EXPLANATIONS:

NC Archives – the short form for the Reference Unit of the Division of Archives and History, North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources

CR.099.000/AR 6.0/etc. – the call or stack numbers used by the NC Archives to organize the storage of records

A WORD FROM OUR PRESIDENT

By William Morrissey

At the end of the March 23rd meeting of the Society I will be passing the office of President on to Julie Peterman. It has been an exciting two-year term for me. With the able assistance of many willing members we have accomplished a good deal.

The Society has run courses in basic genealogy, held a Heritage Quest Workshop, and now the Helen F. Leary Seminar. There have been newspaper articles, increased advertising of events, and participation in fund raising for public TV. Members have shown an active interest in volunteering to help with the Olivia Raney Library which is devoted to the history and genealogy of Wake County. Our latest endeavor is the establishment of a web page, the establishment of an e-mail address, and assuming the responsibility for maintaining the Wake County GenWeb site. The cumulative effect of all these activities has been increased membership and meeting attendance. We are in sound financial condition. The Wake County Genealogical Society shows all the signs of an active and healthy organization.

As I think of how to say thank you to all of the volunteers who have made this possible, I realize there are too many to name individually in a letter like this. I would feel badly if I missed even one name. There are probably fifteen or twenty people who have led the way. This seems like a small fraction of our membership, and I would like to see more people putting in fewer hours each to accomplish even more in the future. Let's do this over the next two years under Julie's leadership and make this the premier society in North Carolina helping more people to research their family history in a professional manner.

Sincerely,

William G. Morrissey
President

FROM THE EDITORS

By Harriette Riggs & Madlyn Jamison

Bill's presidential shoes are hard to fill, but if anyone can, it is Julia Moffat Peterman. We already know Julie is intelligent, capable, and caring from her term of office at 1st Vice-President, her editorship of our Updates newsletter, and her enthusiastic support of society activities and programs. We look forward to continuing progress Bill has made and to innovations and further progress under Julie's leadership.

Please note that dues for Family Membership have been reduced from $30 to $25.
Save an additional $5 if your dues are submitted and postmarked by December 31.

Harriette's Hint: Is bigger always better with computers? My computer, with 48MB of memory, sent "out of memory" messages while I was working on the journal. Fortunately, Jerry Lewis came to the rescue. I urge you to read and reread Jerry's computer articles for their good advice.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

By Harriette & Madlyn

It is always gratifying to receive letters from our members about what we do right and to keep us on the right path.

Phyllis J. Wiles of Pauls Valley, Oklahoma writes that we asked for responses, "so here I am."

"You did not punch holes in the current issue of Wake Treasures, therefore we can't add them to the notebook with the others. Maybe you overlooked it, but it is a necessary step in preparation of the book, seems to me. Outside of that, everything is just fine. Thanks for listening."

Yes, we did not, and we apologize to her and to you. Though our publisher is the same name, Wendell Printing and Type Setting now has a new owner. We have to get used to each other and tell him what we expect. We will make sure it is hole-punched in the future. Thanks for the comment!

June E. Showen of Great Falls, Montana wrote the following: "Just wanted to take a minute and tell you what a marvelous quarterly [bi-annual] you put out. I enjoy it so very much Thanks again and again for the computer tips. Hope your Society has a grand new year. Renewal of membership enclosed." [Thank you, June, for those comments. Jerry Lewis appreciates hearing that his articles are being read and are helpful.]

William W. Scales of Warrenton, VA wrote the following in response to the 8870 Method article.
"Re: Calculating Birth Dates from Cemetery Stones" Vol. VII, No. 1, Winter/Spring 1997, pp.30-31.

"The '8870' formula given in the above article is certainly a quick and useful way to go from a 'death plus age (in years, months, and days) date' to an approximate birth date. However, it is not as accurate under all situations, I believe, as the article states.

"The formula assumes, as the article says, that all months have 30 days, so that when you 'borrow' a month during the subtraction step you are in fact adding 30 days to the 'day' column. Your example of President John Adams works because he died in July, and the month you 'borrow' from is June, which does indeed contain thirty days. Had Mr. Adams been born a month earlier and died a month earlier, the '8870' formula would produce a birth date of 30 Sep 1735, which would lead to an age at death of 90 years, 8 months and 5 days (instead of 4).

"To make the case more apparent, suppose a person were born on 30 May 1996 and died on 1 Jun 1997–that person would have lived 1 year and 2 days. However, the '8870' formula for a person with that death date and length of life (1 year and 2 days) leads to a birth date of 29 May 1996–off by a day.

"I think the same thing will happen whenever the person in question dies in a month following a month of 31 days instead of 30. (There will also be problems with people who die in March, since February has only 28 or 29 days.)

"The root of the formula would appear to be the following: the '88' comes because you are 'borrowing' a year to add 12 to the 'months' column, but in decimal arithmetic you are actually borrowing '100', so you subsequently subtract off 88 from the 100 to get 12. Similarly, when you need to 'borrow' in the 'days' column, you borrow 100 in decimal but you only want to borrow 30, so you subtract off the 70. The 70 should properly be 70 or 69 or 72 or 71, depending on the month in question.

"I still think the formula is a good one for getting quickly to within a day or so of the birth date you seek. Just be careful then to calculate back from the derived birth date to the death date to check on whether or not you come out with the stated age at death. If not, adjust the birth date by a day or so.

"I enjoyed the journal as always — keep up the good work."

Madlyn Jamison, Co-Editor responds as follows: Thank you, William, for clarifying the 8870 formula further. I forgot to remind everyone that you still need to find proofs to validate and/or correct your calculated data. You should always identify and explain personal calculations of any kind your work, as: "calculated by (researcher) from (death date on tombstone) using the 8870 Method" (or other), etc.; otherwise, readers may assume calculated data has been proved by records.

His letter reminded me that I had failed to include the standard genealogical caution and reminder: All calculated data, be it dates or other assumptions based on partial information which may or may not be accurate, should be identified in your work through footnotes as "calculated by this researcher from... (death date on tombstone)...using the 8870 Method". If you fail to mention this is a calculation, many people will be misled into believing this is a valid proven birth date when you share your information with others. You owe your readers of your shared or published work an explanation of how you arrived at this date. This kind of calculation falls into the same realm as "about, assumption, circa, estimate". There needs to be further proof from other records.

The value of calculated data, whether or not it has an error range of one day, five months, a year or ten years, is that it helps to narrow that field of research to a more specific time frame than you originally had.

Recently I resolved a research gap, based on a family letter written in 1854 which gave no dates for this one family but many dates for others. My unsuccessful research efforts had been a hundred years too early. This family proved to be contemporaries of the writer, but without dates and since he wrote mostly of ancestors, I assumed this family lived in the earlier time frame.

Robert Byrnes (Bob) Jones of Holmes Beach, Florida wrote the following: "You asked so here I am. Call it tricks of the trade. One of mine is the LETTERHEAD and BIG FOOT of this home made stationary of mine. I use it for ALL correspondence. [a paste-up of the letterhead and footer are added at the end.] I hope you do not get too far away from including what I call raw data such as the cemetery information in the last issue. We who live far away treasure such information.

BOOK REVIEW

Submitted by Madlyn C. Jamison

DEED ABSTRACTS OF ROWAN COUNTY, NC, Volume I – from Deed Books 11-14, 1786-1797 and the new Volume II – from Deed Books 15-19, 1797-1807. Also Early Landowners Maps, Rowan County, NC Circa 1753-1810, compiled and plotted by James W. Kluttz.

Rowan County was created from Anson County in 1753 and was commonly referred to as the Yadkin Valley. Until 1822, Rowan County included the present counties of Davie and Davidson. Deeds abstracted in these volumes include deeds for all three counties. It also includes Bounty grants in Tennessee, State Land grants, early landowners, adjacent owners, and family members. Many families stayed in this area permanently while others moved on later. The deeds usually indicate the watershed where the land is located, full names, occupations, a map of major streams in the three county area and property owners along each stream. Full name, place and occupation indexes are included.

Early Landowner maps come as a set of six 24" by 36" blueline prints with an 81/2" x 11" eight page index. Over 1200 early owners are shown with most dates falling between 1753 and 1810 in the area within present Rowan County. The names in the index are referenced by grid to the maps for easy location of any property of interest. The map scale is 1 inch equals 2000 feet which is the same used for the US Geological Survey Quadrant sheets.

FOR THE FALLEN, STANZA 4
BY LAURENCE BINYON [1869-1943]

They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

STANDARDS FOR SOUND GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

Remembering always that they are engaged in a quest for truth, family history researchers consistently —

- ☐ record the source for each item of information they collect.
- ☐ test every hypothesis or theory against credible evidence, and reject those that are not supported by the evidence.
- ☐ seek original records, or reproduced images of them when there is reasonable assurance they have not been altered, as the basis for their research conclusions.
- ☐ use compilations, communications and published works, whether paper or electronic, primarily for their value as guides to locating the original records.
- ☐ state something as a fact only when it is supported by convincing evidence, and identify the evidence when communicating with others.
- ☐ limit with words like “probable” or “possible” any statement that is based on less than convincing evidence , and state the reasons for concluding that it is probable or possible.
- ☐ avoid misleading other researchers by either intentionally or carelessly distributing or publishing inaccurate information.
- ☐ state carefully and honestly the results of their own research, and acknowledge all use of other researchers’ work.
- ☐ recognize the collegial nature of genealogical research by making their work available to others through publication, or by placing copies in appropriate libraries or repositories, and by welcoming critical comment.
- ☐ consider with open minds new evidence or the comments of others on their work and the conclusions they have reached.

STANDARDS FOR USING RECORDS, REPOSITORIES AND LIBRARIES RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

Recognizing that how they use unique original records and fragile publications will affect other users, both current and future, family history researchers habitually —

- ☐ are courteous to research facility personnel and other researchers, and respect the staff's other daily tasks, not expecting the records custodian to listen to their family histories nor provide constant or immediate attention.

- ☐ dress appropriately, converse with others in a low voice, and supervise children appropriately.

- ☐ do their homework in advance, know what is available and what they need, and avoid ever asking for "everything" on their ancestors.

- ☐ use only designated work space areas, respect off-limits areas, and request permission before using photocopy or microform equipment, asking for assistance if needed.

