Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc. (WCGS) was organized in April 1982 to promote genealogical study and research, to serve as a medium of exchange of genealogical or historical information, to encourage the preservation of genealogical or historical records, and to provide cultural, educational, and social opportunities involving genealogy. In 1983 WCGS was incorporated as a non-profit organization under the laws of the State of North Carolina.

Wake Treasures is the journal of the WCGS and is free to members. Semiannual issues are identified as Winter/Spring and Summer/Fall. Past issues of Wake Treasures are sold in volume sets. An order form is available on our website or can be requested via postal mail.

We endeavor to regularly publish primary source documents with historical or genealogical significance for Wake County, North Carolina. We will also publish primary source documents from related counties if there is no genealogical or historical society serving that county. We welcome articles about methodology and research experience as well as articles portraying Wake County residents, places, and events of the past. We seek a balance of time periods and hope to address the needs of both new and experienced genealogists.

Proposals and submissions may be sent by email or postal mail. References used to compile an article must be included. Depending on the nature of a submission, minor editing may be applied, but no substantive changes will be made. Errors in original documents that are transcribed should not be corrected, but notations may be made if they are clearly indicated.

WCGS makes every effort to present authentic original material. The Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc. and/or the editors of Wake Treasures cannot be held responsible for the accuracy or the publishing rights of the material furnished by contributors. MESSAGE FROM THE EDITOR

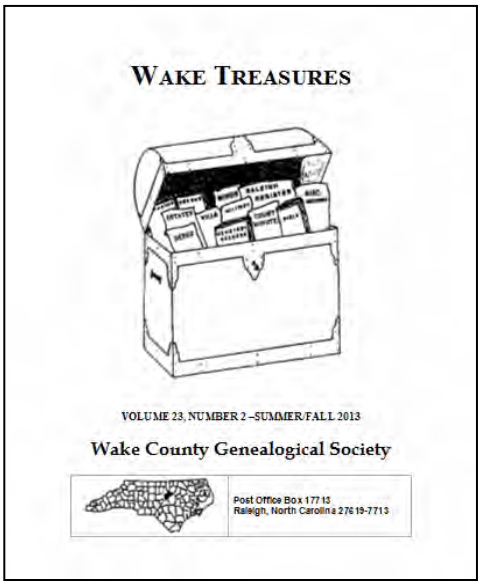
By Diane L Richard

We are pleased to present to you another 100+ page issue of Wake Treasures. We hope that you enjoy and find valuable this issue of Wake Treasures, the award-winning journal of the Wake County Genealogical Society.

As you've come to expect, it includes material that is Wake County specific and also North Carolina relevant topics covering the 18th through 20th centuries and encompasses Sunday School class lists to Voter Registration to Maps to Pharmaceuticals and much more!



Because many readers do not live in North Carolina and/or cannot attend the meetings held by the society, we have been making a concerted effort to "share" meeting-related material with members. In the previous edition, we published "Caring for Your Documents, Books and Images" by Jennifer French, Objects Conservator, North Carolina Museum of History, and in this edition we are publishing:

- "Genealogical Clues May Be Found in the Organization Records at the State Archives" by Gwen Thomas Mays, CA, Organization Records Archivist, State Archives of North Carolina
- "British Related Records at the State Archives" by Dennis Daniels, Reference Archivist, State Archives of North Carolina
- "Map Collection – Olivia Raney Library, Raleigh" by John Ward

These individuals all headlined a WCGS meeting this past year and graciously agreed to share their meeting materials and/or relevant information with you. We hope to continue this in future volumes.

How ANY and ALL of You Can Help!

The journal cannot survive, never mind thrive without your assistance. As you do research, read blogs, study Facebook posts, travel to archives/repositories, trawl through digitized images/documents, please do keep the journal in mind. If you come across a "Wake County" reference – no matter how small or large please let us know! One way to help is by "sharing" what you come across which might interest WCGS readers. For example, whenever I go to Duke (Durham, NC) or UNC-CH (Chapel Hill, NC) or NARA (Washington, DC) or LVA (Richmond, VA), I try to see if there are any "original" documents with a Wake County connection that we have not yet published in Wake Treasures. I make copies (paper or digital) and then, as you know, request help from the membership with transcribing the acquired documents. You can do this, too! Send the editors a document, and we'll get it transcribed and published. We always give credit to all involved – whether it's acquiring the document, transcribing/abstracting it, proofing it, etc.

Have a Wake County connected family? Tell us more about them.

Next month we will feature a piece by Phil Upchurch discussing some of his Swift Creek family connections.

Have "older" images of anything Wake? We'd love to share those with the readers!

Military records, Bible records, deeds, land grants, letters, diaries, newspaper clippings, organization records, etc. are all very, very welcome. There is so much genealogical information that members would like to read about – and you can help us make that happen.

Don't have Wake County ancestors?

The journal also welcomes "how to" and "resource" articles which have relevance to all family historians! Regardless of whether you live near or far, you can contribute to Wake Treasures.

Job Posting – Editor, Wake Treasures

That all said, I wanted to announce that effective with the production of Volume 24, Issue #2 of Wake Treasures (summer 2014) I will be relinquishing the reigns as Managing Editor of Wake Treasures. I love the journal (and anything WCGS), and I need and want to devote a bit more time to my family, career, and non-genealogical pursuits.

Do you love the journal? Do you like the idea of helping to produce this award-winning publication? Are you a somewhat organized person? If so, please consider nominating yourself to "apprentice" with Hope Blackford and me as we produce Volume 24 of Wake Treasures (over the course of the next year). Our contact information can be found on the inside front cover or here, http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~ncwcgs/administration.htm.

