Index 71

Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc. (WCGS) was organized in April 1982 to promote genealogical study and research, to serve as a medium of exchange of genealogical or historical information, to encourage the preservation of genealogical or historical records, and to provide cultural, educational, and social opportunities involving genealogy. In 1983 WCGS was incorporated as a non-profit organization under the laws of the State of North Carolina.

WCGS meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month except June, July, August, and December. Meetings begin at 7 pm; visitors are welcome. For current meeting topics and location, see our web site <http://www.rootsweb.com/~ncwcgs/>.

Please see our website for a current list of officers and committee contacts.

Membership is open to anyone with an interest in the purposes of WCGS as stated above. Annual dues are $20 for individuals and institutions and $25 for families (two people, related by blood or marriage, residing at the same address). A membership form is available on our web site.

Wake Treasures is produced twice a year. Members may access the society journal via the Members' Only portion of the website. The quarterly newsletter, WCGS Updates, also is accessed via the Members' Only portion of the website. Members may publish an unlimited number of free queries in the newsletter.

Postal Mail: All correspondence should be sent to WCGS, PO Box 17713, Raleigh, NC 27619-7713.

Online: Send email to <wakecogen@gmail.com>. You can subscribe to our society mail list from our web site. Find us on the web at <http://www.rootsweb.com/~ncwcgs/>.

Change of Address: Please notify WCGS of any change of address (postal or e-mail) as soon as it is known so that WCGS communications will reach you in a timely manner.

Wake Treasures is the journal of the WCGS and is free to members. Semiannual issues are identified as Winter/Spring and Summer/Fall. Past issues of Wake Treasures are sold in volume sets. An order form is available on our website or can be requested via postal mail.

We endeavor to regularly publish primary source documents with historical or genealogical significance for Wake County, North Carolina. We will also publish primary source documents from related counties if there is no genealogical or historical society serving that county. We welcome articles about methodology and research experience as well as articles portraying Wake County residents, places, and events of the past. We seek a balance of time periods and hope to address the needs of both new and experienced genealogists.

Proposals and submissions may be sent by email or postal mail. References used to compile an article must be included. Depending on the nature of a submission, minor editing may be applied, but no substantive changes will be made. Errors in original documents that are transcribed should not be corrected, but notations may be made if they are clearly indicated.

Neither WCGS nor the Journal Committee shall be held responsible for the accuracy of submitted articles. This is the sole responsibility of the contributor. Documented content corrections that are submitted to the Editor will appear in a later issue.

Permission to reproduce or quote from an article published in any issue of Wake Treasures must be obtained in writing from the author or authors. Write to the author in care of WCGS.

BOOK ANNOUNCEMENTS!

Heritage of Wake County, Volumes I and II

Test your knowledge of the history of Wake County, NC. Did you know that in 1905, Wake County Savings Bank opened in a former elevator shaft, gaining it notoriety as the smallest bank in the United States (and quite possibly the world) at that time? The county and its commercial ventures have grown quite a bit since then.

Now, the next volume in the history of Wake County, Wake, Capital County of North Carolina Vol. II: Reconstruction to 1920, by K. Todd Johnson and Elizabeth Reid Murray, has been published. It is currently available from the Olivia Raney Local History Library and many area book stores. Vol. I which covers the period up to 1871 is also available. First published in 1983, this title has been out of print for many years. These books are the best reference works for information about Wake County's history due to the extensive research conducted by Elizabeth Reid Murray and the exhaustive indices that allow easy access to any name or event of note in Wake's history.

Books may be ordered from the Olivia Raney Local History Library. Contact Karen-Marie Allen at (919) 250-1229 or email karen.allen@co.wake.nc.us.

ESTATES RECORDS IN THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE ARCHIVES

By Debbi Blake
North Carolina State Archives

While maybe not a Holy Grail, an ancestor's estate record is still one of the most coveted of original documents.

An estate is a person's interest in lands or property and, in the law, is a complex subject. For our purposes, an estate is the property of a deceased person who died with or without leaving a will. Most often it is someone who died without a will and the state of North Carolina settles the estate for him/her. An estate settlement's usefulness to a family historian cannot be understated or undervalued. Even if an ancestor has left a will, it is a good idea to check on whether or not there is an estate record. In the event that the will was disputed in some way, there will likely be an estate record concerning the proceedings.

An estate settlement can sometimes take several years to process and creates a voluminous amount of records dealing with the property of the deceased. Various documents can be included in an estate settlement. Among the documents that may be present are divisions, inventories, accounts of sales, widow's petitions for dower, bonds, appointments of guardians, and accounts of administrators/trixes. When the papers were originally arranged by an archivist, they were placed in the order in which the papers would have been generated. Over time, as researchers used the files, unfortunately, the order has often been lost.

Due to the propensity in most families to name several individuals the same name, it is important to read all the estates for a given surname. Researchers can often find multiple generations of family by doing this. It is possible, also, that two men by the same name could have interfiled estates records or, conversely, there might be two estates for the same man if something suggested to the arranging archivist that these could be two different men. The arranging archivist is rarely an expert on a particular family; a family historian will almost always know more specifics.

Information that may be gleaned from an estate file is varied and valuable, and great care should be taken in the analysis of the papers. A list of information that could be learned from estates papers would include: wife's name and, perhaps, if she has remarried; children's names and what portions of the estate they inherit; whether or not one of the children is deceased (in which case his/her heirs will be named); names of children's spouses; occupation and/or relative wealth of the deceased; approximate date (within 3 months) of death for the deceased; relative age of the children; who might have various family heirlooms, such as Bibles; location of the "home place"; what debts he owed or was owed; who the neighbors were (they are probably the buyers at the estate sale); what crops or livestock were owned; whether certain children were educated or apprenticed; where the children may be living at the time of death; who made the coffin; names, ages and sex of slaves; age or health of the deceased prior to his death; and ownership of property in another county or state.

Keep in mind that it is a rare and serendipitous estate file that contains all of the above-mentioned papers; such a file might well be worth dancing in the streets! Generally, what the researcher finds is a varied group of papers in any of a zillion combinations of papers. That is why careful analysis is so important; you may actually have more than you think in the four pieces of paper in your ancestor's file.

A few tips regarding estates records may be in order. Estates records can take many forms:

- The loose papers are the most helpful, but there are several other types of records that may contain additional, similar or corroborating information.
- The inheritance laws changed over time, so it is important to study the law for the time period in which you are interested.
- "Child" and "heir" are not the same thing—a person's heirs may or may not be his children—they might be his siblings.
- Some live people left estates records—generally in the case of incompetence.

 Copyright ® Wake County Genealogical Society

- If, in the inventory of a sale you see that a Bible was purchased, it is worth doing that person's genealogy to determine where the Bible may be located today.

- If the decedent owned property in other counties it may be worth checking the records in the other counties.

- Black's Law Dictionary will help you define unfamiliar terms and may give you additional information about the estate settlement, as well as clues to other sources of information.

- And, finally, as is true for all primary documents, not all of the generated documents have survived.

While most estates records are county records, there are estates records in some unexpected places. State agency records that could contain them are Secretary of State, Colonial Court, District Superior Court, Supreme Court, and Treasurer's and Comptroller's. Some private collections could have records related to an estate, for example, a lawyer's copy of a document.

Most counties have a series, usually a large series, of loose estates papers, but some counties do not. Johnston County, for example, has a few boxes of estates, but many, many volumes of estates. These volumes are among the few that are thoroughly indexed. The card file that indexes them is located in the Search Room. Gaston and Sampson counties have a larger series of volumes, as well. Unexpectedly, these volumes are part of the Special Proceedings series rather than estates. Behind the reference desk in the Search Room the staff has lists of the decedents in these volumes.

Estates records are valuable documents indeed for genealogists and should be among the first four types of public records that are researched. In some cases, such papers are more valuable than wills since a will can include such terms as my wife and my children without naming the individuals. Researchers should definitely research and study estates papers since they are one of the more information-rich series of records at the North Carolina State Archives.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' RECORDS

[Editor's Note: This document was original published in the WCGS newsletter which was the precursor to the current journal. It is reprinted here to enable researchers to access this information.]

The following are abstracts from the box of "Wake County "Insolvent Debtors 1800-1837 (broken series)." The box is located at the N.C. State Archives' search room, with call number CR 099.914.11.

From the folder "Insolvent debtors 1800, 1803," there is a document showing the following abstracted information:

"… We or either of us promise to pay Thomas Taylor Guardian to James Ridley … Seventy nine Dollars and Twenty Cents with Interest from the date, It being for value of him rec'd …" Dated 18 March 1800.