- ☐ treat original records at all times with great respect and work with only a few records at a time,recognizing they are irreplaceable and that each user must help preserve them for future use.

- ☐ treat books with care, never forcing their spines, and handle photographs properly, preferably wearing archival gloves.

- ☐ never mark, mutilate, rearrange, relocate, or remove from the repository any original, printed, microform, or electronic document or artifact.

- ☐ use only procedures prescribed by the repository for noting corrections to any errors or omissions found in published works, never marking the work itself.

- ☐ keep note-taking paper or other objects from covering records or books, and avoid placing any pressure upon them, particularly with a pencil or pen.

- ☐ use only the method specifically designated for identifying records for duplication, avoiding use of paper clips, adhesive notes, or other means not approved by the facility. Unless instructed otherwise, replace volumes and files in their proper locations. Before departure, thank the records custodians for their courtesy in making the materials available.

- ☐ follow the rules of the record repository without protest, even if they have changed since a previous visit or differ from those of another facility.

STANDARDS FOR USE OF TECHNOLOGY IN GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

Mindful that computers are tools, genealogists take full responsibility for their work, & therefore they –

- ☐ learn the capabilities and limits of their equipment and software, and use them only when they are the most appropriate tools for a purpose.
- ☐ refuse to let computer software automatically embellish their work.
- ☐ treat compiled information from on-line sources or digital data bases like that from published sources useful primarily as a guide to locating original records, but not as evidence for a conclusion or assertion.
- ☐ accept digital images or enhancements of an original record as a satisfactory substitute for the original only when there is reasonable assurance that the image accurately reproduces the unaltered original.
- ☐ cite sources for data obtained on-line or from digital media with the same care that is appropriate for sources on paper and other traditional media, and enter data into a digital database only when its source can remain associated with it.
- ☐ always cite the sources for information or data posted on-line or sent to others, naming the author of the digital file as its immediate source, while crediting original sources cited within the file.
- ☐ preserve the integrity of their own data bases by evaluating the reliability of downloaded data before incorporating it into their own files.
- ☐ provide, whenever they alter data received in digital form, a description of the change that will accompany the altered data whenever it is shared with others.
- ☐ actively oppose the proliferation of error, rumor and fraud by personally verifying or correcting information, or noting it as unverified, before passing it on to others.
- ☐ treat people on-line as courteously and civilly as they would treat them face-to-face, not separated by networks and anonymity.
- ☐ accept that technology has not changed the principles of genealogical research, only some of the procedures.

HOW TO BUY COMPUTER HARDWARE AND SOFTWARE

By Jerry J. Lewis

We have plenty of common sense, but sometimes we get into such a snit to accomplish something that we forget to use it. Buying computer hardware and software is no different than finding an elusive ancestor because it requires applying common sense to the search.

Consumer groups often tell you that in order to be a good consumer, you should be informed. However, being informed is a lot of work – especially when it comes to understanding technology products like computers. Can't we just run in, throw some money down, and come out with what we want? The good news is that the answer to that question is, for the most part, yes. The market for computer products is so competitive that, in order to get your business, many computer retailers provide a fairly knowledgeable staff that is willing to help you. However, you must do your homework in order to ask that staff the correct questions and to provide answers to their questions.

In some ways, our ancestors had less consumer homework than we do because there were fewer choices. There were relatively few choices so many purchases could be made based purely upon the reputation of the manufacturer and dealer, who seemed to personally know the manufacturer. While these considerations are still important, other considerations are equally or more important. Now, companies invest considerable effort to understand the market and differentiate their products from others. So, it is helpful to know exactly what you want. To be an effective consumer, you should:

1. Generically define what you hope to accomplish (when referring to things you are unfamiliar with such as technologies and techniques). This vision should allow for your goals to grow as more opportunities become available.

2. Specifically define what you hope to accomplish (when referring to things that only you know such as your environment, the number of "things" you have, etc.). This quantifies the minimum requirements.

3. Define when you hope to start, the latest date you can finish, and the preferred date for finishing your task.

4. Envision the entire process of what you are trying to achieve. While you envision that process, ask yourself several questions during each step of the process.

    A. Is there an alternative to this method?
    B. How does this step compare with other steps? Can it impede the entire process?
    C. How many times am I going to be repeating this step and the entire process?
    D. What is the next step?
    E. How long can I do this before I will need to replace supplies and tools?
    F. When and where does the current step occur?
    G. If I do this, what else will be required?
    H. What if this step fails?

Let's apply these techniques to an example. I don't currently own a scanner, but a genealogy friend asked me to write an article about how to buy a scanner, and I have considered buying one in the recent past. So, let's say my goal is to "scan my documents into the computer."

While that sounds reasonable, it is not sufficiently generic (example of 1, above). I just cornered myself into buying a scanner simply because I said scan. In fact, it might be more appropriate for me to take a picture of my documents with a digital camera. Instead, I might have said that I want to digitize my pictures (i.e., convert the image into computer data). Certainly, this is a picky point. Experienced salespeople should know what you mean, but some will not. (Hopefully, they'll know what you mean when you say digitize, but that's a different problem.)

Another problem with my goal is that it is not sufficiently specific because it doesn't specify what kind of documents I am trying to digitize (example of 2, above). These are original documents from the middle nineteenth century. They can't be fed twenty at a time through a pressure feed roller! So, I don't want a "paper port" scanner, I want a flatbed scanner. Likewise, a number of older documents are on legal-sized paper – not 8½" × 11" paper. I need a flatbed scanner that can handle 11" × 14" documents.

Of course, I also did not specify that I want to digitize pictures (example of 2, above). Obviously, pictures are not documents (per se) in the sense that they require greater resolution and color. If I have only a few pictures, it might make sense to digitize them another way, but if I have a lot of pictures, I want a scanner that can handle them, too.

Still, I am reasonably happy until I get my (hypothetical) scanner home and discover that I have lots of documents and scanning is much slower than using a copier. For a few dollars more, I could have had a faster scan (e.g., scanning a page in one pass instead of several) and a faster transfer of data between the scanner and the processor (e.g., it uses a SCSI connection instead of the serial port). Again, the relative importance of that depends entirely on the number of documents I have to scan (see 4, above).

Also, perhaps I didn't really envision the entire scanning process (example of 4, above). I would scan the documents and then print them. Hmmm, where does that scanned data reside? On my already-full hard disk (example of 4F, above)? Maybe by the time you throw in the cost of another hard disk, this thing costs more than I am willing to pay. Of course, if I had a larger hard disk, I would be able to store more data, so it would become even more important to make a backup of that data. So, I also need a way to back up the data (example of 4G, above). If I allow my friends to use my scanner, they need a way to get their large scanned images home. Maybe my backup drive should use a fairly standard portable media (such as the currently popular ZIP disks).

Did I forget to mention that I have a few defects in my documents? I would like to repair the defects. This requires a good software package – perhaps a significant investment. Likewise, these scanned files are fairly large and have to be read into memory before they can be edited. My guess is that this is going to take more memory than what I already have. If I envision the process of editing a document, I realize this involves small details, so perhaps I need a larger monitor. As I have demonstrated, these incidental details can really accumulate (examples of 4G, above).

Of course, I might be very disappointed if I bought a scanner now. Remember that hardware and software markets are very competitive. The technology is improving so quickly that most products are virtually outdated by the time they arrive at the store (example of 3, above). You need to watch the product promotions to get a hint about what's happening. For example, have you ever noticed that you seldom see the word "clearance" in the computer industry? Who wants to pay slightly less for yesterday's technology, which will have a salvage value of virtually nothing tomorrow? Second, consider this problem from the manufacturer's viewpoint. They have the current Gizmo A in the stores but the new Gizmo B is ready for production. If they stop producing Gizmo A too early, then the retailers will not have their product in stock to sell, and the manufacturer will lose money to competitors. Conversely, if they make too many, how will they sell them with savvy buyers waiting to purchase the new Gizmo B? Let me introduce you to the "manufacturer's rebate" aka "we will motivate you to help clear our inventory" (because we know the new model is on its way and you will not buy Gizmo A then).

If you want a good price, watch the market signals, and develop a buying strategy:

- Be the first to buy (new technology for the sake of new technology).
- Be the second to buy (new technology when the first guy says it's good and you can't wait any longer).
- Be the third to buy (get the previous generation of used technology when the first guy sells his to finance his upgrade to the newest technology).
- Be the fourth to buy (when the new technology is about to become old technology, the manufacturer's rebates appear).

- Be the last to buy (old technology that very cheaply satisfies your requirements for now with no frills – soon the cost of maintenance for it will be prohibitive).

OK, that's enough of the common sense lesson for now. I openly confess that there are a number of things about computer technology that nothing shy of understanding the details will help you. So, here is some specific information.

DEFINITIONS

Measurements

In order to talk about computer hardware, it is necessary to define some units of measurement. A byte is the amount of storage required to store one character of the English alphabet.

From science class, you might remember some of the common prefixes for measurement:

nano = 1/1,000,000,000 (one-billionth)
milli (lowercase m) = 1/1,000 (one-thousandth)
Kilo = 1,000 (thousand)
Mega (uppercase M) = 1,000,000 (million)
Giga = 1,000,000,000 (billion)

Putting the prefixes with units of measurement, you have kilobytes, gigabytes, milliseconds, etc.

Be aware that bytes are not built in multiples of 10. For example, a Kilobyte is actually 1,024 bytes instead of 1,000. However, for most purposes, it is sufficient to round off the few bytes difference to the nearest multiple of 1,000.

Storage

Both memory and disks are used for data storage. However, disks, tape drives, CD ROMs, etc. are used for persistent data storage (i.e., when the computer is turned off), and memory is used for fast, temporary data storage. So anything stored in memory is lost when the computer is turned off (unless it is stored on a disk). In terms of speed, consider that:

- a 100MHz processor performs 100 million instructions per second.
- 60 nanosecond memory chips perform 16.7 million memory operations per second.
- a disk with 8 millisecond access speed performs 125 disk accesses per second.

So, since memory is so much faster, calculations and displaying data are performed in memory. When you "run out of" memory, it is possible to use the disk as if it were memory, but doing so greatly slows your machine (as indicated above).