Diane ☺

Diane L Richard

P.S. We are playing around with adding more "color" to Wake Treasures and yet make sure that when printed in black and white, it doesn't suffer. Please do let us know what you think! Now that it is relatively easy to include images, color, hyperlinks and other elements to a journal published electronically, we want to make sure that not only does Wake Treasures have excellent award-winning content but that it's visual esthetics make you want to "read" each issue.

COLONIAL-ERA RECORDS AT THE STATE ARCHIVES OF NORTH CAROLINA

By Debbi Blake, State Archives of North Carolina

For most family history researchers, there are "landmark" dates in their journey backwards. In North Carolina, one such date is 1913 when the vital records law required the filing of birth and death certificates. Another is 1850 since that is the first time all family members appear on the federal census. For many, another may be the colonial era rather than a single year since that era is when many people arrived in this country. Since there are exponentially fewer documents available for study for this time period, there is also a great sense of pride in being able to say that you have traced your ancestry back to colonial times.

Generally the colonial era in North Carolina is considered to be 1729-1776. It begins with 1729 as the lords proprietor sell their shares of the colony to the British crown and ends when the colonists take the colony by force and declare themselves a free and sovereign land.

There was no dramatic change in the way the government was run from the proprietary period to the colonial. The agencies set in place much earlier continued to do their jobs and continued to create records as they had been doing. Slowly the colony began to notice that the royal government under Georges II and III was stronger than that of the proprietors. Thus, Carolina was more affected by it. It was only a matter of time before the colonies began to resent imperial ways. During the period following the proprietary, the colony began to grow and expand westward. This growing and maturing caused friction with the rulers.

Among the collections at the State Archives of North Carolina are several that can potentially help researchers with this early period of the state's history. These collections run the breadth of materials at the State Archives and are more numerous than one might expect. They are scattered, however, and the researcher will likely need a detailed plan for covering all of them. This article will address the collections that contain colonial era material.

As with most genealogical research, it is important to start with published sources that might lead, through their notes, to original sources. The Colonial and State Records are a logical and, now that the series is online, readily available resource. Published in two separate series, the first series covers the period 1662-1776 as the Colonial Records and the period 1776-1790 as the State Records. These volumes can be invaluable in pointing a researcher to specific documents, but researchers must be cautious in using them. They are not strictly chronological, and the index is not comprehensive. The scholarship that went into the compilation of documents is not up to the much more rigorous standards of today. Researchers must also keep in mind that the originals are often not easy to find from the limited citations of the volumes. Most of the records included are part of the holdings of the State Archives but others are in the custody of other agencies and repositories, and some have not been located. Nevertheless, this series, along with the second series are unsurpassed in publishing early documents. The second series presents types of records, is chronological within record group, and adheres to a much higher level of scholarship. Volumes in this series transcribe higher court records and records of the executive council. There are also two volumes of Church of England records covering the colonial period, as well. The publication of the second series was indefinitely suspended in 2012. Another valuable published work is the Old Albemarle County North Carolina Miscellaneous Records 1678 to ca.1737 by Weynette Haun. Haun transcribed from the original records, which have been withdrawn because of their extreme fragility. Stephen Bradley has also published a series of early records of North Carolina which should prove invaluable to researchers. Carolina B. Whitley compiled a list of headrights entitled North Carolina Headrights: A List of Names 1663-1744.

As previously mentioned, records of the colonial period are part of nearly every record group in the Archives, and finding aids for those record groups should be consulted. One of the most obvious places to look is the Colonial Court Records. This series of general court records is quite complete after 1694, with some scattered entries for the 1670s and 1680s. For the colonial period, all of the known records are at the Archives. The finding aid for them is thorough and arranged chronologically. There is also a card index listing of these records in the Search Room. Within the Colonial Court Records are a group of estates papers which are arranged alphabetically by the name of the decedent. Included in the finding aid, and also as a separate file behind the reference desk, is a list of all estates files in these records.

Court records, primarily minutes, also appear in some county records. The card index in the Search Room should be checked for availability, but in general most counties formed before 1776 include at least some colonial era court records. Another record group that contains a great deal of colonial era material is the General Assembly. There is a thorough, chronological finding aid for these records. At first blush it may not seem to researchers that these records will contain much about their ancestors in them since the General Assembly dealt with making laws. The General Assembly session records, however, contain a great deal of material about individuals, from petitions signed by men of the colony to laws providing for indigent men and women. Divorces and manumissions had to be granted, and name changes had to be approved by the General Assembly. While the session records are those created in order to pass laws and are not the proceedings of the assembly, proceedings were recorded in the Senate and House journals, which have been printed and are available in the Search Room. For the colonial era proceedings see the Colonial Records of North Carolina.

Just as the General Assembly is a state agency so are the Secretary of State and the Treasurer and Comptroller and both of these series contain significant amounts of materials related to individuals. Again, finding aids are available. Within the former, land grants and wills are probably the most useful.

Another series of interest to researchers are the Governors' Papers. Most of the early governors' papers were sent to England at the time of their administration; hence, many of these records are now in the National Archives of Great Britain. As part of the British and English records series,[1] the State Archives does have copies of most of these documents and many were reproduced in the Colonial Records of North Carolina. The documents cover many topics. Especially during the early periods, the concerns of the people and the governor were similar and give researchers great insight into the problems of that period.