Witness	Nicholas Tompson?
D. Hinton	Benj. Haver? (House?)
	Rubin N? (his mark) Jackson

The back of this document says "Thomas Taylor vs Nicholas Thompson Guard. Note." and "Nicholas Thompson To James Ridley Note 79.20 cents."

Another document in that folder shows that Burwell Evans swears he has no land, money, stock or estate, real or personal, in his possession … "of the value of the debt, with which I am charged in Execution…"

He also swears that he has not directly or indirectly sold or disposed of land, money, goods, stocks, debts, securities, contracts or estate (as a method of receiving any profit or of defrauding any creditor or creditors to whom he is indebted).

Burwell (his mark, a "B") Evans

Sworn in Wake County before Wm. Armstrong? on April 22, 1803.

From the file folder, "Insolvent debtors 1810" is this:

"One day after date we or either of us do promise to pay or cause to be paid unto Ransom House Guardian of Thompson J. (I.?) Coleman and Betsy Coleman orphans of Peter Coleman decd. the just and full sum of One hundred and fifty seven pounds nine Shilling and seven pence, for value Recd. as witness our Hands and Seals this 26 March 1810.

Witness	Saml.? Thompson (Seal)
Henry Moring?	P.? Thompson (Seal)
	John Walker (Seal)"

The back of that document shows the following:

"Sept. 15, 1810 I Indorse the within Not To Sherrod House as Witness my hand

Attest
Robert Williams	Ransom House"

"Mr. James Thompson Sir

Be pleased to take Notice that I do intend taking the benefit of the insolvent Act made for insolvent Debtors on the 28 Instant when you will attend and show cause if any why not

Wake Jail this 13th December 1811
Wiley Moss"

The back of this document shows that:

"Jacob Johnson made oath before us that he deliver Mr. James Thompson a true Copy of the within notice

Sworn to before us	R. Smith JP
this 28th Decr. 1811	Wm. Peace JP"

A similar note also dated 13 Dec. 1811 is to Mr. William Peck (Pech? Peek?) from Moss. In it Moss notifies him that he intends taking the benefit of the insolvent act and requests his attendance.

One note from Wiley explains that "… I have been within the confines of the common Prison of this County for the term of twenty days and was Lodged there for Debt …"

Another note, this from Peace and Smith, directs the keeper of the Wake County jail to bring "Willie Moss together with the writ or writs, execution or executions with which he is charged, before us in the Courthouse … immediately to be heard agreeably to his prayer of petition …" It is dated 28 Dec. 1811.

A long document with the same date notes that James Thompson "at those suit he (Willie) was imprisoned, and … William Peck another of his creditors" had been notified of the proceedings.

Moss takes an oath (apparently of standardized wording) declaring that "he hath not the worth of forty shillings, Sterling, money, in any worldly substance, either in debts owing to him or otherwise howsoever, over and besides his wearing apparel, working tools and arms for muster …" and that he hadn't disposed of property.

Justices Peace and Smith found that Moss "comes within the protection of the aforesaid act," and ordered that he be released immediately from prison and set at liberty.

Here is a continuation of abstracts from the box of "Wake County Insolvent Debtors 1800-1837 (broken series)." The box is located at the N.C. State Archives' search room, with call number CR 099.914.11.

From the file folder "Insolvent debtor 1814" there appears the following information:

A schedule of property of Zenos BRANSON (BRONSON?), levied on by William BOYLAN, Esquire, 25 Oct. 1814. List shows numerous items, including "Three Beds and Bedding & steads … Two Cows and one Yearling a Waggon & gear … 1/2 doz Blew chairs finished … twelve Boxes said to contain about one hundred unfinished wooden clocks … one piggin … a soap Jar … Candle Mould … a Safe & its Contents … one Barrel with Vinegar … a Safe in Kitchen and its Contents … a Cradle …

"Also one acre Lot situate on west side of Halifax Street Number two hundred and seventy two (272)

October 26th 1814 … one Pistoll & holster cap and regimental Coat …" The document mentions a lease on the "House and Lot on Hillsboro Street and occupied by said Bronson … Garden Vegetables Standing."

John T. (or I.?) PRIDE, signed.

From the file folder "Insolvent Debtors 1815:

One document dated Aug. 29, 1815 and addressed to Mr. John ROBERSON notifies him that on Sept. 11 Lewis NICHOLSON intends to take the benefit of the Insolvent Act.

Another document shows that Wake County Justices of the Peace Southy(?) BOND? and Mark COOKE? examined debtor Lewis NICHOLSON, who had been confined to the jail for 20 days.

Nicholson had been jailed by virtue of a writ of Ca Sa from the Wake County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, returnable to August Term, 1815 of the court, at the instance of John ROBERTSON.

Lewis NICHOLSON took the insolvent debtor's oath and signed the document. The Justices ordered that Nicholson be released.

In a related paper Lewis "Nicolson" and Joseph Delk asked Mark Cook, William Peace and Richard Smith, Justices of the Peace for Wake County, to discharge them from jail. In the document Delk's name was marked through. Southy Bond's name appears above the marked-through names of Wm. Peace and Richard Smith.

From the folder "Schedule of personal property for Z. Branson 1815: "

One document dated 30 June 1813 is an agreement between Wm. BOYLAN of Raleigh, N.C., and Zenos BRONSON (BRANSON?) of Mecklenburg, Va.

Boylan agrees to furnish by 20 Nov. "on one of his lots, near his present dwelling, a workshop … two stories … also a dwelling house, twenty four feet by eighteen feet, two stories, with three rooms, two fire places … also a suitable kitchen, stable, smokehouse 'and necessary –

"For the privilege of occupying the said Buildings, Zenos Bronson agrees to pay Wm. Boylan, yearly for three years, twelve per centum on the value of the Buildings and appurtenances, and six per cent on the value of the lot of ground, independent of the improvements …"

Under the agreement both Bronson and Boylan were to select one disinterested person to determine the value of the improvements and lot.

Another document, this dated 20 Aug. 1815, commands the Wake County sheriff to expose to sale to the highest bidder the personal property belonging to Zenos Bronson.

His property was levied on based on an execution at the instance of Henry H. COOKE to satisfy the sum of $75.00 ($95.00?) with interest from 1 March 1815 until paid, which Cooke recovered against Bronson for debt; also the additional sum of $12.47 1/2, which was adjudged and taxed for him to pay costs of the suit.

The sheriff is commanded to appear at Wake County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions in Raleigh on the third Monday November to turn over the sales proceeds.

One document itemizes numerous items of Bronson's personal property which the sheriff is to sell. Certain items are mentioned as being held by a Mr. COBB, and at the shop of John (Jehu?) SCOTT.

S. M. DUNN being duly sworn, says: That the above is a true list of the insolvents on the tax list of 1876. That he has in person or through his deputies being at the dwelling house or usual place of abode of each of the above named persons and could not there or elsewhere in the county, find property to discharge the taxes as returned unpaid; and that the persons reported insolvent were or at and during the time when by law he ought so have collected the same.

THE GENESIS OF WAKE COUNTY
By Marshall DeLancey HAYWOOD

When the editors of The Booklet requested me to prepare a sketch bearing in some way upon the history of Wake County, no particular period or epoch was assigned me. Thus having a space of more than one hundred and thirty years from which to choose my subject, I have decided that nothing more profitable can be selected than to start with "In the beginning" – and so I term this brief dissertation THE GENESIS OF WAKE COUNTY. I shall endeavor to tell something of the county's origin, of its colonial history, and of the part its people bore in the War of the Revolution, closing with the year 1783, when Great Britain acknowledged North Carolina (with her sister colonies) to be a "free, sovereign, and independent State." My narrative will close about ten years before the foundation of the City of Raleigh, which is the State capital of North Carolina and what our English ancestors would call the "shire-town" of Wake County.