Hard Drives

If you consider the physical characteristics of a disk drive, you can better understand what factors to consider when buying one. First, consider that inside a disk drive is the disk, which usually looks like a thick, metal CD, and during use, it spins like a CD. Access speed pertains to how long it takes to find the requested data on the disk. The read/write heads (analogous to the needle on a turntable) must move towards the center or outside of the disk to find the track for the data you want to read or write. Finally, the disk must be turned to the correct spot on a given track. Most drives today have average access speeds of around 10ms (milliseconds). Access speed is always important, but it is especially important when you have lots of small files or pieces of files, called fragments (for a discussion of fragments, see my article entitled "Disk Maintenance" in Wake Treasures, Volume VI, Number 1, Winter/Spring 1996). Internet browsers such as Netscape and Internet Explorer download many images to display a single webpage, and these images are temporarily stored on your disk (since they can be obtained faster from there than across the INTERNET).

Relatively few people consider the speed of delivering data to the processor. Given that a computer accesses the disk many times to do even the simplest things, every fraction of a second contributes to the time you must wait to accomplish your task. Once data is found on the disk, it is sent to the processor via a series of wires called a bus. This is analogous to our highway system – the wider the road, the more cars can pass over it at one time (i.e., more throughput). Data throughput is always important, but it is especially important when you are trying to use large files.

Logical workings, called interfaces, are just as important as the physical construction. The two predominant interfaces are SCSI (pronounced as "skuzzy") and IDE (pronounced "I D E"), but each has its variants. The main benefit of the IDE drives is low cost. However, SCSI drives are usually faster and more flexible. Specifically, on IDE devices, requests are processed serially (i.e., one at a time), and the processor waits for each response. However, SCSI devices have built-in intelligence which allows the processor to do other things until the request is completed. Another benefit of SCSI is that the devices can be external to your machine. To add another SCSI hard disk, CD ROM, or other SCSI device, simply plug it into the last device (i.e., like plugging in Christmas lights). So, it's easy to carry my SCSI devices to a friend's house. IDE drives are internal only, so to add one to my computer is a hassle. However, again, the SCSI drives cost more because of the additional features.

The following table summarizes some of the differences between device interfaces. "Max. transmission rate" is the maximum amount of data that can be transmitted from the disk to the processor, and it is measured millibytes per second. "Devices per adapter" refers to the maximum number of CD ROMs, disk drives, and tape drives that one adapter can support.

	SCSI-1	SCSI-2	SCSI-3	EIDE	Ultra IDE
Max. Transmission rate MB/sec.	5 or 10	10 or 20	20 or 40	16.6	33
Devices per adapter	7	15	4	4	?

PCS usually have a built-in IDE support, and MACINTOSH usually has built-in SCSI support. You may have both SCSI and IDE in one machine, but doing so will require an additional adapter for the one that was not built-in.

Note that drives are not the only devices that use the SCSI interface. SCSI scanners, plotters, etc. are faster than their serial port counterparts. Also, note that there are a number of names associated with each interface. So, SCSI-1 is simply called SCSI. SCSI-2 can be either fast or fast and wide SCSI; SCSI-3 is Ultra SCSI. Other than the implied technology (IDE or SCSI), these names primarily translate into faster implementations (e.g., SCSI-3 is faster than SCSI-2 is faster than SCSI-1).

Although it is convenient to have all of your data on one very large disk with a single partition, I recommend against that strategy. If you ever have a disk problem, you could lose everything. However, if your data is on different disks or on one disk that is partitioned, then you lose less data in the event of a failure. Personally, I keep only the programs and data needed for the operating system on one disk and everything else on other disks. If the operating system disk fails, I can reinstall most of that software. My second disk has most of my documents and irreplaceable files on it. So I backup that disk much more often than the other one. If you are considering purchasing a disk (and especially anything of 1GB or larger, you should definitely have a backup system). Minimize the amount of data that you can lose by limiting the partition size to less than two gigabytes.

In summary, if you have one computer, IDE and its variants will most likely be the cheapest persistent storage alternative. However, if you have several machines that are not networked and you want to share one tape drive between them, a server that many people access at once, you want the fastest available, or you already have a SCSI-based scanner, you might buy SCSI (or both). If you want still more details about disk drives, I suggest you refer to the computer magazines at your local library.

SOFTWARE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Software Industry – A Dissertation.

It's hard to go wrong with the most popular software packages. For example, Corel and Microsoft are both well-known companies. Word Perfect by Corel and Word by Microsoft are both well-known products. Word can read Word Perfect files, and vice versa. Both word processors have lots of the same features. Because they are competing products, you'll discover that on a given day, one might be better at something or cheaper than the other. In a couple of months, the other one will be better at the same thing or cheaper. So, for the most popular software, you might make your choice based on non-technical issues like the manufacturer's reputation or the fact that you have several friends using that product so it will be easy to ask for their help.

I am sure that you are aware that competition is a good thing for the consumer, but in most computer industries (word processors, spreadsheets, databases, programming tools, etc.), competition for the core business is decreasing. While technology has improved and thereby reduced prices, history and economics show that prices always increase disproportionately in monopolistic markets over time. I encourage everyone to listen and consider your software manufacturer's demeanor and business practices. Do not confuse domination of the advertising message with the relative value of the product. A company's reputation is clearly important. So, as with any purchase, consider the alternatives.

Finally, while options are a wonderful thing, do not be tempted to judge anything solely by the number of options it provides if you are not going to take advantage of those options.

Personal Preferences

If you ask which word processor someone likes, they will often tell you to buy the one that they use even though they have never used anything else. Of course, they might tell you how difficult it is to use a different word processor than theirs because they tried it once – after using theirs exclusively for years. What they really mean is that the other one doesn't work exactly like the one they're more accustomed to. Well, duh. Ask them more detailed questions. They might like their word processor because of some feature that you will never use. Remember that your best source of detailed information are the computer magazines in your local library. Of course, the magazines have their own biases, but they more often confess to them, and they tell you why they have that bias (i.e., their biases are less subjective).

Component Software

You are most likely not aware that a given piece of software consists of a number of components. For example, most word processors consist of an editor, a spelling checker, a grammar checker, etc. You can replace these components if you don't like them! However, different products use different names for their components. For example, Netscape's Navigator uses optional plugins that do special things like play Quick Time movies. Adobe's Photoshop uses filters. These are all variations on a theme. While the notion of components hasn't caught on with home consumers yet, be aware that they exist. Indeed, you are not likely to find components in most retail stores, but you will find them in the computer magazines and on the INTERNET. Much of the software that was built in the last three years was built on this principle. So, if you want your software to perform additional functions and to perform something differently, consider adding/replacing the component for that function.

Word Size

The smallest unit of arithmetic in the computer is a "word." Unless you're using DOS or WINDOWS 3.1, you should always choose 32 bit instead of 16 bit software. It uses more memory, but it is significantly faster and less buggy.

SUMMARY

My goal in this article was not to tell you what to buy but rather how to buy it. Remember that technology and prices are constantly changing. So, before you go to the store or ask others, ask yourself some questions. Also, I strongly encourage you to read the computing magazines at your local library.

Whatever your decisions, upgrade prudently. Most companies will not support you unless you are using their latest software with lots of hardware resources. They will invest expensive resources into helping solve a problem as long as you have taken advantage of their latest bug fixes (i.e., they don't want to worry with a problem they have already fixed). Of course, each software release has not only bug fixes but new features as well. With new features come new bugs. It is also somewhat common to fix one bug and break something else. Of course, these fixes and enhancements require more memory and a later version of some other piece of software, which, in turn, requires more memory and a later version of a third piece of software. Also, companies perhaps make more money on upgrades than on your original purchase. Unfortunately, I have few recommendations for this problem.

I recommend resisting the urge to add software before you need it. Wait until you can upgrade all of your software at one time to minimize the cost and frustration that accompanies upgrades. Be certain your upgrades are working before applying the new software. That way if something fails, the problem will be easier to diagnose.

[John C. Dvorak wrote The 1995 Computer Buyer's Guide (of course you want the latest edition). It describes devices, accessories, best buys, and explains how computers work. Great for first buyers or those upgrading.]

HARDWARE HOPEFULS

If you use or are considering working with digital images (e.g., scanning, digital cameras, image editing, etc.) Or using the internet for your genealogical research, there are some exciting new technologies on the horizon.

Processing Speed Improvements

In genealogy, we spend most of our time on a computer, reading a document, or entering data into a word processor, genealogy program, etc. So, the machine spends most of its time waiting on you. Therefore, a 300MHZ processor is typically overkill. However, as more genealogists start editing digital images, this much processing power will be appreciated. Likewise, as the price of storage drops and the throughput of processors, buses, etc. increases, more people will be taking digital movies of grandma, editing out the imperfections, and storing them on their computers.

The fastest processors today have a cycle time of 300MHz (mega hertz). A 300MHz processor performs 300 million instructions per second. IBM recently performed a successful experiment with a 1 GHz (giga hertz) processor (one billion instructions per second) – three times faster than current machines. Of course, this experiment required a bus (to move data between the processor and other components) that supports these speeds as well. By the end of 1998, Intel predicts they will be selling processors in the range of 500MHz.

Of course, whether or not you need this much processing power is only one factor in your computer purchase decisions. The mere availability of machines like this will most likely cause the price of less powerful machines that are adequate for your needs to fall (assuming all other factors are held constant).

Persistent Storage Improvements

There is a new type of drive called DVD that stores 7 to 25 times more data than a CD ROM, depending upon the number of sides and layers used on the DVD disk. Specifically, the DVD capacity is up to 17 gigabytes, which is 17 billion bytes, which is equivalent to 3,264 high density diskettes. DVD data is transferred between the drive and the CPU at a rate greater than 2 megabytes per second (comparable to a 14X CD ROM). However, you will not need to throw out your current CDS since the DVD drives are backward compatible with them.

Currently, MPEG-1 is the standard for storing movies on disks. However, the MPEG-2 standard has four times the resolution as MPEG-1 (and thereby requires at least four times the storage space). The DVD drives can store the capacities required for MPEG-2 movies. In fact, most feature length movies are 133 minutes long, so when compressed, they will fit onto one single-sided disk. Just imagine high quality home movies of grandma on a single disk!