The Archives also has some original papers for this period, and they are designated as the Colonial Governors papers. The series is not large but contains some interesting materials. A Calendar of Colonial Governors Papers compiled by Betty H. Carter is chronologically arranged by governor. The amount of material varies greatly for each governor.

Since, during the normal course of business in the colony, officials wrote to the crown in its various offices either telling them about the doings of the colony or asking for opinions and rulings, many documents passed between the two entities. The British records take many forms, but all are calendared in the Search Room with their contents. They are tedious to use but indispensable if they deal with a subject of interest. Another group of records that will be useful is the military collection. The finding aid for the collection is thorough and arranged by conflict.

Specifically mentioned above in connection with court minutes were the county records. Most other types of records within the record group can also be useful. Deeds especially often date back to the colonial era. Within the miscellaneous series in each county are a number of different records types that may be of interest, such as mill and bridge records and coroner's inquests. The card file finding aid in the Search Room is a researcher's best friend in terms of indicating the years and types of records available for each county.

All of the above-mentioned records are government records of one kind or another. Some of the best records for getting information about the colonial period, however, are private ones. While it is unusual for a government archives to have anything other than government records, the State Archives of North Carolina does have several significant collections of private records. Of greatest interest to researchers interested in the colonial era will be the private collections. With over 2,000 private collections, the Archives has a large number that deal with this early period. PC 16, the Tillie Bond Collection, is a significant one, as are PC 21, the Miscellaneous Papers, PC 27, the William Laurence Saunders Papers, PC 31, the Thomas Pollock Papers, and several other collections of the Devereux and Pollock families. Many other private collections deal with this time period and finding aids are available for each one in the Search Room. The Guide to Private Manuscripts in the North Carolina State Archives gives a synopsis of each collection in the Archives before 1983 when it was published. Many more have been added since its publication. Covered in the same volume are brief descriptions of account books. A few of them date from the colonial period. The Archives has a collection of Bible records as well. Copies of the family information pages have been made from privately owned Bibles. The copies are available in the Archives and are available online, as well at http://digital.ncdcr.gov. Additionally the Archives has 18th century newspapers on microfilm, as well as cemetery records and photographic negatives. The latter, of course, would be photographs of 18th century sites, as well as paintings.

The colonial era can be a difficult period in which to do research, but at the State Archives there are a surprising number of collections that might be useful. Many of the records have not been abstracted and published, and most are unindexed. While tedious to go page by page through these often fragile and difficult to read documents, the pay off can be priceless. Although certainly not completely comprehensive, this article does address most of the larger or more helpful collections available. Reference archivists can help guide researchers to additional materials that could be beneficial to their projects.

John H. CRAWFORD was born in Wayne county, N. C., January 17, 1832. He received his early education in the common schools in that county, which he regularly attended until 1845. When in his thirteenth year he suffered the loss of his father. To assist his mother he left school at an early age and went to Smithfield, N. C., to superintend the business of Dr. Alexander TELFAIR. During the year 1851, when but nineteen years old he was employed to superintend the store and distillery belonging to Col. John F. SANDERS, of Johnston county, N. C. In January, 1852, he married Patience A. STEVENS, daughter of Jacob A. STEVENS, of Johnston county, N. C., and to them were born seven children, of whom four now survive: John W. CRAWFORD, of Raleigh, N. C.; Mattie A., wife of L. BROWN of Asheville, N. C.; Lulu, wife of Rufus HORTON, of Raleigh, N. C.; Alonzo J. CRAWFORD, of Raleigh, N. C. In 1853, the subject of this sketch entered the jewelry business, at Goldsboro, N. C., and for five years continued it with success, and then he studied dentistry under Dr. S. A. McDOWELL for two years, at the end of which time he commenced to practice that profession at Goldsboro and in its vicinity. In 1862, during the war, he went with the Goldsboro militia to Newbern, and was in the battle of Newbern. After that battle, being appointed hospital steward, by the secretary of war of the Confederate States, he served in that capacity until the close of the war. When peace came Dr. Crawford removed to Raleigh, where he entered upon a lucrative practice of his profession, and where he has since resided, being one of the finest and best known dentists in the state, and a most worthy and honorable citizen, respected by the entire community. Dr. CRAWFORD belongs to Hiram lodge, No. 40, F. & A. M., and is also a member of Seaton GALES lodge, No. 64, I. O. O. F., and Litchford Encampment, No. 26, I. O. O. F. He is a valuable member of the Presbyterian church, and by his Christian motives and gentlemanly address, has won the esteem of his brethren, friends and all who come into contact with him.

John Bemis CRAWFORD, Dr. CRAWFORD's father, was born in New York in 1800, and coming to North Carolina at the age of twenty-eight, settled in Raleigh. He afterward moved to Wayne county, where he died in 1845. He was a man of superior education, and by profession was a teacher. He was appointed a magistrate of Wayne county, and served in that capacity for a number of years. In 1828 he married Louisa Talbert HARRIS, and to them were born five children, as follows: James D. CRAWFORD, of Robinson county, N. C.; Sarah (deceased), wife of Nathan STANLEY (deceased), of Goldsboro, N. C.; John H. CRAWFORD, of Raleigh, N. C.; William W. CRAWFORD, of Goldsboro, N. C.; Mary A., wife of Allen S. BALLINGER, of Greene county, N. C. Dr. CRAWFORD's grandfather, James Daniel CRAWFORD, was born near Saratoga, N. Y., and lived there all his life. Archibald C. CRAWFORD, Dr. CRAWFORD's great-grandfather, was born in Scotland, but came to America and settled at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where he died June 8, 1806. Dr. CRAWFORD's ancestors on his mother's side were from Ireland.