Probably the first white man who ever set foot in the area which is now embraced in Wake county was John LAWSON, the explorer and historian, who made his journey in 1700 and crossed Neuse River at the northern end of the present county of Wake, about five miles from where the village and college of Wake Forest now stand. Speaking of the falls of the river (which he called a creek), Lawson says: "We went about 10 Miles, and sat down at the Falls of a large Creek, where lay mighty Rocks, the Water making a strange Noise, as if a great many Water-Mills were going at once. I take this to the Falls of Neus-Creek, called by the Indians, Wee quo Whom." Another early reference to the land now lying in Wake county is found on a large map made by "Capt. John COLLET, Governor of Fort Johnston," dedicated to King George the Third, and published by an Act which passed the British Parliament on May 1, 1770. This map gives Neuse River (spelling it Nuse), and also shows many of that river's tributaries which flow through Wake county, and are still known by the same names. Among these are the two streams on the north and south of the present city of Raleigh, viz.: Crabtree Creek, and Walnut Creek (which COLLET calls "Walnut Tree Creek"); also Middle Creek further down, which is now partly in Johnston county. Then, on the eastern side of Neuse River, going up-stream, we find New Light Creek, Beaver Dan Creek, and the Ledge of Rocks. One error in COLLET's map is representing Richland Creek as forming part of the headwaters of Crabtree, when, in fact, it is on the northern side of Neuse River, flowing into the river a few miles below the Falls, while Crabtree Creek is on the southern side of the river.

The county of Wake was brought into existence when England's reigning monarch was George the Third and when William TRYON was Royal Governor of the Colony of North Carolina. It is named in honor of Governor TRYON's wife whose maiden name was Margaret WAKE. With the exception of Dare county, it is the only county in the State named for a woman. Though it was not fully organized till 1771, its origin was about the end of the year 1770 when a bill was introduced into the Lower House of the Legislature of the Colony at New Bern, on December 23^{d}, providing for the creation of Wake county; and the Upper House, or Governor's council, passed the bill on the 27th of the same month, thus making it a law – Chapter XXII of the Public Laws of 1770. This Act, a somewhat lengthy document of sixteen sections, sets forth as a reason for the creation of the new county that "the large extent of the said counties of Johnston, Cumberland, and Orange, renders it grievous and burthensome to many of the inhabitants thereof to attend the Courts, General Musters, and Public Meetings therein." The territory at first included in Wake county was taken from the three counties named in the above quoted extract. By the Act referred to, Joel LANE, Theophilus HUNTER, Hardy SANDERS, Joseph LANE, John HINTON, Thomas HINES, and Thomas CRAWFORD were appointed commissioners to lay off land on which to erect a Court-House, Jail, Stocks, etc., and Joel LANE, James MARTIN, and Theophilus HUNTER were authorized to contract with workmen for the erection of the said buildings and stocks. Joel LANE, John SMITH, Theophilus HUNTER, Farquard CAMPBELL, and Walter GIBSON were then directed to run the boundary as specified in the Act creating the county. This law will be found in the Revisal published by James DAVIS at New Bern in 1773. According to its own provisions, said Act was not to take effect till March 12, 1771.

During the year in which Wake county was taking shape as a territory separate and distinct from its mother counties of Johnston, Orange, and Cumberland, North Carolina was in the throes of a small civil war – what is known is history as the Insurrection of the Regulators. The chief seat of trouble was in Orange county; and in Wake (a part of what had been Orange) there was also some disaffection to the government, but no acts of violence and incendiarism by the Regulators occurred here, as was the case in Orange, Granville, and other counties. As early as 1768 Governor TRYON had gone with some colonial militia against the Regulators; but, on that expedition, there was no blood-shed, as the Regulators agreed to cease their lawlessness. In this expedition of 1768 one of the officers in the Governor's army was Major John HINTON who appeared at the head of a detachment from Johnston county. By the Act of 1770, creating Wake, Major HINTON's plantation was included in the new county. Thereupon Governor TRYON promoted him to the rank of Colonel and called for his services in a second expedition against the Regulators in the early Spring of 1771. The chief place of rendezvous for the colonial militia, which served under TRYON, was Wake Cross-roads, about where Raleigh now stands. The Governor's own headquarters were at country-seat called HUNTER's Lodge, owned by the elder Theophilus HUNTER, on the present Fayetteville Road, two or three miles south of Raleigh. This place is now owned by Ransom HINTON, Esq., a descendant both of Colonel John HINTON and Theophilus HUNTER. HUNTER's Lodge is not the same as Spring Hill, a neighboring plantation later owned by Theophilus HUNTER, junior. Near Wake Cross-roads Governor TRYON tarried with his troops May 2d till May 8th, and then set out towards the scene of the disturbances. About a week later, on May 16, 1771, was fought the Battle of Alamance, where the insurgents were defeated and scattered by the Governor's little army of North Carolina militia – a force about half their own number. In this expedition the Wake county troops under Colonel HINTON acquitted themselves with honor, and received high commendation for the part they bore in the battle.

At the beginning of TRYON's march from Wake Cross-roads it was found necessary for his Corps of Engineers to cut a new road, as the old one – the "Granville Tobacco Path" – was too rough for artillery to pass over. The new thoroughfare was called Ramsgate Road. By the mellowing process of time, Ramsgate assumed a more sentimental form and became Ramcat, also giving its name to a section of our county where the more cultured classes write it Rhamkatte. The latter locality, as everyone knows, is a great trade center which supplies Raleigh with light-wood, 'possums, and blackberries, and even begins to threaten the commercial supremacy of our sister county of Chatham in its chief source of support, the rabbit industry.

But my tribute to Rhamkatte has caused me to digress from the course of this narrative, which has to do with the history in general of Wake county. The Charter of the new county was signed by Governor TRYON, in the name of the King, on May 22, 1771, while he was on the Alamance expedition, and this important document was entrusted to the personal care of Colonel John HINTON, who presented it in open court after his return home.

In the early days of Wake county the chief legal tribunal of a county in North Carolina was called the "Inferior Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions." It was composed of all (or a quorum) of the Justices of the Peace meeting in joint session four times yearly. There were also Judicial Districts in the Colony. Those districts were composed of several counties, over all of which the "Superior Court" had higher jurisdiction than the above county courts. The Superior Courts were the highest tribunals in the Colony, and their sessions were presided over by the Chief Justice of North Carolina and two "Assistant Judges." Wake county was in what was known as the Hillsborough District, and all of its business with the Superior Court had to be transacted at the town of Hillsborough. The lawyers of that day often came down from Hillsborough, and from other localities, even Virginia, to appear in the Wake Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. On its Docket between 1771 and 1783 we find the names of a number of practicing attorneys, among whom were Bromfield RIDLEY, John KINCHEN, John RAND, James FORSYTH, Joseph TAYLOR, David GORDON, D'Arcy FOWLER, James WILLIAMS, John BONTON, John PENN, Henry GIFFORD, Henry LIGHTFOOT, James SPILLER, and Alexander GRAY. Some of these gentlemen regularly resided in Wake county. PENN lived in Granville and was afterwards a signer of the National Declaration of Independence.

The first Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions for the county of Wake met on June 4, 1771. There were present Theophilus HUNTER, Presiding Justice, and the following Justices: Joel LANE, Joseph LANE, Benjamin HARDY, James MARTIN, Hardy SANDERS, Abraham HILL, Thomas WOOTTEN, James JONES, Thomas CRAWFORD, and Tingnall JONES. Among other officers present were Michael ROGERS, High Sheriff; John ROGERS and James ALFORD, Deputy Sheriffs; John RICE, Clerk of the Court and Deputy Clerk for the Crown in the county of Wake; and Bromfield RIDLEY, King's Deputy Attorney. It is recorded that when another session of this Court met it was at "Bloomsberry, in the County of Wake." Bloomsberry, more properly Bloomsbury, was the name of a hamlet erected at Wake Cross-roads, the present site of the city of Raleigh. The hamlet of Bloomsbury was also known as Wake Courthouse.

In days, prior to the Revolution, and for some time after that war, it was the law that any person convicted of perjury should have both his ears cropped off by the common hangman and nailed to the pillory. One ear was so cropped for subornation of perjury. Hence any person who was "crop-eared" was always regarded with distrust. But occasionally a citizen was deprived of his ear without due process of law, in consequence of the cannibalistic propensity of some adversary with whom he was engaged in a rough and tumble fight – or "battle," as the old records would say. When such a misfortune befell a man, he generally went into court and had an entry made of the fact that his ear had been bitten off, and not cropped for perjury or subornation thereof. There are several entries of this class on the old records of Wake county. At September Term, 1771, we find the following: "Averington McKELROY came into court, and by the oath of Mr. Isaac HUNTER proved that he unluckily lost a piece from the top of his right ear by Jacob ODEM's biting it off in a battle." Nor was Mr. McKELROY the only belligerent who was wounded in battle by a sharp-toothed antagonist; for, by a formal entry made at September Term, 1772, of the above court, we are also informed: "James MURR came into court and produced John PATTERSON, a witness to prove how and in what manner he lost his ear, who made oath that after a battle between said MURR and one Wagstaff CANNADY, he (the said PATTERSON) found a piece of his (MURR's) ear on the ground: to wit the right ear." Those "good old-fashioned customs" will never come again – and for this may the Lord make us thankful!