Before you purchase a DVD drive, be aware that there will be several generations of them. I have already seen the lower capacity DVD drives for sale. The first drives, called DVD-R, will allow you to record (i.e., write) the data only once. Later this year, the DVD-RAM drives that allow you to record many times will be available.

However, don't feel left out for a new hard drive. IBM has developed a way to store data more densely on hard disks. This method is called Magneto Resistive (MR) and Giant Magneto Resistive technology. Ultimately, this means that the capacity of disks has just doubled.

Internet Throughput Improvement

While the internet has connected households and business throughout the world, it has bogged down as more and more demands are placed upon it. Furthermore, computer technologists experience the same everyday bottlenecks that mere mortals do. Likewise, businesses interested in internet sales rely on the internet to be sufficiently fast for you to conduct your business with them. Subsequently, everyone has great incentive to reduce these bottlenecks. The good news is that several very viable options already exist.

One method for improving the speed of the internet uses an enhanced cable connection (the same cable many currently use for television but with some enhancements). Of course, this method has implications about how you purchase other services such as pay-per-view television, using your television for internet access, etc. Fortunately, the Research Triangle has been targeted as one of the first areas in the country to receive this enhanced cable service.

Another method for increasing the speed of the internet uses the existing telephone lines more efficiently. The problem with this idea and others is that "everyone" has to agree upon it. There are a number of factors to consider such as:

- How soon could it be available?
- How much will it improve throughput?
- How are existing services and hardware affected?
- What is the cost?

Still, given the motivation, expect the internet to become faster in the near future. Of course, that will follow with another round of businesses and individuals placing additional demands on it until it becomes bogged down again. However, that will be followed by another round of improving its performance. Ultimately, you wouldn't be happy if things stayed the same – would you?

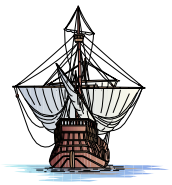
Coincidental Hardware

There are a number of hardware components that you will want as a byproduct of these other improvements. For example, if you want to edit digital images, you will most likely want a larger monitor. If you are going to access your television service through your television, you might want to use your television as a large monitor or have a large monitor on your computer that will also serve as a television.

As a byproduct of faster processor speeds and a faster internet, video conferencing will become more viable and popular, so small video cameras and microphones will be connected to most computers. So, you'll be able to video conference with your previously unknown cousins over the internet. Likewise, faster processors and a microphone allow for voice recognition software. An author can simply read his/her thoughts into their computer microphone. The voice recognition software will translate their voice into written words as if they had typed the words. This technology obviously dramatically reduces the amount of time and work required to write a book. An autobiography might be published as a CD ROM with the author's voice rather than as a written document. Then, I can listen to it in my car, for example. However, voice recognition software will have to be trained to recognize non-contemporary words like those in the phrase "Jno hath persuadeth thee." Furthermore, you will not be able to simply say "John" and have it automatically distinguish between "John" vs. "Jon" vs. "Jno," for example. However, it is likely that you will be able to spell words such as "J" "N" "O". Still, editing and formatting will most likely be the same tasks they have always been. There are many reasons to be optimistic about the future of genealogical computing, but you wouldn't want computers to take all the fun out of it – would you?

MAYFLOWER PASSENGERS

By Harriette Harris Riggs



Reprinted part of article by William G. Allen, Historian, NC Mayflower Society
From WCGS NEWSLETTER, Vol. 8, No. 7, October 1989

Most people know the story of the Mayflower which set sail in 1620 for the New England coast of America. It carried 102 passengers of English origin. Most of them were Pilgrims who were seeking a new home which would be free from religious persecution.

Anyone who can document their lineage showing that they are a descendant of one of the following Mayflower passengers is eligible to apply for membership in the Society of Mayflower Descendants:

- John ALDEN
- Isaac ALLERTON
- John BILLINGTON
- William BRADFORD

SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS, WCGS NEWSLETTER, Vol. 8, No. 10, January 1990

The North Carolina State Society of Mayflower Descendants was chartered by the General Society of Mayflower Descendants on September 1, 1924 and is active today. Membership is reserved to those who claim and can prove descent from a passenger on the Mayflower. For more information on membership, please refer to our October issue.

It recently came to my attention that there are two file boxes of Mayflower Descendants Applications in the NC State Archives Search Room. These records were received from the Southern Historical Collection on December 20, 1968 and are available for our use. Use the finding aids in Search Room labeled "Organization Records", Mayflower Descendants, Society of General Records 1924-1964.

Applications are alphabetical by the applicant and not by the Mayflower ancestor. Many states are represented and many applications have ten or more generations.

Our own Bill Allen served in the office of Historian for thirteen years and recently resigned this office. He gave the current information on the above two offices.

He also told me the following is now in printed form in 34 volumes in the Genealogical Services Branch in the NC State Library Building. The index for these volumes is also available.

Mayflower Descendants: A Quarterly Magazine of Pilgrim Genealogy & History by George C. Bowman who was one of the founders and the first secretary of the Mayflower Society.

There are a variety of other sources for information for the Mayflower passengers. Some printed on individual and multiple passengers for a number of generations. Check your genealogical libraries for your passenger of interest.

QUERIES

By Betty Jackan, Query Editor

This is the last time Betty Jackan will be doing the queries as she and her husband plan to leave Raleigh later this year. We do appreciate all the time and effort she has put into this continuing feature of the Journal. We will miss her. Thank you and good luck Betty!

KING / REDD
I am seeking info on Hill Ennett KING b 9 Feb 1847 Onslow Co and sp Susan Rebecca REDD b 1 Jan 1867 Onslow Co. Susan was the daughter of Marquis Lafayette (L. F.) REDD. During the War Between the States Marquis REDD organized Company E of the 3rd Regiment of NC Troops and served as its Captain. The citizens of the Stump Sound District in Onslow Co presented Captain REDD with a large, wooden campaign chest, painted gray and inscribed with his name and unit, on the occasion of the Company's departure for the War. The chest eventually became the possession of one of his grandsons,

T. Lafayette KING of Raleigh, and at some subsequent date was apparently donated to the NC museum system. It was displayed more recently in the Harper House at the Bentonville Battlefield State Historic Site. Was the chest ever owned by Marquis son-in-law, Hill Ennett KING, and did Hill have it during the War; what was the chests' apparent association with the Battle of Bentonville; and, with respect to Marquis REDD what happened to him after the War? Marquis REDD d 13 Mar 1871 in Pender Co. Where is he buried?

The Letter We'd Like to Write but Haven't –

[anonymous contributor; all names changed]

Crabcreek, NC
April 5, 1998

Dear Mrs. Mary Frances Denniston,

I received a letter yesterday, a phone call three days ago and had an unhappy visitor today which, when combined together, has made me so angry, I'm about to go off like fireworks.

Who or what am I mad at? The clue lies in the above salutation – not my usual loving 'Darling Frannie.'

Where on earth are the good manners I know my sister taught you? Do you think good manners don't apply to genealogy? Have you learned nothing from all the genealogical help and advice I have been giving you these past several years? Well – think of the 'Golden Rule' and use it! Dust off your manners & use them!

Dear second cousin Lillie Mathis is quite distraught over your behavior toward her and her research. You asked Lillie for help with our Jones line over a year ago. She sent you a large stuffed manila envelope soon after your request and hasn't heard form you since – no acknowledgement that you received it, no thanks – nothing! Not even the research that you promised to send her in return. Buy some postcards! Use them!

The final indignity is in this latest issue of the Micaba County Newsletter, which was brought to me today by Ellie, in which you have submitted your research on the Tom Jones family – complete with pictures and genealogical data – under your name which implies you personally did the research, gathered this material together, that you paid any and all costs and fees involved, and you spent the necessary hours to achieve this. WRONG! It is cousin Lillie's property which she shared with you to help you! She did not give you permission to claim it or publish it as your work. (Lillie & I 'share' and so I instantly recognized Lillie's work.)

There are many issues we can get into which I haven't time or heart for just now – as, plagiarism, copyright, ethics and fraud. But it all boils down to the Golden Rule, good manners, ethics and the art of "sharing."

Don't write or phone me for at least two weeks. I need time to cool down and you need to straighten things out with cousin Lillie and send a correction to the newsletter. If you made any promises, you need to take care of those also – before you contact me.

Mrs. David P. Kitterman (formerly your loving aunt Melba)

DIVORCE RECORDS, WAKE COUNTY SUEPRIOR COURT, 1831-1952 (PART 6)

Abstracted by Jocelyn P. Powell

C.R.099-604.11

CLAY, Lincoln vs. Francis CLAY
The divorce was granted during February term of Superior Court 1899. Pl stated that he and Def were married in Wake Co. in 1883. They lived together for 4 months, after which the Def left the home and had lived apart since that time. Pl was a Wake Co. resident. He further stated that he was unable to pay any costs in this action.

CLEMENS, Albert vs. Ethel CLEMENS (Ethel PENDERGRASS)
The divorce was granted during October term of court 1904. Pl alleged that he and Def were married in Durham Co. NC in April 1898. Pl had resided in NC for 5 years. He stated that he and Def lived in the house of his mother-in-law from the date of the marriage until the following August, when the woman, Mrs. Ella PENDERGRASS, drove Pl away from her house, and Pl asked his wife to live with him elsewhere. She refused and remained with her mother, living apart from her husband since that time.

CLEMENTS, W. Fletcher vs. Julia Ann CLEMENTS
The marriage was dissolved during April term of court 1906. Pl stated that he and Def were married in Wake Co. NC on 25 December 1897. On 20 November 1900, while Pl and Def were living together at W. B. WILDER's house, where Pl was employed, the Def abandoned Pl and went to Raleigh to live with her mother. While living in Raleigh, Def "at various and sundry times with various and sundry persons committed adultery," but Pl knew the name of only one partner, Edmund HARRISON, with whom Def committed adultery during 1903. In the latter part of January 1904 Def returned to Pl's home, but she was pregnant with a child of whom Pl was not the father. Because of this he refused to let her remain in his home, and she subsequently gave birth to this child. Summonses for Julia Ann CLEMENTS were issued in both Wake and Wilson counties.

