Lazarus Lizard

This sad little lizard told me that
He was a brontosaurus on his Mother's side. I did not laugh;
People who boast of ancestry often have little Else to sustain them. Humoring them costs
Nothing and adds to happiness in a world
In which happiness is in short supply.

School Census – Raleigh Township 1897

Abstracted by Elizabeth Dees

Source: North Carolina State Archives C.R.099.926.5

The North Carolina Constitution of 1868 stipulated that the General Assembly provide for a general and uniform system of public schools, tuition free and open to all children between the ages of six and twenty-one years of age. This was to be done by "taxation or otherwise." A statewide poll tax of $1.05 for each taxable poll between the ages of 21 and 50 years was to be supplemented by the Assembly for this purpose. School was not compulsory, nor did the public system extend beyond eight years until the twentieth century. There followed a long series of Amendments; failure to provide funds and general public apathy that left financing largely in the hands of the counties and townships. A deeply rooted feeling that this public education was a form of charity was hard to dislodge.

In 1876 a statewide law requiring the schools be graded was enacted. The same year Raleigh Township consolidated into one district, and the Old Governors Palace became the public school for all of Raleigh. This building was located at the foot of Fayetteville street where the Memorial Auditorium presently stands. By 1885 a bond issue allowed the purchase of this site, and the old Palace was razed and a new school, the Centennial School, was built. Almost immediately, overcrowding was a problem and spare space on Fayetteville street had to be rented to house the overflow. One hundred and twenty-five boys were transferred to these rooms, and co-education was still a problem with many, particularly in the upper grades. Murphy School was completed in 1887, a nine room school with an auditorium.

Overcrowding still forced the schools to operate on a double shift, 9:00-12:00 and 12:00-2:30. Attendance was poor in 1891 with a total enrollment of 1,035 and average daily attendance was 646. Parents still did not take education as seriously as they would later, and it hardly seemed worthwhile to dress a child up to send him to school for such a short time.

In Memoriam
Nellie N. Semones

We mourn the passing of our former member, Nellie N. Semones, a certified genealogical records searcher and was a speaker for our sixth meeting held in September of 1982. Her topic was Finding Genealogical Proof, Avoiding Errors In Your Research. She also taught genealogical classes and served in other leadership roles where she was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

She retired two years ago when her health began to fail and her smiling, friendly face has been missed by all who knew her. We extend sincere sympathy to her husband and family.

Reminiscences of Grandmother Mary Ann Towles

Abstracted by Lynne W. Belvin

[Note: In preparing Mayflower papers for a client, Mrs. Gail Perkins Tilman, of Greensboro, North Carolina, I found some very interesting facts about Raleigh and Wake County and wanted to share them with you. While some of this information could not be documented and used as proof for Mayflower, it is still valuable for family history. It was written in a family bible 20 August 1897.]

I am in my eighty second year. When I was two years old, my parents moved to Raleigh, North Carolina where Father was engaged in the mercantile business. He went to Petersburg, Virginia to purchase some goods and went out on a boat with friends, and not knowing how to swim, was drowned when the boat overturned.[1]

Uncle William SHAW had a store on Fayetteville Street in Raleigh, and his dwelling house was on Wilmington Street. It was a large three story building with a beautiful garden, a large front, and a back yard. In one corner of the front yard, a big oak spread its branches over a large portion of the yard. Back of our lot was the Baptist grove.[2] In the center of the grove stood a small wooden church, lighted with tallow candles in tin scones. The candles were lighted by a maiden lady, Miss Lucinda BRIGGS.

I was eight years old when General LaFAYETTE visited Raleigh and everyone went to see him. Uncle carried by brother and me. It was a proud day for me when he shook hands with me, and laying his hand on my head, said, “God bless you.”

I can remember my sixth year in school, trotting along by the side of Miss Susan NYE, (Later Mrs. HUTCHINSON) who taught in the Female Academy which stood where the Governor’s Mansion now stands.

What changes I have seen in the four-score years of my life! I saw the burning of the old State House, when the marble statue of Washington was injured; the introduction of railroads, telephones, telegraphs, gas and electric lights, banks, paints, improvements everywhere in Art, Science and Education.

From The Mail Bag

Our Member, Roger B. FOUSHEE has brought to our attention that in the Surname Index in our Wake Treasures Journal, Volume 1, Number 2, Summer, 1991 on Page 7 are two errors that have caused correspondence to his home that is not his surname. His name FOUSHEE was printed FOUSBEE. Also the name CHEEK was printed with an S as CHEEKS. Our apologies to Roger and hope this will straighten things out.

[1] Father’s name was Robert CALLUM, born in the Highlands of Scotland. Date of death was 18 July 1818.
[2] The Baptist Grove is now what is known as Moore’s Square, across from the old City Market.

State Pensions to Invalids and Widows

In 1784, the General Assembly of North Carolina passed "An Act for the relief of such persons as have been disabled by wounds, or rendered incapable of procuring for themselves and families subsistence in the militia service of this state, and providing for the widows and orphans of such as have died".

These pension papers listed below are located in Treasurer's and Comptroller's Papers, Military Papers, Boxes 25 through 30. These can be ordered from the NC State Archives. The following came from the Military Collection, Troop Returns 1747-1859. The data is given as follows: Box number, Date, Folder #, & contents.

- 2-1772-44 Wake County: "Field Return of the Regiment of Militia for Wake County, at a General Muster, the Sixth Day of October 1772".
- 2-1773-47 Wake County: "Field Return of the Regiment of Militia for Wake County at a General Muster the 6th Day of October 1773".