There is a homely old proverb, perhaps familiar to some of my readers, which says: "Never trust a nigger with a gun." Our forefathers in the Colonial Assembly, it would seem, went even further and were not even willing to trust a nigger with a club. In examining the proceedings of the court of Wake county, at September Term, 1774, we find the following order: "Whereas, it hath lately been a practice of sundry slaves in this county, especially upon Crab Tree and Walnut Creeks, to carry clubs loaded on the ends with lead or pewter, contrary to the Act of Assembly, to the annoyance of the inhabitants, which may be attended with dangerous and evil consequences, the court therefore appoints the chairman to cause to be put up advertisements at the court-house and other public places in this country, requiring the masters, mistresses, or overseers of slaves, to prohibit their slaves from carrying such unlawful weapons, certifying to them at the same time that, if they therein fail, the magistrates will strictly put in execution the law against such an evil and dangerous practice."

On October 6, 1772, Colonel John HINTON made a list of the officers of his regiment of Wake county troops; and this roster is here given; for so many of the officers therein, now have descendants living in Wake County and elsewhere that it will doubtless be of interest. The following is a copy in full:

- Colonel – John HINTON.
- Lieutenant-Colonel – Joel LANE.

- Major – Theophilus HUNTER.
- Captains – Simon TURNER, John HINTON, junior, James MOORE, Samuel PEARSON, Nathaniel JONES, Edward MOBLEY, Jeremiah MOBLEY, Michael ROGERS, Sandy SANDERS, William SIMMS, and William Anderson FOWLER.
- Lieutenants – John MYATT, Swann THOMPSON, Edward MOBLEY, junior, John BEDDINGFIELD, Tingnall JONES, Dempsey POWELL, Jacob UTLEY, Isham HENDOR, and Mosier JONES.
- Ensigns – Andrew COLLINS, Reuben ROGERS, Jacob BLEDSOE, Joshua SUGG, Thomas PHILIPS, Aaron ROGERS, Etheldred JONES, Joel SIMMS, and Godfrey FOWLER.

The gentlemen who held the office of High Sheriff of the county of Wake from the foundation of the county to the close of the Revolution, were the following: Michael ROGERS, from the foundation of the county till June, 1773; Thomas HINES, from June 1773, till June, 1777; Thomas WOOTTEN, from June, 1777, till September, 1780; Hardy SANDERS, from September, 1780, till September, 1782; and Britain SANDERS, from September, 1782, till after American independence was acknowledged. During the days of our colonial existence the office of High Sheriff was not only of importance but of the greatest honor as well, as has always been the case in Great Britain, where even now some of the principal peers hold the title as an hereditary honor – the Duke of Montrose being hereditary High Sheriff of Dumbartonshire, the Duke of Argyll hereditary High Sheriff of Argyllshire, with other noblemen of like rank who might be mentioned.

At the beginning of the War of the Revolution, field-officers for the troops of Wake County were appointed by the Provincial Congress of North Carolina at Hillsborough on the 9th of September, 1775, as follows: John HINTON, Colonel; Theophilus HUNTER, Lieutenant-Colonel; John HINTON, junior, First Major; and Thomas HINES, Second Major. These officers were re-elected to the same ranks by the Provincial Congress of North Carolina at Halifax on the 22d of April, 1776. At a later period Thomas WOOTTEN was also Colonel; and Michael ROGERS, Lieutenant-Colonel, the latter being appointed in February, 1778. There may have been some other changes also.

About the beginning of January, 1776, there was a great uprising of the Tories of North Carolina, chiefly among the Highland Scotch of the Cape Fear section, with some of the old Regulators from further west; and Wake County was called upon to do her part in suppressing the out-break. Colonel HINTON then marched eastward with a detachment of his regiment, which became a part of Colonel Richard CASWELL's command, numbering about eight hundred. These later united with the lesser command of Colonel Alexander LILLINGTON, after which the joint forces (about a thousand men) gave battle to a vastly superior force of Loyalists at Moore's Creek Bridge, on the 27th of February, 1776. The scene of this fight was then in New Hanover County, but is now a part of the county of Pender. The result was one of the most crushing defeats which ever befell the King's troops in America. Colonel CASWELL (later General and Governor), who commanded in this battle, afterwards spoke in high terms of the bravery there displayed by Colonel HINTON.

A good deal of recruiting was done in Wake County while the war was in progress. In the Summer of 1781, one of the French volunteer officers, Francis Marquis of Malmedy, mustered into his regiment a company of Wake Light Horse. Of this company Solomon WOOD was Captain, Mark MYATT was Lieutenant, and Thomas GRAY was Cornet. In connection with the last named rank (now no longer in use) it may be mentioned that a Cornet was a commissioned officer in a cavalry company whose duty it was to carry the colors of his troop.

While the above Whigs were striving for independence, the Tories were by no means inactive, though few could stay in Wake County. When a man refused to take the oath of allegiance to the new State government, he was ordered to move out of North Carolina. Alexander MUNN and Sampson STRICKLAND were driven out for so refusing, and there may have been others. MUNN's property, with that of other Loyalists, was later confiscated by Chapter VI. of The Laws of 1781. He went to Nova Scotia in 1783.

There were some men who attempted to shirk the military duty which the law required of them during the Revolution. Of this class was one Timothy DUCK, who failed to appear when summoned for military duty in April, 1781. At that time Colonel Thomas WOOTTEN commanded the militia forces of Wake County. In accordance with a power which was given him by law, Colonel WOOTTEN ordered the Sheriff to seize and sell DUCK's plantation. With the proceeds of this sale, John ABERNETHIE was hired as a substitute, and the unfortunate DUCK had to hunt for another nest.

The most active and daring partisan in North Carolina on the Tory side during the Revolution was Colonel David FANNING, a native of what afterwards became the county of Wake, though that part of Wake was in Johnston at the time of his birth. The deeds of blood committed by him in his native State fill a volume which he prepared, entitled FANNING's Narrative*. After the war, when North Carolina passed an "Act of Pardon and Oblivion," giving a general amnesty to her late enemies, he was excepted by name from its provisions, and died an exile in Canada.

Wake county had a good share in establishing the independent government of North Carolina. To the Provincial Congress at New Bern in April, 1775, John HINTON, Michael ROGERS, and Tingnall JONES were sent as its delegates. In another Provincial Congress, held at Hillsborough in August of the same year, the county's representatives were John HINTON, Joel LANE, Theophilus HUNTER, Michael ROGERS, Tingnall JONES, John RAND and Thomas HINES. On September 9th, while the last named Congress was in session, it appointed Committees of Safety for the several Districts into which the State was divided, and Joel LANE, Michael ROGERS, and John HINTON, of Wake, were made members for the Hillsborough District, of which their county was a part. In the Provincial Congress at Halifax in April, 1776, the representatives from Wake were Tingnall JONES, John RAND, John HINTON, Joel LANE and William HOOPER. The last name gentleman, Mr. HOOPER, who is recorded as a delegate from Wake, was not a citizen of the county. Later he added to his already established fame by signing the National Declaration of Independence. Another Provincial Congress met at Halifax in November, 1776, and from Wake County to that body went Britain FULLER, James JONES, Tingnall JONES, John RICE and Michael ROGERS. On April 19, 1776, during the session of the first Provincial Congress at Halifax, Theophilus HUNTER and Thomas HINES, of Wake, were made members of a Committee to procure, by purchase or otherwise, fire-arms for use by the American troops.

In the State Senate of North Carolina during the Revolution, Wake County was represented by James JONES in 1777, by Michael ROGERS from 1778 till 1781, and by Joel LANE from 1782 till after the end of the war. In the House of Commons of North Carolina during the war, appeared the following Wake County members: John RAND and Tingnall JONES in 1777; Lodwick ALFORD and Hardy SANDERS in 1778; Thomas HINES and John HINTON, junior, in 1779; Nathaniel JONES and John HUMPHRIES in 1780; Burwell POPE and James HINTON in 1781 and 1782; and Theophilus HUNTER and Hardy SANDERS in 1783.