CLIFTON, Z. V. vs. Laura CLIFTON
The marriage was dissolved during March term of court 1910. Pl alleged that he and Def were married in Cumberland Co. NC in December 1900. They lived together until April 1909, when Pl separated from Def. He alleged that Def had committed adultery with Alphonso TINDELL and Press WHEELER and others in Raleigh on various occasions. Pl had been a resident of NC all of his life. Laura was summoned from Harnett Co. Press WHEELER was summoned from Cumberland Co. where, according to the summons, he worked as a beamer in Mill #4 at Hope Mills.

COFFEE, Annie vs. Jordan COFFEY
There is no final decree in this case. Pl stated that she and Def were married on 28 July 1907 in Bristol, TN. They separated on 11 April 1908 and had not lived together since then. Pl charged that Def committed adultery with Daisy RICHARDSON and Minnie CARPENTER near Rural Retreat VA during September 1909. Pl had resided in NC for 2 years. Jordan COFFEY was not found and was believed to have left the state.

COFFEY, Bessie vs. James COFFEY
The divorce was granted during October term of court 1920. Pl stated that she and Def were married on 1 October 1919 and lived together until 1 January 1920, when Def abandoned Pl. Pl had been a resident of NC for more than 2 years. At the time of Def's departure from the home, he had committed adultery with an unknown woman "in the woods near the village of Method [formerly near and now in Raleigh]." James COFFEE failed to respond to the summons and was not found in Wake Co.

COFFIELD, Lee R. vs. Cenia COFFIELD
The divorce was granted during January term of court 1905. Pl stated that he and Def were married about 13 April 1890. In 1893 Def committed adultery with one Paschal STEWART. About March of 1894 Def went to live in another state with the said Paschal STEWART. She continued to live apart from her husband thereafter. She was believed to be living in the state of VA.

COGGINS, Laura vs. Samuel COGGINS
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1905, and Def was ordered to pay alimony of $5.00 per month until further notice. Pl alleged that she and Def were married on 10 December 1892 in Wake Co. and lived together until June 1901, at which time Def abandoned Pl and had lived apart from her since that time. Pl had lived in NC for more than 5 years preceding the initiation of this action. She believed that Def had lived in adultery with various women whose names she did not know. Prior to Def's departure from the home "he cruelly beat and abused Pl without cause and rendered her life miserable." An affidavit by M. A. MONTGOMERY states that he had known Pl for several years and "she is a woman of good principles and of excellent deportment. I have often employed her to do garden and farm work and I have found her to be always faithful and industrious. Her neighbors think well of her." Def was not found in the state of NC.

COLE, George W. vs. Sarah COLE
The divorce was granted during April term of court 1892. Pl stated that he and Def were married in 1867 or 1868 in Wake Co. and lived together for 6 years or more. In 1874 or 1875 Def left her husband; some 2 years thereafter she left the state and went to Virginia to live, continuing to live there at the time of this action. In about 1891 Def committed adultery with one Harvey HARWOOD, and Pl believed that she was still living with him and was pretending to be his wife. Pl had been a resident of NC for at least 2 years prior to the bringing of the divorce action. Lydia DUNSTON was summoned to give evidence in the case.

COLE, Malinda vs. Henry COLE
There is no judgment in this case but Def was assessed court costs. In her complaint, Pl stated that she and Def were married about 18 February 1874 in Swift Creek township in Wake Co. She stated that "for the last several weeks the treatment of her husband to her has been such that she apprehends danger to her life and that the indignities offered to her person render her condition intolerable and her life burdensome. That therefore she has not had knowledge of the facts upon which her action will be based for the span of 6 months. She intends to bring her action for divorce."

COLE, Stanford vs. Henrietta COLE
The divorce was granted during June term 1893. The couple was married in Wake Co. "some time in the fall or the spring of 1866." They lived happily together, as the Pl thought, until one year after the marriage when Def, contrary to Pl's wishes and without good cause, abandoned him and lived in adultery with various persons unknown to Pl. Thinking that she would change her ways he took her back but about a month after the reconciliation she had adulterous relations with one Perry BILL (?) in Raleigh and Goldsboro and also with Melvin YARBOROUGH and others in the city of Raleigh.

COLE, Virginia vs. Harry E. COLE
Marriage bonds were dissolved during September term of court 1919. Pl alleged that she and Def were married on 4 January 1904 and lived together until May 1914. On about September 1917 Def committed adultery with a woman whose identity Pl did not know. Pl had been a resident of NC for 2 years preceding this action.

COLEMAN, Alma vs. F. R. COLEMAN
During March term of court 1917 it was adjudged "that the alleged marriage contract between Pl and Def was procured and executed through fraud, and that (it) be set aside and annulled and that no bonds of matrimony have ever been legally consummated between the parties_" Pl alleged that she was a resident of Wake Co. and that "the Def has absconded and is not a resident of this State." She stated that when she was little more than a child, about ~~15 or 16~~ 18 or 19 years of age, Def made great protestations of love to her. He was 24 or 25 at the time and said that his name was J. R. COLEMAN. He also stated that his life and conduct had been above reproach, and he induced Pl to marry him. The alleged marriage took place, which marriage "was brought about by the false and fraudulent statements of the Def as to his name, his business, his antecedents and his character." Pl indicated that she was a person of very limited means and very ignorant of law and legal proceedings and that she supported herself by working in the Zebulon Hosiery Mills, receiving small wages. Her parents were deceased. Shortly after the marriage Def left, stealing all the money belonging to her in the room where they were staying and also stealing jewelry belonging to a neighbor and others. He professed to be going on a visit to Henderson (NC) and had not returned. Pl later learned that Def's name was BOLLING and that he had been in legal trouble, being charged with forging notes and other offenses, and was using an alias. Pl thought that Def was in the penitentiary in MS. It was later discovered that Def was named Evander BOWLING. He was not found in the state of NC.

COLEMAN, Elena vs. William COLEMAN
Pl failed to appear for the hearing, and the action was dismissed. Pl stated that she and Def were married in Wake Co. on 31 December 1913 and lived together about 11 months. Late in 1914 Def was convicted in the Superior Court of Wake Co. of assault with a deadly weapon and highway robbery of Rip HILL, and sentenced to the public roads of Wake Co. for 5 years. Def was released about April 1919 and Pl declined to live with him on account of his character; they had lived apart since that time. Def, since the separation, had committed adultery with Lorrie MANUEL and lived with her as his wife in Barton's Creek Township, Wake Co. William COLEMAN was summoned from his work at the saw mill of Zollie COLEY in Barton's Creek.

COLEMAN, Virginia vs. Lewis COLEMAN
The marriage was dissolved during April term of court 1898. Pl stated that she and Def were married in Baltimore Co. MD in July 1887 and lived together until December 1894, "when the Def by his drunkenness, failure to support her, by assaulting her, and finally being committed to jail _ drove (Pl) away." They had not lived together since that time. Pl had lived in NC for more than 2 years prior to this action, and Def was believed to be living in MD or VA.

COOK, Clara vs. Ruffin COOK
The marriage was dissolved during December term of court 1915. Pl stated that she and Def were married in Wake Co. on 30 November 1881 and lived together until 6 December 1913. During the years from 1910 to 1915 Def lived with one Dora STEVENS in Wilson Co. in an adulterous relationship. Pl had resided in NC for more than 2 years prior to bringing this action. Felix WATSON, Sunny WILLIAMS, Rufus DUNN, and David ALLEN were summoned to give evidence in the case. Def was believed to be living near Lucama, in Wilson Co.

C.R.099.604.12

COOK, Luna vs. William Henry COOK
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1904, and Pl was granted custody of the couple's child. Pl stated that she and Def were married during the year 1896 and lived together about 4 years. They had one child, a girl [unnamed in case]. About 3 years prior to this action, Def abandoned Pl and had not been seen or heard from since. Pl had been a resident of NC for 5 years. Def was not located in NC.

COONEY, Roxanna vs. Frank COONEY
Marriage bonds between Pl and Def were dissolved during June term of court 1918. Pl alleged that she and Def were married in Raleigh in 27 September 1905 and lived together until April 1908, when Def abandoned Pl, left the city, and never returned. During August 1911, in Richmond VA, Def was living as man and wife with a woman whose name was unknown to Pl. Pl had been a NC resident all her life. Def was not found in Wake Co., nor was there a response to an advertisement in the State Journal.

COOPER, Charles L. vs. Nena COOPER
The marriage was dissolved during January term of court 1912. Pl stated that he and Def were married in the city of Washington on 13 July 1904. They separated during the year 1906 and had not lived together since that date. Pl had resided in NC for 4 years prior to bringing this action. Pl alleged that Def committed adultery with one Joseph BRISCOE at the Atlantic Hotel in Ocean City, MD during the latter part of July 1906.

COOPER, George vs. Libby COOPER
Marriage bonds were dissolved during July special term 1902. Pl stated that he and Def were married in Elizabeth City, NC during the year 1894. They lived together until May 1901, when Def left Pl. During the latter part of 1901 Def committed adultery with one Pay AYRES and also Lawrence KENYON in Amsterdam, NY. Pl had also learned that Def committed adultery with one Charles RAY in Weldon, NC during January 1901. Pl was a resident of NC for 2 years prior to this action. Libby COOPER did not respond to a summons for her appearance and was believed to be in NY. Eugene COOPER and Delbert COOPER both gave depositions in the case through an attorney, John VANLINDIA of Amsterdam, NY.

COOPER, Sarah vs. Silas COOPER
The marriage was dissolved and custody of the son Silas COOPER was awarded to Pl. Pl stated that she and Def were married in 1883 in Wake Co. She had resided all her life in the Co. She and Def had one child. After 2 years of marriage Def left Pl and lived in adultery with one Helen STRICKLAND during 1883 and 1884, and Def afterwards left Raleigh and went to VA, continuing to live there with said Helen STRICKLAND.

COOPER, William vs. Elisebeth COOPER
The divorce was granted during fall term of court 1876, and custody of the couple's children was awarded to Pl. In his complaint, Pl stated that he and Def were married during the spring of 1866 and lived together until February 1875. Pl and Def were both residents of NC for more than 3 years prior to this action. In April 1875 Def committed adultery with one John LEONARD and since that time had committed adultery with several other men. The children mentioned in the divorce decree are not mentioned in the complaint.