BRITISH-RELATED RECORDS AT THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE ARCHIVES

The State Archives of North Carolina has a wonderful collection of copied material from the United Kingdom. This collection is broken into the English Records, British Records, and Scottish Records and covers approximately the first two centuries of North Carolina history.

The earliest effort to obtain facsimiles of British records began in the early nineteenth century. In 1806 North Carolina secured documents from Great Britain to settle boundary issues with South Carolina. Over time various efforts were attempted to acquire records from North Carolina's former colonial ruler. However, no major effort occurred until the latter half of the nineteenth century.

In the 1880s, the State embarked on an ambitious project to collect and publish the colonial records of North Carolina. Directed by NC Secretary of State William L. Saunders, this goal was to copy original records in Great Britain. For this purpose, Secretary Saunders obtained the services of W. Noel Swainsbury of the British Public Records Office. Swainsbury sent parcels of facsimiles to North Carolina via the United State Embassy. Many of these documents were published in the ten-volume series, The Colonial Records of North Carolina.

In the 1920s, another undertaking to secure records from the United Kingdom occurred. The NC Historical Commission sent UNC professor R. W. D. Connor as a special agent to the British Public Records Office and British Museum in 1922 to locate and report on North Carolina-related materials in those repositories. He found records that were not in Saunders' The Colonial Records of North Carolina. He recommended that the papers associated with Loyalists be copied right away due to the deterioration of them. The Historical Commission hired the library and fine arts firm, B. F. Stevens and Brown, Ltd. of London to make facsimiles of these documents.

The major second effort to copy records from Great Britain lasted from 1922 to 1930. By June 1930, the NC Historical Commission had obtained 10,050 handwritten transcripts and 1,347 Photostats along with some maps and newspapers. The core of the collection consisted mainly of materials relating to North Carolina Loyalists. (An index to individual Loyalist claims is available at the State Archives.) The entire collection would be called the English Records.

The English Records also contained a few emigration lists of people from England and Scotland who came directly to North Carolina. These registers only cover the years from 1774 to 1775, the majority of whom came from Scotland. In 1934, the lists were edited by Albert R. Newsome and published in the North Carolina Historical Review. Later, they were made available in the book, Records of Emigrants from England and Scotland to North Carolina, 1774-1775.

The third major effort to obtain more documentary material from Great Britain coincided with the three hundredth anniversary celebration of the Carolina Charter of 1663. In the fall of 1969, Dr. Robert J. Cain traveled to London as the project's resident researcher. Over the succeeding years the program employed numerous full-time and part-time researchers. The work took researchers to the British Public Record Office, the British Library, the National Maritime Museum, the archives for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, Lambeth Palace Library, and Friends House Library. They also found material at county record offices and other small repositories.

Scottish Records

In 1984, work began on finding North Carolina-related records in Scotland. George Stevenson, who worked for the State Archives for many years, was the initial researcher on the project. He spent eight months in Scotland during 1984 and early 1985. This endeavor lasted for a decade and became know as the Scottish Records.

Aside from searching for records pertaining to North Carolina, the staff gathering the material did not follow any set guidelines. Researchers obtained material about Indians, pirates, military issues, and commercial policies. Even material that only implied a North Carolina connection was acquired. Some of the collection dates into the early 1800s.

The British Records project ended in the 1990s. The result was a large collection, approximately 300,000 individual pages, of North Carolina records primarily from the eighteenth century. There are no handwritten transcriptions or Photostats. The mode of copying documents was photocopying and microfilming. A lot of this material was being utilized before the end of the project. The August 1982 issue of The State magazine noted, "the resulting thousands of documents have been used by researchers of all kinds, and a number have been published or cited in scholarly articles." In fact, by 1984 many of these papers began appearing in The Colonial Records of North Carolina [Second Series] volumes. The series ended in 2012.

The English, British, and Scottish Records are available for anyone to research. The collections allow researchers to look at material that would otherwise be only available in Great Britain. They are a wonderful part of the records housed at the State Archives.

GENEALOGICAL CLUES MAY BE FOUND IN THE ORGANIZATION RECORDS AT THE STATE ARCHIVES

By Gwen Thomas Mays, CA
Organization Records Archivist, State Archives of North Carolina

The organization records at the State Archives of North Carolina include collections from various clubs, committees, sororities, fraternities and lodges, patriotic societies, lineage societies, professional associations, veterans associations, and special interest groups. Of these, the patriotic and lineage societies often contain records that can give the researcher hints about their ancestors, and the same can be said of some of the veterans associations as well. These groups include the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, the North Carolina Society of the Daughters of the Revolution of 1776, the North Carolina Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of North Carolina, and the Sons of the Revolution in the State of North Carolina, Inc., just to name a few. These records cannot be used as proof of military service, but can point the researcher towards the appropriate place to obtain that proof.

When the American Legion was founded in 1919, a person had to be a veteran of the World War to become a member. After World War II broke out, it was decided that the organization should also include veterans from this war. The records at the State Archives cover the years 1920 to 1945, and include lists of veterans from each of the counties in North Carolina. The organization American War Mothers includes applications for membership that list WWI and WWII service of the children of the applicants. And the collection for Veterans of WWI includes lists of veterans from that war.

The American War Mothers was founded in 1917 and was incorporated in 1925. Concord was the site of the 1942 State Convention of the North Carolina War Mothers. Many of the attendees gathered on North Union Street for this photo, in front of the Hotel Concord.