While the above delegates from Wake in the Provincial Congresses and General Assemblies were looking after the State's general welfare, the interests of the county were faithfully guarded at home by the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. Among the Justices who sat at different times in this tribunal during the Revolution were the following: John ABERNETHIE, Lodwick ALFORD, Kedar BRYAN, Richard BANKS, Thomas CRAWFORD, Joseph DAVIS, Abraham HILL, Thomas HINES, John HINTON, John HINTON, junior, James HINTON, Francis HOBSON, Theophilus HUNTER, Albridgton JONES, James JONES, Nathaniel JONES of White Plains,* Tingnall JONES, Joel LANE, Joseph LANE, James MARTIN, James MOORE, Burwell POPE, Michael ROGERS, Hardy SANDERS, Joshua SUGG, William WALTON, John WHITAKER, and Thomas WOOTTEN. Beginning with the early part of 1777, the court composed of these Justices cited various citizens of the county to take the oath of allegiance to the new State government as required by a recent enactment. When a person refused to take such oath, he was forthwith ordered to leave the county and State.

In 1781 one of the sessions of the General Assembly of North Carolina (there were two or more sessions that year) met at Bloomsbury, the county-seat of Wake. Colonel Joel LANE's residence (which is still standing in the city of Raleigh) was its place of meeting. At that time the State and Continental paper money had become so utterly worthless that the sum of fifteen thousand pounds was paid by the Assembly to Colonel LANE for the rent of this house for two weeks, with pasturage included. During this session several detachments of troops were ordered to Bloomsbury for the Assembly's protection.

*Nathaniel JONES of White Plains lived near the present village of Cary. He died in 1815. His connection by marriage (though probably not of the same paternal line), Nathaniel JONES, Sr., of Crabtree, who died in 1810, was a brother of Robert JONES, Jr. ("Robin" JONES), Attorney General under Governors DOBBS and TRYON. See JONES Genealogy by Col. Cadwallader JONES. Nathaniel JONES, Jr., of Crabtree died in 1828, and was father of the late Kimbrough JONES, Sr.

The present city of Raleigh, as is well know, stands on land purchased by North Carolina from Colonel Joel LANE for the purpose of erecting thereon the capital of the State. LANE's deed to the State is dated April 5, 1792, and the streets of the new town were laid out shortly thereafter.

In 1835 and again in 1841 the United States government published lists of soldiers of the Revolution who were pensioned for services in that war. At the risk of being tedious I give the Wake County lists in full. Persons desiring a statement of the war record of any veteran herein named can obtain the same free of charge by addressing a request therefore to the Commissioner of Pensions, at Washington City. Except when otherwise designated, persons mentioned were privates in the service of North Carolina. Some of the names are spelled differently on the two lists, and these variations I have indicated below. The list published in 1835 was as follows: Berthett ALLEN, James ADAMS, Philip ADAMS, James AMES, James AMOS, Christopher BABB, James BROWN, Jesse BRYANT (Virginia), William BURTON (or William H. BURTON), Jacob BYRUM, Benjamin CARPENTER, James CHRISTIAN 2nd, William CLIFTON, George COLE, Robert DODD, Reuben EVANS, John GREEN, Jesse HARRIS or (HORRIS), James HUGHES (Virginia), Thomas JINKS (Corporal), Francis JONES, Vincent KING, Joshua LYNCH, David MABRY, Jesse MANUEL, John MARR, Shadrach MEDLIN, Naaman MILLS, James NANCE, senior (Virginia), Jesse OSBOURN, Drury PITTIFORD (Virginia), William POLK (Major), Elisha POPE (Virginia), Frederick RIGSBY (or RIGSBEE), James RIGSBY (or RIGSBEE), Thomas ROSS, John RHODES, Aaron ROBERTS, Robert SNEED (Virginia), Joseph SHAW (Pennsylvania), Isaac SMITH, Samuel STANDEFORD (Virginia), Samuel SCARBOROUGH, senior (Virginia), Jonathan SMITH, senior (Captain), John SHERRON, John SWENNEY, William TATE, Nathan UPCHURCH, William WILDER, Burrell (or Burwell) WHITEHEAD, John WALKER, John WILLIAMS, and Jesse WALL. In addition to the above, the list of 1841 gives the following names, without indicating rank, or State in which they served: James HARWARD, Thomas HOLLAND, Richard PIPEN, William SLEDD, Rufus WILLIE, and William WOOD. Some of these veterans were dead before lists were published. Joel TERRELL, whose name also appears on the pension roll of 1835, appears to have rendered his military service in the United States Army after the Revolution – possibly in the War of 1812.

When the county of Wake was first created, and up to the time of the Revolution, the Church of England was established by law, and each county contained one or more parishes. The one in Wake was called the Parish of St. Margaret, this probably being done to canonize, as it were, the same lady in whose honor the county was called – Mrs. TRYON, formerly Miss Margaret WAKE, a zealous church-woman and generous contributor to religious work in the colony. I have also seen it stated that the present townships of St. Mary's and St. Matthew's in Wake County take their names from either chapels or parishes of the old Established Church in the Colony.

By what I have already set forth herein, my story has been brought to a close. It was not at first intended to impose upon the patience of my readers further than to bring the history of Wake County down to a time when North Carolina's independence of Great Britain was acknowledged. But I cannot resist the temptation of adding a few more words about the men and customs of that day.

The old colonists were a study and substantial race of men, not the mimic courtiers so finely pictured in the historical novels dealing with that time. They had their virtues and they had their vices, as men always have had and always will have. They were not devoid of ability as legislators, and possessed a practical knowledge of the needs of the colony. Personally they were bold, fearless, and independent, prompt to answer a call for their services in the field, and at times too forward in a personal quarrel. At the period of which I write, there were places in North Carolina, particularly in the extreme east, where could be found commodious houses, churches, schools, and private libraries, together with what were then considered the luxuries of life. But when some of the bolder spirits of that time pushed westward and set up new homes in what is now the center of the State, they had more serious problems to confront than those to which they had been accustomed. The early pioneers of Wake County knew more about blazing paths through the primeval forests by which they were surrounded than they knew about winding through the intricate mazes of a minuet. Great houses, servants, and fine apparel form no part of the equipment of a backwoodsman. Even so we find it in the Gospel of St. Luke that when the multitude sought St. John the Baptist, it was asked of them: "What went ye out into the wilderness for to see! * * * A man clothed in soft raiment! Behold, they which are gorgeously appareled, and live delicately, are in kings' courts." So might an old colonist in Wake County describe the locality where his lot was cast, not as a place of soft raiment and delicate living, but a land ----

> "Where thoughts, and tongues, and hands, are bold and free,
> And friends will find a welcome, foes a grave;
> And where none kneel, save when to heaven when they pray,
> Nor even then, unless in their own way."

SKETCHES OF WAKE COUNTY AND ITS IMPORTANT TOWNS – CARDENAS

Cardenas is a beautiful village, situated in Middle Creek Township, about eighteen miles southwest of Raleigh, on the Raleigh, Charlotte & Southern Railway, and noted for its beautiful homes and hospitable people.

It is in the midst of the best farming section of the county, and its people are among the most intelligent, prosperous and progressive to be found anywhere in the State. Here are the homes of the JOHNSONs, ATKINSONs, JUDDs, and others, whose industry, exalted citizenship and high personal character have proven potent factors in the development of all that makes for the highest welfare of a community.

Kemp Bethea Johnson

Profile from above book

First, last and all the time a lumberman. This tells the story in a general way of the life work of Kemp Bethea JOHNSON, who is one of the best-known citizens of Wake County, and whose local habitation is Cardenas. Having keenness of discernment to find in the pine forests of southern Wake an opportunity for industry and a source of wealth, he chose, while but a youth, to remain and grow up with the country, and the sequel shows that the country grew and he grew with it.

The name of JOHNSON was an honorable one in England, and in America has been made illustrious. For instance, a President of the United States, born in Raleigh, has given celebrity to the name, and with it has filled and adorned a niche in the temple of fame.

It is not known at what time the branch of the family to which Kemp B. JOHNSON belongs came to North Carolina, but it is believed that his ancestors were settled in this region in the colonial period. Several generations of them have lived and flourished in Harnett County, gaining their livelihood by the arts of agriculture and enjoying to a marked degree the esteem and confidence of their neighbors and countrymen.

Kemp B. JOHNSON has always lived within a few miles of his birth. It was on the 17th of July, 1863, that he first saw the light of day, on his father's farm, near Cardenas. His parents were John Lewis and Mary Jane (JONES) Johnson. John L. JOHNSON was a merchant and farmer, successful and prosperous in both occupations, who was born and reared in Harnett County, but early in life cast in his lot with the people of Wake.

In the years following the War Between the States public education was at a very low ebb, but here and there in the country were private schools, taught by men of learning and ability. Young Kemp JOHNSON obtained his education in two such schools—one at Holly Springs, the other at Apex—and improved his opportunities so well that he laid the foundation of a successful career as a man of business.