COX, J. W. vs. Emily COX
The marriage was dissolved during April court term 1890 and custody of the couple's 2 children was awarded to Pl. He alleged that he and Def were married in Wake Co. on 5 January 1870. They lived together in Wake Co. until 1882, and Pl had resided there since that time. In 1882 Def left Pl and had not lived with him since. The couple had 2 children, both living with Pl. Pl alleged that Def committed adultery with one Jack BLAKE in 1879, and since 1882 Def had been an inmate of a house of ill-fame in the City of Wilmington, NC. In 1882, after Def had left her husband, she left Wake Co. with one Bud JOHNSON and lived with him during that year in Johnston and Wake counties. In 1883, Def committed adultery at Nancy ALLEN's house in Raleigh with various men. Def was not found to answer to these charges.

COX, Lena vs. J. N. COX
The divorce was granted during June term of court 1920, and custody of the couple's child, Lena Lee COX, was awarded to Pl. Pl stated that she and Def were married on 3 June 1908 in Raleigh, and she had been a resident of NC for more than 2 years prior to this action. Pl, because of Def's becoming a habitual drunkard and thereby making life unbearable for her, was forced to abandon Def on 24 January 1918 and had lived apart from him since that time. On 11 February 1919 Def entered the room of a woman staying in a Raleigh hotel and committed adultery with her. One child, aged 6 on 21 October 1919, was born of the marriage, and Pl stated that she was able to care for and support the child. Def, she stated, was not a suitable person to have custody of the child because of his behavior and habits. Def was not located to answer these charges.

CRABTREE, Robert vs. Mary CRABTREE
The divorce was granted during September term of court 1883. Pl stated that he and Def were married in January 1874. About 28 September 1880, Def committed adultery with Andrew B. KING and eloped "to parts unknown" with said person, with whom she continued to live at the time of this action. Pl had not heard from her since her departure. He had been a resident of NC for more than 3 years.

CRAIG, Mrs. D. C. vs. Fanning CRAIG
The divorce was granted during October term 1908. Pl alleged that she and Def were married on 8 April 1898. She had been a resident of Mecklenburg Co. NC for __ years prior to this action. Def, in the years 1902 and 1903, committed adultery with Maim HAGLER, Fet GREEN, and other unknown to Pl. A summons was issued to Def in Mecklenburg Co. but there is no evidence that it was served.

CRAM, Mary E. vs. William C. CRAM
Pl alleged that she and Def were married in the City of New York, NY State, on 17 October 1871. Thereafter they resided together until April 1874, when they moved to Morristown, NJ, where Def worked in a foundry. While in Morristown, Pl and Def boarded with a Mr. and Mrs. COE, who had in their family an adopted daughter, Kitty T. COE, about 18 years old, who helped with household duties. Def and Kitty developed a relationship "in gross and cruel violation of the Def's marriage vows, in subversion of her marital rights and in violation of the laws of God and man." About 17 August 1874, Kitty COE left under the pretense of visiting her mother in Philadelphia, but with the secret intention of eloping with the Def. Def, pretending that he had an opportunity in the foundry business in Toronto, Canada, began to sell the couple's belongings. He abandoned his wife and infant child and went to live in Canada with Kitty under the names of Mr. and Mrs. CROMPTON. Pl traced her husband to Canada and confronted him, and he asked for and was granted forgiveness. They lived for a time in Ottawa, but about 7 months later, Def again disappeared and Pl again traced him, this time to Raleigh, NC, where he was living with Kitty. Pl arranged for legal services but could not afford to travel to Raleigh. Her lawyer arranged for her husband to send support money for her and their son, but Def did not comply. In October 1892 Pl was able to come to Raleigh, and Def agreed to pay support if his wife would leave the state and never return, and she agreed out of necessity, but Def did not keep his word. Since Def was prosperous by this time and Pl was penniless and in poor health, support was again requested. Def filed an answer to the complaint, alleging that when he was about 18, he became acquainted with Pl, who was between 25 and 30, "with much experience in the world; that at that time this Def was young and inexperienced and the Pl had been and was at that time a woman of loose virtue and had been in the habit of having sexual intercourse with other men." Def did not believe they were legally married but that "some form or ceremony took place between them." He denied the child was his but said he agreed to provide Pl with some support; however, there were times when he could not find her. The court ruled that the couple had been legally married and that Pl was entitled to support.

CRAM, W. C. vs. Mary E. CRAM
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1897. W. C. CRAM, Def in the above suit, sued for divorce, alleging that he married the Def, Mary E. CRAM, nee Mary E. LAFAYETTE, in 1871. He left her after learning that she had committed adultery both before and after her marriage to him, and, during 1884-1889 inclusive, under the pretense of keeping a dress-making establishment, kept a house of prostitution, and was herself the kept mistress of one N. G. BATCHELDER. A summons was issued to Mary E. CRAM in Orange Co. NC in 1896, and the divorce was granted on the grounds of abandonment, the charges against Mary being denied by the court.

CRAYTON (CREIGHTON), Lizzie vs. Joseph CRAYTON (CREIGHTON)
The divorce was granted during February court term 1906. Pl stated that she and Def were married in Raleigh on 26 October 1893. Pl had resided in NC for 5 years. Def separated from Pl in April 1903 and had not lived with her since. During the years 1903-1905, he committed adultery with one Lizzie WARREN in the town of Durham NC and also, during those years, committed adultery with divers persons in the house of ill-fame kept by Bertha BROWN. In addition, he committed adultery with one Helen GOOCH and others at houses of ill-fame in Raleigh.

CREEL, Ava M. vs. Jon. R. CREEL
The divorce was granted during April court term 1899. The complaint states that Pl and Def were married in Raleigh on 3 October 1895. In October 1898 Def left Pl and lived with Victoria E. STRAUGHN in Raleigh. Pl had been a resident of NC for more than 2 years.

CREEL, Bessie E. Putney vs. Thomas Braxton CREEL
The divorce was granted during January term of court 1918, and custody of the children was granted to their mother, the Pl. Pl alleged that she and Def were married in Raleigh on 4 September 191_ and that she had been a resident of NC for more than 2 years. Pl, because of the adulterous habits of the Def, was forced to abandon him more than 6 months prior to this action. The children of this marriage were William Charles CREEL, aged 5 years on 15 June 1917 and Edna Louise CREEL, aged 2 years on 22 August 1917. Thomas B. CREEL was summoned from Guilford Co. NC.

CRINKLEY, Mabel Scarboro vs. Andrew CRINKLEY
The divorce was granted during January term of court 1920, and Pl was allowed to assume her maiden name of Mabel SCARBOROUGH. The complaint states that Pl and Def were married in Durham, NC on 20 February 1918, and on 21 February of the same year Def abandoned Pl without cause and had since refused to live with her. She believed that Def committed adultery with one Louise BOYD and with other women unknown to Pl. Pl had been a resident of Wake Co. for 2 years prior to this suit. Frank KING and Junius COUNSEL were summoned to testify for the Pl.

CROCKER, Miranda vs. Joseph CROCKER
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1912. Pl alleged that she and Def were married on 13 October 1898, or thereabouts, and that Def left Pl during the month of September 1908. During the year 1907 Def committed adultery with various women at the house of one Miss WORTHAM on West St. in Raleigh. Def was not found in Wake Co. and was believed to have left the state.

CRONE, Bertha vs. Richard T. CRONE
There is no decision in this case. During January term of court 1901, Pl alleged that after the couple's marriage, Def remained with Pl about 3 weeks and during this time repeatedly cursed and abused her, then abandoned her. In an accompanying affidavit, Pl stated that she was 18 years old and had resided in Raleigh all of her life and that Def was 21 and had resided there for more than 6 years. She further stated that when she was only 12 years old, Def began paying attention to her and continued his attentions for about 3 years, after which they became engaged. Pl postponed the marriage several times. Prior to May 1901 Def always treated Pl with propriety and kindness but then began to make improper advances. He persisted in these advances in spite of her resistance and threatened to kill himself if she refused him. She finally submitted to him and became pregnant about the end of May 1901. They were married in Wake Co. on 10 August of that year. On 11 October 1901 Def had a summons issued against Pl, which complaint was false. Def accused her of being "nothing but a factory girl" and stated that "his family was opposed to the marriage, that he couldn't go against his family, that he was in love with another girl whom he intended to marry as soon as he could get a divorce from Pl _ (He) has continuously slandered Pl by circulating reports charging her with incontinency and has attempted to persuade certain lewd and disreputable boys in the city of Raleigh to declare that they had had improper relations with Pl and has sought in every way to humiliate and disgrace her." Pl stated that she was in very destitute circumstances, in poor health and about to give birth to Def's child in 2½ to 3 months, and was entirely dependent on her father who was employed in a cotton mill at $6.00 per week. Prior to her pregnancy Pl was employed at the Raleigh Cotton Mills at $9.00 per week. Her mother was an invalid. Def was said to be a first class locomotive engineer earning $90.00 per month. In 1930 Bertha K. CRONE appeared in court again against Richard T. CRONE, suing for divorce and alimony for herself and their 3 children.

CURTIS, Ann vs. Henry CURTIS
The marriage was dissolved during August term of court 1879, and custody of the couple's children was awarded to Pl. The Pl stated that she and Def were married in 1866 and that they had 5 children together. They lived together in Wake Co. NC until some time during the year 1875, when Def abandoned Pl and "took up with one Lizzie JONES" with whom he had since been living and with whom he had several children. Pl was allowed to pursue this case as a pauper, as she was unable to pay costs.

CURTIS, Matilda vs. William A. CURTIS
The marriage was dissolved during April term of court 1909, and custody of one minor child was awarded to Pl. The complaint alleges that Pl and Def were married in Waynesville, NC in July 1906. Pl had resided in NC for 2 years preceding this action. Two days after Pl and Def were married, Def left Pl and had not lived with her since. During the years 1907 and 1908, Def committed adultery with one Mag. MORSE in the city of Raleigh. There is no mention of the child in the complaint or proceedings.

CUTTS, Mary Lillie vs. William Vance CUTTS
The divorce was granted during July special term of court 1902, and Pl was awarded custody of the couple's child. Pl alleged that she and Def were married about 20 September 1896. About 3 May 1897 Def abandoned Pl and had lived apart from her since that time. The couple had 1 child, Willie Vaughn CUTTS, about 4½ years old at the time of the complaint. Def was not found in the state.