They were caught by the limbs of the tree and both were crushed to the ground… Both were held down unable to extricate themselves or to move when they were discovered by some colored people on the place who had heard the tree fall and who came and rescued them. Both were carried in to Mr. BRIGGS' house in an unconscious condition and medical aid was quickly summoned. Both lay in an unconscious state for several hours, and so critical was their condition that is was impossible for the physicians to make any examination of them sufficient to ascertain the real extent of their injuries. Last night, however Johnny BRIGGS revived sufficiently to be able to speak, but Carl STONE at last advices was still unconscious. The condition of both is regarded as critical.

INSTRUCTIONS.

1. This return shall be made by every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and by every person residing in the United States, though not a citizen thereof, having a net income of $3,000 or over for the taxable year, and also by every nonresident alien deriving income from property owned and business, trade, or profession carried on in the United States by him.

2. When an individual by reason of minority, sickness or other disability, or absence from the United States, is unable to make his own return, it may be made for him by his duly authorized representative.

3. The normal tax of 1 per cent shall be assessed on the total net income less the specific exemption of $3,000 or $4,000 as the case may be. (For the year 1913, the specific exemption allowable is $2,500 or $3,333.33, as the case may be.) If, however, the normal tax has been deducted and withheld on any part of the income at the source, or if any part of the income is received as dividends upon the stock or from the net earnings of any corporation, etc., which is taxable upon its net income, such income shall be deducted from the individual's total net income for the purpose of calculating the amount of income on which the individual is liable for the normal tax of 1 per cent by virtue of this return. (See page 1, line 7.)

4. The additional or super tax shall be calculated as stated on page 1.

5. This return shall be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the individual resides if he has no other place of business, otherwise in the district in which he has his principal place of business; or in case the person resides in a foreign country, then with the collector for the district in which his principal business is carried on in the United States.

6. This return must be filed on or before the first day of March succeeding the close of the calendar year for which return is made.

7. The penalty for failure to file the return within the time specified by law is $20 to $1,000. In case of refusal or neglect to render the return within the required time (except in cases of sickness or absence), 50 per cent shall be added to amount of tax assessed. In case of false or fraudulent return, 100 per cent shall be added to such tax, and any person required by law to make, render, sign, or verify any return who makes any false or fraudulent return or statement with intent to defeat or evade the assessment required by this section to be made shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding $2,000 or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court, with the costs of prosecution.

8. When the return is not filed within the required time by reason of sickness or absence of the individual, an extension of time, not exceeding 30 days from March 1, within which to file such return, may be granted by the collector, provided an application therefor is made by the individual within the period for which such extension is desired.

9. This return properly filled out must be made under oath or affirmation. Affidavits may be made before any officer authorized by law to administer oaths. If before a justice of the peace or magistrate; not using a seal, a certificate of the clerk of the court as to the authority of such officer to administer oaths should be attached to the return.

10. Expense for medical attendance, store accounts, family supplies, wages of domestic servants, cost of board, room, or house rent for family or personal use, are not expenses that can be deducted from gross income. In case an individual owns his own residence he can not deduct the estimated value of his rent, neither shall he be required to include such estimated rental of his home as income.

11. The farmer, in computing the net income from his farm for his annual return, shall include all moneys received for produce and animals sold, and for the wool and hides of animals slaughtered, provided such wool and hides are sold, and he shall deduct therefrom the sums actually paid as purchase money for the animals sold or slaughtered during the year.

When animals were raised by the owner and are sold or slaughtered he shall not deduct their value as expenses or loss. He may deduct the amount of money actually paid as expense for producing any farm products, live stock, etc. In deducting expenses for repairs on farm property the amount deducted must not exceed the amount actually expended for such repairs during the year for which the return is made. (See page 3, item 6.) The cost of replacing tools or machinery is a deductible expense to the extent that the cost of the new articles does not exceed the value of the old.

12. In calculating losses, only such losses as shall have been actually sustained and the amount of which has been definitely ascertained during the year covered by the return can be deducted.

13. Persons receiving fees or emoluments for professional or other services, as in the case of physicians or lawyers, should include all actual receipts for services rendered in the year for which return is made, together with all unpaid accounts, charges for services, or contingent income due for that year, if good and collectible.

14. Debts which were contracted during the year for which return is made, but found in said year to be worthless, may be deducted from gross income for said year, but such debts can not be regarded as worthless until after legal proceedings to recover the same have proved fruitless, or it clearly appears that the debtor is insolvent. If debts contracted prior to the year for which return is made were included as income in return for year in which said debts were contracted, and such debts shall subsequently prove to be worthless, they may be deducted under the head of losses in the return for the year in which such debts were charged off as worthless.

15. Amounts due or accrued to the individual members of a partnership from the net earnings of the partnership, whether apportioned and distributed or not, shall be included in the annual return of the individual.

16. United States pensions shall be included as income.

17. Estimated advance in value of real estate is not required to be reported as income, unless the increased value is taken up on the books of the individual as an increase of assets.

18. Costs of suits and other legal proceedings arising from ordinary business may be treated as an expense of such business, and may be deducted from gross income for the year in which such costs were paid.

19. An unmarried individual or a married individual not living with wife or husband shall be allowed an exemption of $3,000. When husband and wife live together they shall be allowed jointly a total exemption of only $4,000 on their aggregate income. They may make a joint return, both subscribing thereto, or if they have separate incomes, they may make separate returns; but in no case shall they jointly claim more than $4,000 exemption on their aggregate income.

20. In computing net income there shall be excluded the compensation of all officers and employees of a State or any political subdivision thereof, except when such compensation is paid by the United States Government.