In 1886 Mr. JOHNSON engaged in the manufacture of lumber at Cardenas, and has continued in the same occupation to the present time. While his lumbering operations have been extensive in the southern part of Wake, Johnson and Harnett counties, Cardenas has remained the head and centre of his business activities. The lumber industry is important at a number of points in the county, but the business that Mr. JOHNSON has built up easily rivals the largest, and in southern Wake it holds undisputed pre-eminence. There is a proverb that it is easy to make a sawmill pay on paper, but Kemp B. JOHNSON has proved that it is profitable in a more substantial way; however, that it is another case of the man behind the gun.

With his lumber business well established and constantly increasing, Mr. JOHNSON has found time to devote to other lines of industrial and commercial enterprises, in which his neighboring town of Fuquay Springs has been a beneficiary to no small extent. He was one of the leading promoters of the Bank of Fuquay, and since its establishment has been its president continuously. He took a leading part in forming and financing the Fuquay Tobacco Warehouse Company and the Farmers Warehouse Company, of Fuquay Springs, and has in this way and others contributed to the remarkable success that Fuquay Springs has achieved as a leaf-tobacco market. He was actively interested in promoting and building the Raleigh & Southport Railroad, which has contributed more than any other agency to the development of the southern part of Wake County and has made possible the existence of half a dozen flourishing villages and towns. In everything he has manifested a fine type of public spirit and has shown himself worthy of the esteem of his fellow-countrymen, which he enjoys without stint or measure.

Mr. JOHNSON regularly votes the Democratic ticket and gives his party his best service without reward or hope of reward. He has no political ambitions, but he has served on the Democratic State Committee. His views in regard to public matters are progressive and in line with the best thought of the twentieth century. Like most intelligent men, he sees the necessity for good public roads, and he is willing to go so far as anybody to supply the need. His solution of the problem is to issue bonds and build permanent roads. He holds that the prohibition laws should be enforced, and is in favor of swift and sure justice to violators of the criminal laws. He is an advocate of the best schools that can be provided, with the best teachers that can be secured, and with a term long enough to give every boy and girl an opportunity to obtain an elementary education.

One of the business men in Wake County, Mr. JOHNSON finds but little time for reading, but he holds to the old-fashioned practice of reading the Book of Books. He is a member of the Christian Church, is active in all its work and prominent in its councils.

One of the largest and most elegant homes in North Carolina is that of Mr. JOHNSON at Cardenas. Installed in it as mistress is his wife, who was Miss Mary Alice UTLEY, daughter of Mr. M. C. and Mrs. Emeline UTLEY. Here the most gracious hospitality is dispensed most bountifully. Five children bless this lovely home; they are Ruth, Harold W., Brantley Baird, Marvin M., and A. Burnette.

SKETCHES OF WAKE COUNTY AND ITS IMPORTANT TOWNS – APEX

Another sketch from the above book

The town of Apex had its beginning with the close of the Civil War. Among its first settlers were J. McC. ELLINGTON, H. C. OLIVE, Q. I. HUDSON, W. F. UTLEY, W. H. HARWARD, Brinkley OLIVE, A. N. BETTS and others, who contributed to its life in the beginning and afterwards. It was incorporated by the Legislature of 1871-'72, with the late Hon. H. C. OLIVE as its first mayor. It derived its name from being the highest point on the survey of the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line Railroad.

Until 1905 it was but a small town, where the standard of virtue, intelligence and patriotism was high, but where little progress in material things had been made. In that year, beginning with the organization of a bank and the establishment of a tobacco market, began a new life for the town and surrounding community. Fire later destroying a number of unsightly frame buildings, the first brick structure was soon erected. Again, in June, 1911, nearly all the remaining old frame buildings in the business section were also consumed by fire. Now the principal street of the town (Salem) is lined with handsome pressed-brick-front stores. Business houses have continued to increase in number, until now nearly everything to complete a small city is here represented. This metropolis of western Wake is one of the busiest, most attractive and substantially built towns of its size in North Carolina. Its streets are well laid out and splendidly shaded in the residential sections, while the business part of the town is marked with buildings of beautiful architectural designs and substantial construction.

Apex has a population of about one thousand, and, being located in the centre of one of the best agricultural sections of the State, has a large rural territory from which to draw life and sustenance. It is in the limited "Old Belt" tobacco[1] lands of North Carolina and Virginia, which produce the finest yellow-wrapper tobacco. The tobacco market at Apex is one of its chief industries. It is equipped with two splendid warehouses, three large prizehouses[1], markets about two million pounds of tobacco annually, and enjoys the distinction of making the highest average price per pound of any market in the State. It is the centre of a fine cotton-production section, the receipts of this staple being from three to five thousand bales of cotton per year.

Apex has splendid railroad facilities, being located on the main line of the great Seaboard Air Line Railway system and on the Durham & Southern Railway, the latter being the finest independent railway property in the State. It is also on the line of the Yadkin River Power Company, from which presently will come light and power to light the town and provide electrical power for the manufacturing plants which are certain to come.

Apex is a community which may well be proud of its intellectual and moral status

Public education in Wake County has always found some of its most potent advocates and influences at Apex. Notable among those who have wielded an influence throughout the county in this respect are the late Hon H. C. OLIVE, State Senator and for many years chairman of the Wake County Board of Education; Hon. L. J. SEARS, at present, and for many years past, chairman of the same board, and Hon. Percy J. OLIVE, an ex-representative and a public man who has taken an especial interest in the schools. That these gentlemen are and were but the exponents of the sentiment around them is witnessed by the fact that Apex has one of the finest and best-equipped schools in the county, and that every school in White Oak Township levies a local tax to supplement the general education fund.

Civic progressiveness is evidenced by a handsome municipal building, just erected, and paved streets—the result of a bond issue voted by the people.

The religious and moral status of the town is indicated by the splendid new Baptist Church just being completed, at a cost of between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars. The Methodists and the Presbyterians each have imposing and commodious edifices. Several fraternal orders have lodges here, which find enthusiastic support.

The financial backing of Apex and community is most ample; there are two banks and an incorporated insurance and real-estate agency.

As a trading mart and mercantile centre the town has grown to city proportions within the past few years. Every line is represented. Its stores, in their handsome buildings, beautiful fixtures and up-to-date stocks, would do credit to any city in the State. Here, as elsewhere, the day of the general store is passing, and the store with the special line is taking its place.

Few communities in the State have had more additions to their population within the past five years than has that of which Apex is the centre. Those seeking desirable homes have found here a happy combination of advantages—fine lands, intelligent, virtuous and hospitable neighbors, good markets, good roads, good schools and good churches. No fictitious values have been placed upon the lands; for, with the true idea of progress, the efforts of those who have done most for the community's upbuilding have been directed to keeping the real estate at its true value. Contributing mostly to this and at present forming the most valuable of its citizenship, without disparagement to others, may be mentioned Messrs. W. F. UTLEY, W. H. HARWARD, A. B. HUNTER, L. S. OLIVE, Percy J. OLIVE, Dr. W. Wade OLIVE, S. W. STONE, J. B. MASON, J. W. LASSITER, W. B. UPCHURCH, J. H. SEARS, A. V. BAUCOM, A. V. HUDSON, S. S. ROGERS, J. R. NORRIS, G. C. NORRIS, R. J. BOLLING, Dr. R. W. STEPHENS, Dr. R. W. JOHNSON, Dr. C. B. WILKERSON, J. F. MILLS, S. A. BRANCH, W. [1] http://home.att.net/~tobacco/flue_cured.htm –
Flue Cured Varieties: "Bright Leaf (or Virginia) Tobacco" Types 11, 12, 13, 14.
Grown and flue-cured for cigarettes, pipe and chewing tobacco. Leaves are harvested by priming. Priming entails the picking of individual leaves as they ripen. Flue-Curing is performed in small, tightly constructed barns with artificial heat beginning at 90°F and ending around 170°F; it takes 5 to 7 days. The name comes from the metal flue used in the heating apparatus. Flue-cured tobacco is yellow ('bright') to reddish-orange in color, thin to medium in body and mild in flavor possessing a sweet aroma and slightly acidic taste. It is high in sugar content and low-to-average in nitrogenous materials, acids and nicotine. It blends well with burley and Maryland tobaccos because its sugar content smoothes and neutralizes the smoke.
Type 11. That type of flue-cured tobacco commonly known as Western Flue-cured or Old Belt and Middle Belt Flue-cured, produced principally in the Piedmont sections of Virginia and North Carolina and the district extending eastward to the coastal plains region. That portion of this type known as Old Belt Flue-cured, normally characterized by a heavier body and darker color shade and produced principally in the Piedmont sections of Virginia and North Carolina, may be classified as Type 11a; and that portion of the type known as Middle Belt Flue-cured, normally characterized by a thinner body and lighter color shade and produced principally in a section lying between the Piedmont and coastal plains regions of Virginia and North Carolina, may be classified as Type 11b.