DARR, Raymond vs. Minnie DARR
The divorce was granted by the court on 13 March 1920. Pl alleged that he and Def were married on 5 February 1913 in Wake Co. and lived together until April 1919. During the spring of 1919, Def committed adultery with one Frank MULLER in the city of Raleigh.

DAVID, Frank vs. Julia Ann DAVID
The divorce was granted during October term of court 1908. The complaint alleges that Pl and Def were married in NC about 20 years prior to this action. They had no children. "He has always endeavored to conduct himself in a proper and becoming manner and especially so while he lived with his said wife, who was a very peculiar woman of an uncertain temper and disposition, difficult to get along with any person and now living entirely alone," stated Frank DAVID's attorney. Def and his wife had lived apart for 10 consecutive years at the time of this action. The summons to Julia Ann DAVID was served in Durham Co.

DAVIS, Annie vs. Abram DAVIS
There is no final judgment in this case. Pl, Annie DAVIS, alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. in 1865 and had resided there ever since. In 1877 or 1878, Def left Pl because Def was living in adultery with one Ferebee JONES, and in 1880, he committed adultery with another woman. Pl had not lived with Def since she left him in 1877. Washington WHITE, Alfred RANDALL, and Robt. JORDAN were summoned to give evidence in the case, as well as Ned FINCH and his wife, Geo. BRYANT, and Caroline LEE, all of Cary. Def stated that since the commencement of this action it had come to his knowledge that Pl had committed adultery in Wake Co. with one Guildford BRANCH both before and after January 1881. After Pl left his house, he did not know where she was for a long time, but lately he had been informed that she was living in adultery with divers men in Durham. Ever since his wife abandoned him he had been anxious to procure some proof of her guilt but had not been able to do so until within the last few months; however, the statutory limitation of 6 months had not yet expired so as to enable him to file a countersuit.

DAVIS, Beulah vs. B. M. DAVIS
This appears to be the same couple as the parties in the previous case. Pl alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. on 13 May 1904 and lived together until some time during 1906, when Def abandoned Pl. They had lived apart since that time and had no children. Def was not found in Wake Co.

DAVIS, Beulah vs. Bud DAVIS
On motion of Pl's attorney, Chas. HARRIS, a judgment of non-suit was entered during April court term 1918. Pl, in her complaint, alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. in May 1904. They lived together for 2 years, after which Def deserted Pl. Since the separation, and at the time of the complaint, Def lived with one Lillie CROCKET in or near the town of Henderson, Vance Co. NC. He had also committed adultery with various other persons unknown to Pl.

DAVIS, John M. vs. Ora E. DAVIS
Divorce was granted during ____ term of court 1917, and custody of the couple's minor child, Catherine Marguerite DAVIS, was awarded to her father. Pl stated that he and Def were both residents of Wake Co. and that he had been a resident of the state for more than 2 years. Pl and Def were married on 16

November 1912 in the town of Laurinburg, Scotland Co. NC. About 28 December 1915 Def, as the Pl believed, committed adultery with one James R. FINCH, in the city of Raleigh. He further believed that Def had on other occasions committed adultery with the said James FINCH and with sundry other persons. Pl and Def had 1 child, age about 3 in 1917, and Pl requested custody of the child.

DAVIS, Jonah R. vs. Laura DAVIS
The divorce was granted during August term of court 1880 and Pl was to recover costs of the action from the Def. Pl stated that he and Def were married about 23 April 1873 in Wake Co. In the year 1873, Pl believed, Def committed adultery with one John SAWYER. During the fall of 1873 and in the spring of 1874, and up until 1877, Def had continued to engage in illicit relations with various men in Salisbury, Rowan Co. NC and in Raleigh. About 1878 Def left the state and had since then resided in Philadelphia, PA, living with a man to whom she claimed to be married.

DAVIS, Leslie L. vs. Irene E. DAVIS
The divorce was granted during June term of court 1920. Pl stated that he and Def were married in Raleigh on 5 August 1919 and lived together until about 15 December of year. During November and early December of 1919, Def committed adultery with a number of men in and near the city of Raleigh. Pl had been a resident of NC for more than 2 years and was a resident of Wake Co.

DAVIS, Lucian vs. Jennie DAVIS
The divorce was granted during April term of court 1919. Pl stated that he and Def were married in Wake Co. in the year 1896. They lived together until 1905, when Def abandoned Pl, and they had lived apart since that time. Pl had resided in Wake Co. all of his life.

DAVIS, Maggie vs. Sam DAVIS
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1912. Pl alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. during the year 1897, and Pl had resided in NC for 2 years prior the this action. Def abandoned Pl some time during the year 1901. The couple had 4 children, Lula DAVIS, Clarence DAVIS, Lawrence DAVIS, and Stanford Lee DAVIS, all minors. During the years 1903 through 1905, Def committed adultery with one Sylvia LEACH alias Sylvia HINTON, in the city of Raleigh. The Def was not found in Wake Co.

DAVIS, Mollie vs. George H. DAVIS
Pl failed to appear when the case was called, and the action was dismissed. However, the judge did hear a motion for alimony pendente lite, and Def was ordered to pay $5.00 a week to the Pl. Neither of these orders is dated. Pl alleged on 21 September 1920 that she and Def were married in New Hanover Co. NC on 8 January 1903. They lived together until some time during 1907, when Def began to drink almost constantly and was frequently intoxicated. While intoxicated, Def often and repeatedly cursed and abused Def, threatening to kill her. He drove her from home, and she was compelled to spend most of her time with her sister. Eventually Def begged her to return, promising that he would stop drinking and would treat her kindly. In a few days he began drinking again. This pattern continued for several years. In 1915 or 1916 Def was convicted of the larceny of a turkey and was sentenced to the public roads of Wake Co. for 3 months. He served his time and returned to the same pattern of behavior. Entering the US Army in September 1917, Def served until January 1918, when he returned home and resumed his old ways. In December 1918 Def became violent and drew a hatchet on his wife, when she again fled. For this assault, Def was arrested and tried in the Police Court of the City of Raleigh; judgment was suspended on the condition that he would not communicate with Pl and would in no way interfere with her. He subsequently declared that he had been converted, joined the church, and began living with Pl again. He kept sober, attended church, and kept up a good public appearance but “was at all times vile when alone with Pl” although he contributed to her support. On 21 August 1920, when the Def again became intoxicated, he was arrested at an assignation house in Raleigh and tried again for public drunkenness. He was arrested again on 9 September of the same year for the same offence; this time he was convicted and was required to enter into a bond to keep the peace toward Pl.

C.R.099.604.14

DAVIS, Nannie F. vs. Lee R. DAVIS
The divorce was granted on 31 January 1920. The complaint alleges that Pl and Def were married in the state of SC in the year 1911. They lived together until May 1915, when the Def abandoned Pl. About 15 May 1915, and before and since that date, Def committed adultery with various women in the city of Raleigh. Pl was a resident of Wake Co. and had been for more than 2 years preceding this action. The summons gives Lee DAVIS's occupation of Conductor, S.A.L. RR Co. L. T. HOWARD of Norlina NC was summoned to give evidence in the case.

DAVIS, Sarah vs. John DAVIS
This file contains only the complaint, dated during March term of court 1819. "Sarah DAVIS, wife of John DAVIS Esquire of the Co. of Wake by her prochein ami Elizah RIMBER (KIMBER?) of the said Co., farmer, complaining, humbly sheweth unto your Honor C "That your oratrix is the lawful wife of the aforesaid John DAVIS, That to the said John she your oratrix was married in the Co. of Wake in the month of August in the year 1812 and by whom she has had nine children all of whom are now alive. That to the said John as her Husband she did bring and give a large and valuable Estate Real and Person to wit Land Negroes and Household furniture as well as stock of various kinds amounting in all to the value of several thousand Dollars, of all of which the said John is (as the husband of your oratrix), now in the full possession use and occupation, and that the said John and your oratrix did for a long time live in peace, comfort and conjugal harmony and in the enjoyment of as much happiness as is common to people in a married state who love and are beloved, and being so, are anxious to contribute each to the felicity and good of the other, and that during such the coverture of your oratrix she has been to the said John an affectionate, a tender, a faithful, a virtuous and obedient wife, conforming herself in all things as near as might be to his the said John's lawful will, wishes, and desires and at all times making his commands the rule of her conduct as his wife. That without any cause whatsoever and without any provocation given to him the said John for the so doing he has withdrawn the comfort of his society as well as his the said John's protection from your oratrix, and having betaken himself to lewd, adulterous and immoral courses and habits of life has deprived her of his affections and protection so fully and completely that she is now shelterless, houseless, comfortless any matter (?) thing whereon to subsist or support life except as it is furnished to her by the Hospitable, and the Charitable, nor hath she a pillow whereon to lay her head or any asylum wherein to receive shelter and consolation in her unmerited afflictions. The said John having with great and repeated acts of violence as well as with force and arms and threats and menaces of taking the life of and killing your oratrix offered done and uttered at divers many times and hath shut out, expelled and driven her from her home and from the comfort and society of her children and has reduced her to struggling with accumulated misery, and penury and undergoing every privation to which human nature can be exposed while the said John is in the full enjoyment possession and use of the large productive and valuable estate He the said John got and obtained by and with your oratrix when she and the said John intermarried as before is stated, Which property your oratrix humbly suggests is spent by the said John in immoral and improper pursuits and courses C "Wherefore she your oratrix humbly beseeches your Honor to decree to her such alimony and separate maintenance as will be commensurate with the supplying of her wants Having a regard to her former state in life and the fortune the said John hath obtained by and with your oratrix as before is stated, and that your Honor will farther decree the delivering or restoring her children to her that she may have the comfort, solace and aid of their society and your oratrix as in duty bound will ever pray C and further prays that a writ or writs of subpoena may issue, directed to the said John DAVIS commanding him under a certain pain and penalty therein expressed to be and appear, before your honor at the next Court etc. etc. H. M. DREW, Sol. for Compt."