Application, ORG.121
Winnie Davis Chapter of the UDC
State Archives of North Carolina

For the Civil War, the State Archives has original records from the Winnie Davis Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the James Johnston Pettigrew Chapter, and the James B. Gordon Chapter, which all contain applications for membership that include the lineage of the applicant showing descent from a Confederate veteran. And on microfilm, there are records from the Bladen Stars and Starlets Chapter, the James Kenan Chapter, and the North Carolina Division of the UDC. In many cases, the applicant's Civil War veteran was their father, making them literally Daughters of the Confederacy. The Winnie Davis Chapter and the North Carolina Division records also include applications for the Southern Cross of Honor, which were filled out and signed by the veteran himself.

Going back in time, the Revolutionary War is represented by the collections from Children of the American Revolution, the North Carolina Society of the Daughters of the Revolution of 1776, and the Sons of the Revolution in the State of North Carolina, Inc. For membership in both the Daughters and Sons of the Revolution, the applicant had to be a direct descendant of a veteran or statesman from the original 13 Colonies who unwaveringly worked for the cause of American independence from Great Britain. Some of these applications include supporting documents that substantiate the applicant's claim.

Society of Colonial Wars
Source: http://www.gscw.org/Default.aspx?p=DynamicModule&pageid=341864&ssid=242799&vnf=1

For the Colonial period, the Society of Colonial Wars is a patriotic society of male descendants of participants in Colonial wars. The Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of North Carolina, contains membership applications of descendants from passengers on the Mayflower on the voyage which terminated at Plymouth, New England, in December 1620. As any genealogist knows, it can be extremely difficult to trace the lineage of Colonial or post-Revolutionary War era females. Many times the applicant's lineage outlined on their application for the societies mentioned above, traces through one or more females in their heritage giving often hard to come by maiden names. Some, but not all societies required birth, death, and marriage dates on their applications, which can also be nearly impossible to find for pre-1850 ancestors.

Most of the organizations listed here have a state-wide membership, with the following exceptions:

- The Winnie Davis Chapter of the UDC is based in Chatham County, keeping in mind that the Confederate veteran many have been from anywhere in the south.
- The records of the Children of the American Revolution are from two chapters, both based in Wake County:
  - The Samuel Ashe Chapter
  - The Hunter Hinton Chapter
- The General James Johnston Pettigrew Chapter of the UDC is also based in Wake County.
- The James B. Gordon Chapter of the UDC is based in Forsyth County.

The organization collections are generally overlooked by researchers and may contain a clue to help break through a brick wall in the research process. As always, the search room staff at the State Archives will be happy to direct patrons to the finding aids for these and any other collections in our holdings.

BASIC MILITARY RESEARCH TIPS TO GET YOU STARTED

By Shelley Murphy

Source: Central Virginia Heritage, Central Virginia Genealogical Association, Volume 30, Numbers 1 & 2.
Permission to reprint granted by the author.

CVGA Editor's Note: In the following, CVGA Vice-President Shelley Murphy shares her notes on basic military research tips.

Put on your thinking cap and write down what you know about your soldier. Think about other family or friends who might know information. Consider developing a timeline/research plan to aid with your research. You have to determine which war your soldier served in and where. Listen for the stories. Begin to search for records and start with Google – Google is your friend! If you know what group the solider served in, google the information. As you locate files and documents place them in date order for easy access of the information. Once you gather information, begin a plan to share the story.

Questions to think about:

- What are the known facts? Which war? Where did they serve? stateside or overseas?
- Are you searching for regular service? Special Forces? MIA or KIA? Colored or Negro troops?
- Military Resources – what's available?

Know the major wars and when they happened:

- Revolutionary War (1775-1783)
- War of 1812 (1812-1815)
- Civil War (1861-1865)
- Spanish-American War (1898)
- World War I (1914-1918, U.S. from 1917-1918)
- World War II (1939-1945, U.S. from 1941-1945)
- Korean War (1950-1953)
- Vietnam (U.S. military involvement from 1965-1972)

Five Branches of US Military:

- Army – ground troops; includes Army Reserves, National Guard
- Air Force – air and space; includes Air Force Reserves and Air National Guard
- Navy – seas and transport Marines; includes Naval Reserves
- Marine Corps – ground combat; includes Marine Corps Reserves
- Coast Guard – law enforcement, boating safety, sea rescue, and illegal immigration control; includes Coast Guard Reserves, Coast Guard Auxiliary

More questions to ask and think about:

- In which branch of service did your soldier serve?
- What files are available to you?
- Did your soldier earn any metals?
- Did your soldier die in battle?
- Is your soldier buried on the mainland or overseas?
- What's on the headstone? Any military information?

Even more questions:

- What were the soldier's job duties (infantry, MP, cook, medical, gunner, pilot, etc.)?
- Did the family receive any benefits (pension benefits)?
- Museums and Memorials (VFW, awards, etc.)
- Was the soldier wounded, honorably discharged?
- Did a sibling also serve in the military?
- Is s/he buried in a military cemetery?
- Do you have any photos of your ancestor in a military uniform?

Colored, Negro or Black, Native American, Asian:

- When were they approved to serve & why?
- Colored Troops – Google or access the NARA website, fold3.com, and Ancestry.com. Check websites, i.e., heavybombers.com, etc.

Still more questions to think about:

- Are you researching before the Civil War? Is there any oral history?
- Archives has Revolutionary records. Don't forget to search for biographies, DAR, etc.
- Archives has US Colored Troops records for Civil War. After Civil War, check Southern Claims, Freedman's Savings and Trust records, and Freedmen's Bureau.