Lonnie Jefferson Sears

Profile from the above book

The educational interests of Wake County have no warmer supporter or more constant friend than the subject of this sketch, who has proved his title to the warm regard of both teachers and pupils of the public schools.

Lonnie Jefferson SEARS is a native of Wake County, born near Apex, December 4, 1875. The Sears family, from which he is descended, has been prominent in the affairs of Wake and Chatham counties for several generations. The progenitor of the family came from Virginia to North Carolina in colonial times and settled in Chatham County. At a later period a less remote ancestor of Mr. Sears moved into Wake and became a citizen of White Oak Township, where he and his descendants have ranked among the most prominent and substantial men of their community.

The education of Lonnie Sears was obtained in the public schools of Wake and the Chatham High School. Although not enjoying the privilege of a course in college, he has improved his opportunities until he has become a man of well-rounded culture, possessed of a valuable fund of information upon subjects within the range of things that go to make up an education. With native intelligence of a high order, combined with industry and strict integrity, he has steadily developed his higher faculties until he ranks with the leading citizens and prominent business men of Apex, and, indeed, of the entire county of Wake.

The business energies of Mr. Sears for the past two years have been devoted to real estate and insurance, in which he has achieved a notable success, making himself an important factor in developing the material interests of the community in which he lives. For a year and a half before engaging in his present vocation he was assistant cashier of the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Apex. In this sphere of activity he exhibited financial ability worthy of many who have had much larger experience in the banking business, and at the same time won the confidence and esteem of all who had the pleasure of business relations with him as patrons of the bank.

While Mr. Sears has achieved success of which anyone in his circumstances might well feel proud, it is as a leader of the public educational interests of his county that his talents have shone resplendent. His heart is in his work, and he gives it the serious attention of one who thoroughly believes that the future welfare of the commonwealth depends upon the teaching and training the children receive in the public schools. For several years he has had the distinction of serving his fellow-citizens in the capacity of chairman of the county board of education, in which position he has displayed conspicuous devotion to the moral and intellectual uplift of the boys and girls of the county.

Deeply interested as he is in whatever affects the real welfare of his people, Mr. Sears considers that among the important matters to which the citizens of Wake County and the State should give earnest consideration are the improvement of the public-school system, the construction of good roads, better methods of farming, and extension of the rural telephone service.

On December 27, 1899, Mr. Sears was happily united in marriage to Miss Mattie L., daughter of Joseph H. and Mary MILLS, of Wake. To this union there have been born five children—Overton, Alton, Bruce, Mary Lee, and Edith Royster SEARS.

Mr. SEARS is prominent in fraternal orders, being a member of the Masons, Odd Fellows, and Junior Order American Mechanics. He is identified with the Baptist Church and is active in promoting the religious work of his denomination.

William Francis Utley, Sr.

Another profile from the above book

The honorable titles of banker, merchant and farmer constitute the triple link that connects the name of William Francis UTLEY with the varied interests of southwestern Wake County. For many years the subject of this sketch has been actively identified with almost every worthy enterprise of the community in which he lives, and has contributed his full share to the industrial, intellectual and moral uplift of the people among whom his lot has been cast.

The history of the UTLEY family in Wake County dates back a century and a half, the progenitor thereof having come from Connecticut in 1760 and settled ten miles southwest of Raleigh. Here, then, has remained the ancestral home of the family, and in the region roundabout have sprung up and flourished numerous descendants, who have borne the name honorably through several generations, many of them enjoying in a marked degree the esteem and confidence of their neighbors and that larger constituency, the citizenship of the county.

About the time the first UTLEY came to Wake County, James SPEIGHT settled some two miles nearer Raleigh, having come from Virginia. In the movement across the border came the brothers of James SPEIGHT and settled on Roanoke River. It was a daughter of a later James SPEIGHT, Eliza, who became the wife of Quinton UTLEY and the mother of William Francis UTLEY, the subject of this sketch.

The mother of Eliza SPEIGHT was Polly ATKINS, half-sister of Gen. Joseph LANE, of Oregon, who was at one time Governor of that State, and in 1860 candidate on the BREKENRIDGE and LANE ticket for the vice-presidency.

The subject of this sketch was born near Holly Springs, July 9, 1844. His father was a farmer and merchant, so he inherited a love for the soil and a taste for trade, and imbibed in his youth those habits and principles that formed the sure foundation upon which he has builded [sic] his success in life. Mr. UTLEY grew up amid rural surroundings, for which he formed such a strong attachment that city life was never able to charm him away from them. He obtained a high-school education at Holly Springs and Raleigh, and was coming to the point where he could look out on dawning manhood when the cloud of war darkened our Southland and the call to arms changed his life plans for the next four years.

Mr. UTLEY saw honorable service in the War Between the States. His military career began as orderly sergeant, Company D of the famous Twenty-sixth North Carolina Regiment. Company D was organized at Holly Springs, May 14, 1861, and was known as Capt. Oscar RAND's company. Mr. UTLEY was in the battle of Gettysburg, was wounded the third day, taken prisoner and confined at Davis Island, N. Y., until he was paroled and exchanged, when he returned to the front. He was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness. At Reams Station, August 24, 1864, he was again wounded, losing his right leg below the knee. With one leg missing, his career as a soldier was ended. At the close of the war he was without means, but not without resources. He proceeded forthwith to break the local tradition that a one-legged man could not be anything but a cobbler; and now while advanced in years, he is hale and hearty, and is one of the best examples of what can be accomplished by energy, industry and thrift.

In 1870, Mr. UTLEY engaged in the lumber business at Apex, and three years later went into merchandise, which he prosecuted successfully for thirty years. Since 1905 he has been engaged in farming and banking. He assisted in organizing the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Apex, and was its vice-president; also the Peoples Bank of Apex, and was its president. He was interested in the Banking, Loan & Trust Company of Sanford, of which he was vice-president, and in the Merchants National Bank of Raleigh, of which he has been second vice-president since its organization. Recently he has disposed of his interest in the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Apex and also in the Sanford bank. He is a director of the Golden Leaf Warehouse and the Consolidated Tobacco Company, both of Apex.

Mr. UTLEY has served his people in a public capacity. For two years, beginning December, 1904, he was county commissioner serving on what was known as the ADAMS board. Under CLEVELAND's first administration he served four years as postmaster at Apex. He has also filled the office of justice of the peace. In view of the foregoing, it is almost superfluous to say that Mr. UTLEY is a Democrat of very pronounced type.

In his church relations Mr. UTLEY is a Baptist, and as such he is active in the religious work of his community. That he believes in triple links is evidenced by the fact that he is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He is fond of reading, and he has been fortunate in choosing his subjects, his favorite books being the Bible, Shakespeare and history. He has clear and positive views in regard to the public affairs of the county. A matter in which he is very much interested is the equalization of taxes and the economical expenditure of the public funds by capable officers.

When quite a young man Mr. UTLEY married Miss Bettie GIBBONS, daughter of Rev. Henry Hardy GIBBONS (of the M. E. Church, South) and Elizabeth (HARDY) GIBBONS. Of the children born to this union the following are living: Dr. Harry Gibbons UTLEY, William F. UTLEY, Jr., Lottie E. (wife of B. H. PARKER, Gastonia, N.C.), Elizabeth H. (wife of A. J. FLETCHER, Washington, D.C.).

Delightfully situated at a convenient distance from the business centre of Apex, where town shades into country, Mr. UTLEY has a large and comfortable house, combining in its arrangement and furnishings the best features of urban and rural life. Here he and his most excellent wife dwell quietly and dispense true Southern hospitality in a way that warms the heart of every one who comes under their hospitable roof.

WAKE COUNTY DIVORCE RECORDS 1831-1910

Summarized by Sarah Sheffield

Wake County Divorce Records 1831-1910 C.R. 099.604.49
Note: Pl is Plaintiff and is stated first v (verses) Def stands for Defendant and is stated second.