DAWSON, Catherine vs. Isaac DAWSON
There is only a petition in this file as well, dated Autumn term 1831. The petition reads as follows: "To the Honorable the Judge of the Superior Court of law for the Co. aforesaid, the petition of Catharine J. DAWSON, wife of Isaac DAWSON, late of the Co. aforesaid humbly represents, that she was born and raised in Wake Co. and has ever resided in the same, and about 8 years past became married to the said Isaac DAWSON. That some short time after the marriage the said Isaac became unkind to your petitioner and treated her with such cruelty, that for the preservation of her life she was compelled to take refuge under the protection of her relations where she remained for about 12 months, that during this time, the said Isaac was in the practice of uttering the most horrible threats against your petitioner, and she was in daily expectation of being assailed by him, if by any means he could obtain the opportunity. That some time after this that is to say about 12 months after this separation the said Isaac took himself off to the state of Tennessee and shortly thereafter became married to another woman, by whom he has several children, and with whom he is now living, as your petitioner is informed and verily believes. Your petitioner states that she has long since abandoned all hope, that her said husband will ever become reconciled to her; or treat her in any respect as becomes a husband. She therefore prays your Honor to grant a divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony by which they were united and she as in duty bound will ever pray." [Signed] Katharine J. DAWSON

DAY, Harvey vs. Josephine DAY
The divorce was granted during second April term of court 1920. Pl alleged that he and Def were married in Raleigh on 28 February 1916. They lived together until August 1917, when Def abandoned Pl and committed adultery with one Snake WILLIAMS. Josephine DAY was not found within the state of NC.

DAY, Josephine vs. Harvey DAY
Pl failed to appear when the case was called, and the action was dismissed during September term of court 1919. Pl alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. on 20 February 1916 and lived together until some time during the month of August 1917 when Def abandoned Pl. Def had committed adultery with one Christine DAY in the city of Portsmouth, VA. Pl had been a resident of Wake Co. all her life.

DAY, Parthenia vs. W. E. DAY
The divorce was granted during February term of court 1907. Pl stated that she and Def were married in Wake Co. on 7 November 1888, and Def left Pl during the month of October 1902 and had not lived with her since. During the years 1902 to 1904, Def committed adultery with one Phoebe NELSON in the city of Durham. He had also committed adultery with several other women in the city of Raleigh. Horace JONES was summoned from Chapel Hill to give evidence in this case.

DEAN, Rilla vs. George DEAN
The marriage was declared null and void during July term of court 1912 and Pl Rilla DEAN was restored to all her marital rights as if said marriage ceremony had not been performed. She alleged in her complaint that "a ceremony of marriage was performed between plaintiff and defendant sometime during the year 1902 in Wake Co. As long as the couple lived together the Def was physically impotent and the marriage was not consummated." After the marriage ceremony the Def left Pl for several weeks, returned and stayed a few days, left again and remained away for several months. He continued this pattern until 1909, when he abandoned Pl for good. Pl is capable of having sexual relations, being the mother of several children born before the marriage ceremony. Def was 65 years old at the time of this marriage. George DEAN was summoned from Holly Springs [Wake Co.] and a deputy wrote "Gorge DEAN scip the co but he slip back Feb 17 1912 & I summond him."

DEBNAM, Francis vs. Columbus DEBNAM
The divorce was granted during July term of court 1892, and custody of the couple's 2 children was awarded to the Pl. She alleged that she and Def were married in Wake Co. in October 1879. Def separated from Pl in the year 1886 and had not lived with her since. Both had been residents of NC for more than 2 years. Def after separating from Pl lived in adultery with Ellen DONALDSON during month of October 1890, and in December he committed adultery with one Eliza BROWN. Neill McCOY and Nick TAYLOR, "both colored," were summoned to give evidence in the case.

WAKE COUNTY CEMETERY SURVEY LISTING BY TOWNSHIP (PT 5)

By Irene Kittinger, Coordinator

Continuing clockwise around the county, we come now to Holly Springs and Buckhorn townships in southwestern Wake. Cemeteries here and on around the county line on the west were the first ones in Wake affected by the population surge of recent decades. This predicament began with the idea for the Research Triangle Park, where many national companies now have headquarters, in a stretch between NC State University, UNC-Chapel Hill and Duke University. The planners knew well ahead that water supply and electric power had to be increased. Falls Lake in northwestern Wake was formed on the Neuse River, and to the southwest in Chatham County on the New Hope River came Jordan Lake, touching several water courses of western Wake. Finally, the Raleigh-Durham International Airport has necessitated constant expansion, not to mention more and wider roads most everywhere in the county. North Carolina is known for having more grave removals than anywhere in the USA.

Subsequently, many people have suffered the distress of family graveyards being condemned (legal term)–disrupted and supposedly removed. Or, there was no one that cared or knew what was happening. Some already had been destroyed by farming operation or other action. As more people delve into their family history, they may learn that an ancestral graveyard is no longer where it should be. This precedent, it seems, has given "open season" to those among us with the attitude that it doesn't matter or nobody wants to live next to a cemetery. But there are people who do live by one, and others who wish that they did – they consider a graveyard an asset. Those neighbors are very quiet!

Holly Springs and Buckhorn townships are in the area of the Harris Nuclear Plant. The plant itself is in Buckhorn whose waters to the east make up the bounds with Holly Springs. Creeks and branches were widened to river-size (Tom Jack, Thomas, Little White Oak, Big Branch's lower end, White Oak, Cary, and Jim Branch – a second Big Branch on the NE was not altered). Ancestral grounds are gone. About two dozen condemned graveyards were affected, some washed away while others could have stayed put. The remains of several hundred persons (or, their tombstone or fieldstone only) were moved – most to Collins Grove Baptist Church and nearby to the west, where Bethel Christian Church once stood.

Some new residents and visitors have said that such tampering with sacred soil is unheard of from whence they came. Small graveyards can be seen even amid the concrete of NYC! Are there not more reasons and ways in this age of technology to leave these grounds alone rather than allowing yet others to be needlessly treated like dirt? Is it not time to declare, "Enough is enough!"?

There is a best-kept secret in North Carolina: a graveyard on one's property is non-taxable – but only if recorded with survey/description. It is thus mapped and alerts future landowners, especially those who have no regard for the dead or to whom an old deed means nothing. Another thing: the graveyards that are tended to are more likely to be respected and left alone. The abandoned ones, with somebody's ancestors, are the ones that cause worry and are of concern.

Your comment, a specific query, or report of a family graveyard may be addressed to the coordinator:

HOLLY SPRINGS TOWNSHIP

Surrounded by Middle Creek and Swift Creek townships to the E, White Oak to the N and Buckhorn to the W, this township joins two counties on the S – Chatham for 1⅔ mi and Harnett. Starting S to N at Harnett, the eastern line is the most complex one in Wake, involving 11 state roads: 1121, 1101, 1110, 1111, 1399, 1393, 1301, 1390, 1389, 1305, and 1300. At 1010 the northern line starts W, drops S at 1303, then 1302, W again on 1301 to NC55, N to US1 and SW to Big Br. The western boundary is 95% water: S/SW via Big Branch and White Oak Creek (nuclear plant is to the W) up to SR1127 and on it .8 mi SE to Cary Creek, then flows SW. At Chatham Co. the line turns E, continuing E along Harnett Co., back to the start.

Surveyors/Reporters: Martin Winfree, Irma R. Holland, Louis Smith, Carl Holleman, John Clauser, Ed Mims, Calvin Ragan, Elva and Robert Parker, Anne Lydia Olive, Irene Kittinger. Some of these cemeteries are yet to be inventoried.
CP&L to CG: Destroyed/removed by Carolina Power & Light Co. to Collins Grove Church. See Buckhorn Township for those removed from there and now at Collins Grove.

BUCKHORN TOWNSHIP

This township is in the very southwest corner of Wake County, joining S and W with Chatham Co. and two townships – White Oak on the N/NE; Holly Springs on the E, the bounds being 95% water. This starts at Big Branch on US1 and flows SW into White Oak Ck. At SR1127 it goes SE for .9 mi to Cary Creek, thereon flowing SW to Chatham Co. Along Chatham W and then N, the line comes to Beaver Creek by which it begins the northerly bounds with White Oak Twp. At SR1163 the line turns SE to the RR's right-of-way, by which it goes .4 mi SW to SR1170 and thereon SE to US1 (no access). But the boundary itself is on US1 for ca .4 mi NE to the start at Big Branch.

Surveyors: Pat Beckwith, Irma R. Holland, Wallace Womble, Calvin Ragan, Kit and Irene Kittinger. Some cemeteries have yet to be inventoried.

WAKE COUNTY REGISTER OF DEATHS JULY 1887 - FEBRUARY 1904 IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH

Transcribed by Mary Alice Hale

C.R. 099.605.2 The following records were transcribed from the first of four volumes of death records. Each record extends across two pages in 14 columns. The contents of the columns are as follows:

Column 1 – Record number from the Death Register. Records are numbered in multiples of about 350.
Column 2 – Year, Month and day of death. Symbols refer to nationality if other than American. This information is shown in Column 14 of the original document.
African; + Canadian; * English; $ German; ^ Irish; = Jew.
Column 3 – Name of deceased.
Column 4 –
Age: d=days; h=hours; m=months; y=years; w=weeks
Sex: M=Male; F=Female
Color: C=Colored; W=White
Column 5 – Place of death. Street address, ward number if within the city of Raleigh. Some clerks used the letters O.S to indicate that the death occurred outside the city. City and state if death occurred in a place other than Raleigh.
Column 6 – Marital status:
M=Married; S=Single; W=Widow or Widower
Column 7 – Occupation
Column 8 – Cause of death.
Column 9 – Where interred.
Column 10 – Physician's name.
Column 11 – Undertaker's name.
Column 12 – Affiant. Numbers appearing in this column refer to the magistrate's name which is found in Column 13 of the original.

DID YOUR ANCESTORS JUST DISAPPEAR?
LIST OF EPIDEMICS BY YEAR

In case you ever wondered why a large number of your ancestors disappeared during a certain period in history, this might help. Epidemics have always had a great influence on people – and thus influencing, as well, the genealogists trying to trace them. Many cases of people disappearing from records can be traced to dying during an epidemic or moving away from the affected area. Some of the major epidemics in the United States are listed below.