Research steps and process, records available online:

- What do you want to know?
- When did they serve? Which war or conflict?
- Where were they living at the time they left/registered for the service?
- Did they survive the war? If not, where are they buried? in a VA cemetery? (Ancestry.com, fold3, NARA, VA cemeteries 1775-2008)
- Veteran Cemetery Database information at Ancestry.com (military)

The possible information you can obtain from the Veteran's database:

- Veterans full name
- Birthdate, death date
- Interment date, burial location/site, cemetery name, cemetery address
- Relationship to veteran
- Veteran service dates, military rank, and military branch

Some examples of where to locate other records:

- Cyndi's List: http://www.cyndislist.com/military-worldwide/
- Daughters of the American Revolution: Search the database to locate an ancestor who served. http://dar.org/
- WWI Draft Registration Card – The individual's name, place of residence, date and place of birth, race, country of citizenship, occupation, and employer
- Online World War II Indexes & Records – http://www.militaryindexes.com/worldwartwo/

Look for websites of the organizations such as the 5th or 8th Air Force. Examples:

Army Enlistment Records 1938-1946 (Ancestry.com)

- Information you might get: name of enlistee, serial number, the county and state where the enlistee resided, place and date of enlistment. If previous service, their grade, which branch of services, the term of enlistment, birthplace, birth date, race, citizenship, height and weight, education, and marital status.
- National Archives and Records Administration. U.S. World War II Army Enlistment Records, 1938-1946 [database online]. Provo, UT, USA: Ancestry.com Operations Inc., 2005.

Prisoners of War – 1941-1946 (Ancestry.com)

- The International Committee of the Red Cross created information in this database. Generally, the type of information you will find in this database for an individual includes: name of prisoner or internee, race, state of residence, service branch, and detaining country.

MAP COLLECTION – OLIVIA RANEY LIBRARY, RALEIGH

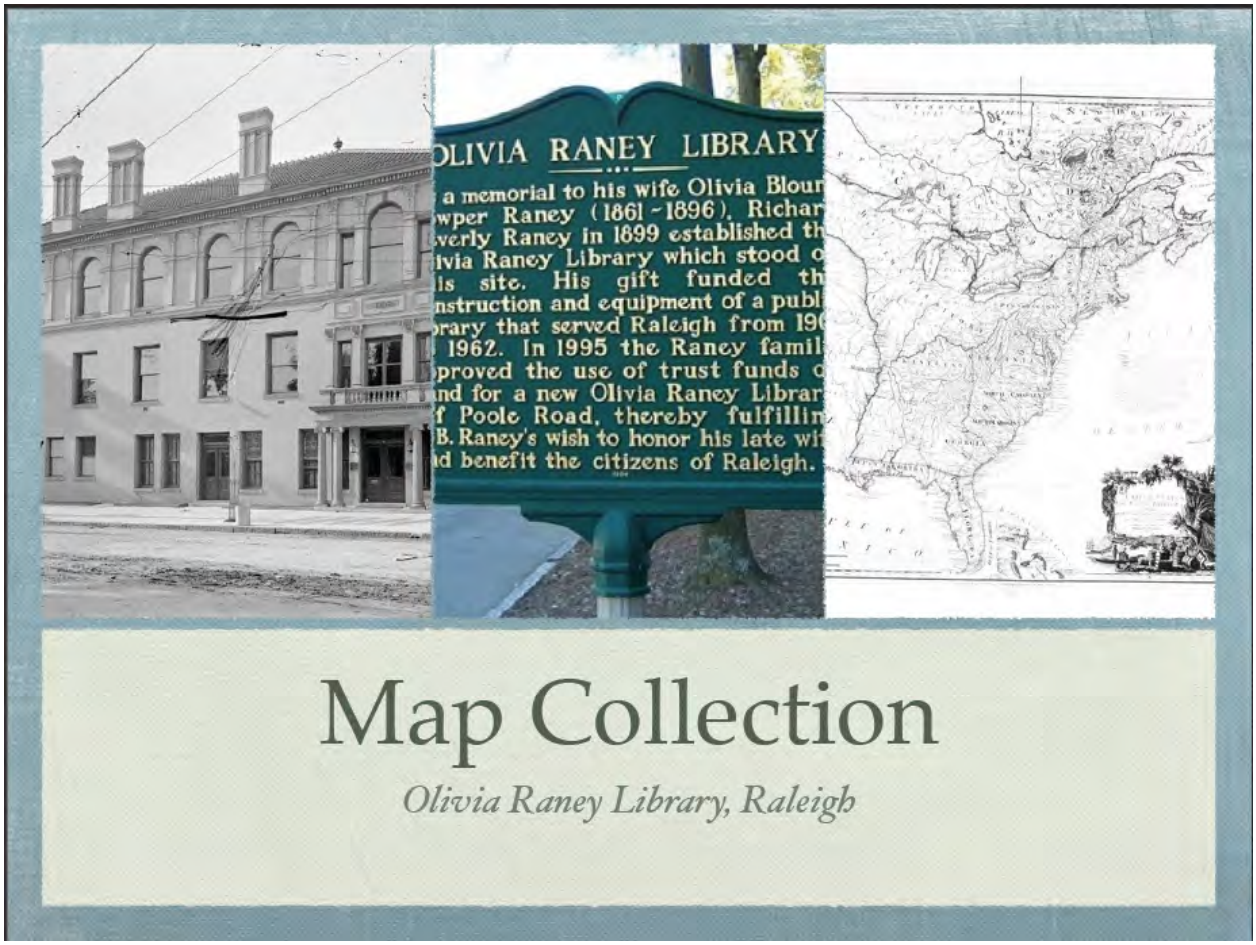
Presentation Copyright © 2013, John Ward, Used by permission



WCGS member John Ward gave a talk this spring about the Map Collection at the Olivia Raney Library. He has been working to catalog the maps held by the library.