TAYLOR, Dennis v. Harriet TAYLOR
The marriage was dissolved the February Term of Superior Court, 1892. The Pl married the Def on in Raleigh, Wake County, 16 September 1885. They were residents at least two years before the divorce action was brought. Pl alleges Def committed adultery with Martin BENNETT in a house on Edenton St, Raleigh adjoining lot of George BENNETT belonging to Mr. CASTEBERRY and in a room occupied by George SMITH, Henry HARRIS and Frank HARLIN. Pl alleges the Def committed adultery in July or August 1889 with Oscar HAWKINS in a house on N. West St., Raleigh, the property of Ellington ROYSTER and Co. occupied by the Def. The Pl further alleges the Def committed adultery in July or August 1889 with Charles H[?]ETIN in a house on N. West St., Raleigh, owned by said ROYSTER and Co. Summons dated 24 January 1890 calls Harriet TAYLOR of Wake Co. The court finds for the Pl.

TAYLOR, Patsy v. Nick TAYLOR
The marriage was dissolved the February Term of Superior Court, 1901. The Pl married the Def in Wake County 1886 and lived as man and wife until some time in 1895 when it is alleged the Def abandoned the Pl and children and lived separately ever since. They were residents of North Carolina at least two years before the divorce action was brought. Summons dated 13 September 1900 calls Nick TAYLOR. The court finds for the Pl and she is restored to all rights as if never married; recovers costs [crossed out that Pl resumes maiden name and gets custody of children.]

TAYLOR, Priscilla v. Alonzo TAYLOR
The marriage was dissolved the September Term of Superior Court, 1906. The Pl married the Def in Wake County [no date given]. They were residents of North Carolina at least two years before the divorce action was brought. The Pl alleges the Def abandoned Pl and committed adultery and fornication with various persons unknown and has not lived with Pl since the abandonment. A summons dated July 1906 calls Alonzo TAYLOR states not found in Wake County; reputed to be in Virginia. Summons beginning dated 16 August 01906 for Alonzo TAYLOR to be published four weeks in the Raleigh Evening Times. The court finds for the Pl and she is restored to all rights as if never married; recovers costs [crossed out that Pl resumes maiden name and gets custody of children.]

TEMPLE, Willis v. Jane Ellen TEMPLE
The marriage was dissolved the March Term of Superior Court, 1906. The Pl married the Def in Wake County 1889. They were residents at least two years before the divorce action was brought and Pl was resident of North Carolina all his life. They lived together as man and wife until December 1905 when it is alleged that the Def separated and abandoned the Pl from August until December 1905 and committed adultery with Lewis SINGLETON and others at diverse times and places. Three children, all living, were born of this union: Johnnie, Willie, and Henrietta. They are living with the Pl. Pl asks for custody of the children. Summons dated 17 February 1906 calls Jane Ellen TEMPLE. The court finds for the Pl and recovers cost. Pl receives custody.

TERRELL, Lizzie v. William TERRELL
The marriage was dissolved the February Term of Superior Court, 1908. The original complaint originated in October Term, 1906. The Pl married the Def in 1891 [no place stated] and alleges the Def abandoned her in August 1900 and did not support the children. The Pl further alleges Def committed adultery with Helen HAYES and others. The Def denies allegations and counter alleges that the Pl abandoned Def and committed adultery with Nelson STEWART and others unknown. There were two female and two male children born to this union: John, aged 14, Rebecca, aged 10, Pearl, aged 8, and Joseph, aged 6. Summons dated 15 February calls John TERRY (colored), who is noted as a tenant on Mr. JENKINS land near Wake Forest. Summons dated 15 February 1907 calls Bettie GLOVER (colored) of East Raleigh, and Ellen HARRIS (colored) of Union Station, W. Martin St, Raleigh. The court finds in favor of the Pl.

TERRY, William v. Elizabeth TERRY
The marriage was dissolved in1887. The Pl married the Def either in 1854 [stated first] or 14 December 1855 in Wake County. They separated eighteen months later and have not lived as man and wife since that time. They lived eight or nine miles apart. When the Pl accidentally heard of Def's infidelities about twelve months ago, the Pl commenced the divorce complaint. Pl stated Def committed adultery in December 1856 or January 1857 with Henderson HODGE and that the Def has been absent for more than nineteen years, has not performed the duties of wife, and abandoned him and committed adultery. The Pl states he did not dessert his wife, but that she left him without his consent and that she went off with her mother. One child was born during their cohabitation and died in infancy. Nat ROGERS was witness for Pl. The latter gave a statement that prior to the war he was a sawyer and slave of Sion ROGERS, Sr., and testified that he had heard that the Def had separated from her husband and lived at her mother's house near Milbournie. He further stated he had seen her have intercourse with Mr. Henderson HODGE in a field before her separation from the Pl, but did not speak of this to a white man for fear of causing himself trouble. William ROGERS, witness for the Pl, states he was a slave of said Sion ROGERS, Sr., and states he saw Def in bed with said Henderson HODGE. Henry CANNADY, witness for the Pl, says Def also lived at Ben ALLEN's house and saw her with P[?]eter ALLEN; that Def also lived in house of Jno ROURKE's. Summons dated 16 February 1876 calls Elizabeth TERRY. Summons dated 26 January 1877 calls Harry CANNADY. Summons dated 26 January 1877 calls Nat ROGERS and Will ROGERS. Pl denies allegations and states she separated from the Pl due to his cruelty of striking her with his hand, with a whip, stick and gun; that he had ordered her to leave and that she supported herself by sewing. She counter alleged that he had committed adultery with Susan SMITH and Polly WATKINS, colored women, and had fathered a child by the first. It is noted that the said HODGE and said ROGERS are deceased and the former slaves, only witnesses to adultery, were in power of same. Def's statement signed by mark, but underwritten by name of Elizabeth Ann PERRY [is this clerk error for TERRY?] The court finds in favor of the Pl.

THOMAS, Emeline v. Henry THOMAS
The marriage was dissolved the February Term of Superior Court, 1901. The Pl married the Def in January 1892 [no location]. They were residents at least two years prior to bringing the divorce action.

The Pl and Def have lived separately since 1 January 1895. Summons dated 2 March 1901 calls Henry MORRIS (colored). Summons dated 10 September 1900 calls Henry THOMAS and published in the News and Observer 13 September 1900.

THOMPSON, J. A. v. Magnora THOMPSON
The marriage was dissolved the February Term of Superior Court, 1910. The Pl married the Def 6 October 1884 and lived as man and wife until February 1906. They were both residents of North Carolina all their lives. Pl alleged Def committed adultery with Jim BAINS and Ed BOOSE. Sometime in July 1900 while the Pl was at work the Def allegedly committed adultery with the said BAINS and BOOSE and others and became pregnant and gave birth. The Pl stated there were five children born to this union (three now deceased), one of age, and one a daughter named Inez about twelve years, who resides with the Def. This is mortifying to the Pl that the child be reared under the Def's influence and he seeks custody. Summons dated 17 August 1909 calls Magnora THOMPSON on S. Blount St. about Tuffus [?] Church. Summons dated 1 November 1909 calls Jim BAINS. The court finds in favor of the Pl. [file does not mention custody settlement.]

THOMPSON, Lee v. Polly THOMPSON
The marriage was dissolved the April Term of Superior Court, 1886. The Pl married the Def December 1883 and lived as man and wife until June 1884 when the Def is alleged to have separated and left Pl's home in Wake Forest Township. The Pl alleges that previous to this the Def had committed adultery with Henry ROBERTSON. Witness Sam HICKS was called. Summons dated 24 October 1885 calls Polly THOMPSON. The court finds in favor of the Pl.

NOW IS THE TIME TO DRAG THE ROADS.

The Progressive Farmer and Southern Farm Gazette
Vol XXVI, No. 3
Raleigh, NC, January 21, 1911

Messrs. Editors: If there is one thing that we farmers ought to be ashamed of more than another, it is our country roads, especially when it is possible to have good roads – if not good roads, I certainly can say better roads than we now have.

I have recently convinced myself and others that a road can be permanently improved by using the King drag, and now wouldn't it be a good investment for The Progressive Farmer to pbluish [sic] every week a little sketch of a King drag and bill of material, so that the farmer can pick up a copy of his paper some morning after a rain and read over the bill of material needed, go straight out and find said material, or something that will do, and make a drag, and before night drag his section of road, then come in and go to bed assured that something has been achieved, something done.

J. T. EATON
Cana, N. C.

Editorial Comment: It would scarcely pay, we fear, to publish the directions for making a drag every week, although we publish them every year; but what Mr. Eaton says about the value of the road drag is unquestionably true. If any one interested will write us, we will give him full directions for making a drag. eBtter [sic] still, let him write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 321, which contains fuller information than we could give.