There are many, many maps, and many of them are "hidden treasures!" Some of the maps were "new" to the audience, and that is always exciting! Some of these maps are also available via the North Carolina Maps site, http://www.lib.unc.edu/dc/ncmaps/, though most are not.

John has graciously agreed to share his presentation with the journal. Reproduced here are select slides from John's presentation. To access the maps or learn more, do visit or contact the Olivia Raney Library, http://www.wakegov.com/libraries/locations/orl/.

Obituary – Rev. Bennett T. Blake

Rev. Bennett Taylor Blake, the oldest member of the N.C. Conference in years of successive service, was born in Southampton county, Va., January 3, 1800, and died at his residence in Wake county, N.C., May 28, 1882, in hope of a glorious immortality.

His parents were Ellis Gray Blake and Mary Taylor. His father removed from Boston, Mass., to Southampton county, Va., some time in the latter part of the last century. The family were lineal descendants of an ancestor who was closely related to the distinguished Robert Blake, the great English Admiral who rendered the name and powers of the English navy so illustrious in the annals of the commonwealth. It is still a large family, having representatives in many parts of the United States, from Boston to San Francisco. They have carefully kept their family records, and can trace their lineage from the ancestor that came to Massachusetts after the extinction of the commonwealth.

When Mr. Blake was eight years old, his parents removed to Petersburg, Va., where his mother died in 1811, and his father in 1815. He was engaged as a clerk in a large mercantile establishment in Petersburg until he entered the ranks of the itinerant ministry…He was twice married, and the son of his old age who survives him, he leaves a precious legacy…

Abraham ALEXANDER, statesman, was born near Raleigh, N. C., in 1718. He was a member of the colonial legislature before 1775, and when that year the royalist governor attempted to oppose the people in their right of free speech, he was elected president of an indignation meeting held in the court house at Charlotte, at the call of Col. Thomas POLK. He was made permanent chairman of the subsequent meeting held May 31, 1775, that issued the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, providing for a republican form of government, and renouncing allegiance to Great Britain. This was nearly a year before the Declaration signed at Philadelphia, July 4, 1776. This document was transmitted to Philadelphia in August, 1775, by a special messenger, after having been read in mass meetings to the people in different parts of the state. Mr. ALEXANDER died at Charlotte, N. C., April 23, 1776.

Obituary – Theodore W. Poole

Was born in Baltimore, Md., November 22nd, 1844. Died in Raleigh, N.C., March 4th, 1890.

He was educated in Baltimore. Was living in Elizabeth City, N. C. when the war between the States began. Though under age, he at once offered himself to his country's cause, and was a faithful and true soldier to the end. He moved to Williamston, N. C. in 1866, and engaged in the drug business until 1867, when he removed to Omaha, Nebraska, thence to Cheyenne, Wyoming, at which point he carried on a large wholesale and retail drug business. In 1870 he again removed to North Carolina, but in February of the same year returned to the West, where he travelled extensively for three years. He then settled in Denver, Col., where he conducted a real estate business until 1876. After this he returned to his adopted county, Martin, where he remained for a short while. He travelled in North Carolina for several years representing a large drug house of Philadelphia, Pa. He became a member of the Association in 1887. As a citizen and druggist he held high positions of trust, and merited the confidence and esteem universally bestowed.

Obituary – Addison Sherwood Lee
Was born in Orange county, N. C. Died in May, 1895, at Lincolnton, N. C., in his fifty-ninth year.

He learned the drug business under the able instruction of Mr. Richard Saunders, at Chapel Hill. After clerking for a number of years for Messrs. Williams & Haywood, of Raleigh, he entered the well-known drug firm of Pescud, Lee & Co., of Raleigh, and afterwards continued with the firm of Lee, Johnson & Co., which succeeded Pescud, Lee & Co. He was a charter member of the Association; had served upon the Board of Pharmacy, and was for a number of years treasurer of the Association. He was without doubt one of the best informed and most practical pharmacists in the State. He had been in failing health for several years.

BUCKHORN CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS BOOK OF NAMES

Introduction by Diane L Richard

[Source: Credit: United Methodist Church Records, David M. Rubenstein Rare Book & Manuscript Library, Duke University

The David M. Rubenstein Rare Book & Manuscript Library at Duke University (Durham, NC) has an extensive collection of Methodist Church Records. The finding aid[5], Inventory of the United Methodist Church Records, 1784-1984, bulk 1800-1940, lists out in some detail what is included:

> "The United Methodist Church Records are comprised primarily of bound volumes of quarterly conference minutes that document the administrative life of smaller church units (circuits, charges, and churches) within the N.C. Conference (1784-1974, bulk 1841-1919) and the Western N.C. Conference (1884-1962, bulk 1893-1932) of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South (MECS). Counties in N.C. represented in the collection include Alamance, Ashe, Bladen, Burke, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Cleveland, Dare, Davidson, Durham, Forsyth, Gates (also Va.), New Hanover, Iredell, Lincoln, Perquimans (also Va.), Randolph, Rowan, Yadkin, and Wake…
> "In addition to the quarterly conference and district conference minutes, the N.C. Conference and Non-N.C. Conference Series include membership, Sunday School, abstinence society, and subscription and class lists (Buckhorn, Currituck, Forsyth, and Haw River Circuits); plans and maps of circuits (Currituck, Forsyth, and Holly Springs Circuits); notes, drawings, and inventories of church buildings and furniture (Iredell and Roanoke Circuits); and handwritten "responses" of the Eastern Shore of Virginia to the MEC split, some written by William Gwynn Coe. The Historical Sketches Series includes land deeds for churches and correspondence written by or pertaining to Francis Asbury and Thomas Coke; and some information about churches with mixed-race congregations."

Under the Circuit, Charge, and Church Records Subseries, 1784-1974, bulk 1841-1919 are records for the Buckhorn Circuit, Wake Co. These records include:

- Buckhorn Church, Class Books, 1850-1853, 1855-1866 (3 volumes) Box NCC55

This church is located in Chatham County, just southwest of what was Buckhorn Township (Wake County) near the Harnett County line – so, the corner where these three counties meet. These maps show you its location. Because of its location, some of its members were likely from Wake County and others possibly were extended family or friends who just happened to live over the county line.

The class books provide a fascinating glimpse into this church and its membership in the decade before the civil war and through the end of the war. Information about both "white" and "colored" members is included. For any given individual, these class lists tell you whether they died (and possibly when), did a woman marry (and her new maiden name), was the person expelled or on trial, did they "remove" by certificate to another church, etc. I think my favorite piece of information found was that several individuals were identified as "gone to the christians." Nowadays we think of many religions as "Christian" including the Methodists and obviously they used a more narrow definition at this time.

We have transcribed the years 1850 (including 1853 for "colored") and 1860. This gives a neat perspective across this decade and also allows you to correlate the listed members with the 1850 and 1860 census records.

SCHOOL HISTORY – WAKE FOREST ACADEMY

Transcribed by Marie Cooke

[Source: North Carolina Schools and Academies, 1790-1840, A Documentary History, By Charles L. Coon; Raleigh, Edwards & Broughton Printing Company, State Printers and Binders, 1915, Pages 532-534.]

WAKE FOREST ACADEMY, 1823-31.
WAKE FOREST ACADEMY.

The Trustees of this Institution have the satisfaction of informing the public that they have employed as principal teacher Mr. Jas. PHEELAN, who comes highly recommended for his moral habits and literary attainments. The exercises will commence on the first day of February next. The terms are, twenty dollars a year for the Latin and Greek languages, and fifteen dollars for Arithmetic, English, etc. The classical course prescribed by the University of North Carolina will be followed here:

This Academy is situated fifteen miles north of Raleigh and within two miles of the Wake Forest Post-office, in one of the most pleasant, healthy and reputable districts of our country and which enjoyed an almost total exemption from disease during the last Year when sickness so generally prevailed elsewhere. Board can be had in good families for sixty dollars a year.

Samuel ALSTON.

WAKE FOREST ACADEMY.

The Teacher of this Institution respectfully informs the Trustees, Parents, Guardians, and the public at large, that the examination of the pupils in their various branches will take place on the day prescribed in the laws of school. He craves and desires the punctual attendance of all the Trustees on said day. The exercises will be resumed after the usual time of vacation. Friends from a distance will meet with acceptable accommodation near the Academy.

My Wake Forest Plantation.
FOR SALE.

It is 16 miles from Raleigh on the mail road to Oxford, and the nearest and most traveled road to Warrenton and Petersburg, 5 miles from Colonel DONALDSON's works at the falls of Neuse, and in one of the best neighborhoods in the state, the Forest district containing three excellent schools, (one classical) and two well constructed and well filled meeting houses for Baptists and Methodists, and has a lawyer and a doctor. The inhabitants, without I believe a single exception, are sober, moral, and thriving in their circumstances, and not a few are educated and intelligent.

Calvin JONES.

–Raleigh Register, September 7, 1827.

WAKE FOREST SCHOOL.

I hereby inform my friends and others desirous of educating their children and wards, that the School near my residence will recommence on the first Monday of the ensuing year. Both sexes will be instructed in the various branches usually taught at Academies, by an experienced and competent teacher. Board can be procured in respectable families at a reasonable price; and the terms of tuition will be moderate. Wake Forest has always been considered as healthy as any place this side the mountains.

Those who may come from abroad, will be treated with kindness and attention; and every endeavor will be made to advance them in their studies.

Dec. 1, 1828. Calvin JONES.

–Raleigh Register, December 12, 1828.

WAKE FOREST FEMALE SCHOOL.

The Public are respectfully informed that a Seminary for the instruction of young Ladies will be opened at this place on the third Monday of July next, under the immediate direction of Mrs. PHILLIPS, who has had eighteen years experience as a Teacher at the North and in this State, and comes with the best testimonials of qualifications from Bishop GRISWOLD and other characters of high standing. Two very competent young Ladies are employed as Assistants.

The course of instruction will be that usually pursued, viz; Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, History, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy, Composition, Plain Needle Work and Embroidery, Drawing and Painting, and Music on the Piano.

The prices of Tuition for the Session of five months, will be; for the ordinary branches of an English Education $10 – Needle Work and Embroidery $5 – Drawing and Painting $5 – Music on the Piano $15, payable always in advance.

Board can be hand in my family in the same house with the teachers at thirty dollars per Session, where every proper attention will be paid to the comfort, morals and manners of the pupils.

The pure air and water, healthiness and good society of this place are too well known to require mention. That the location of this Seminary is in every respect proper, may be inferred from the fact that Wake Forest has for a number of years past supported excellent and prosperous schools.
