The North Carolina Genealogical Society 2011 Award for Excellence in Periodical Publishing for a journal published by a local North Carolina genealogical society was presented to Hope Blackford, editor of Wake Treasures. Two times each year since 2005, Hope Blackford, who is soon to retire as journal editor, has created issue after issue of a journal that is full of names, history, and useful information relating to Wake County genealogy. This journal is chock full of abstracts, articles, case studies, a variety of genealogical tidbits, and much more. The journal is very well documented with sources for each and every article and abstract and is every name indexed. Wake Treasures is available also as an electronic version, accessible as a WCGS member benefit.

We endeavor to regularly publish primary source documents with historical or genealogical significance for Wake County, North Carolina. We will also publish primary source documents from related counties if there is no genealogical or historical society serving that county. We welcome articles about methodology and research experience as well as articles portraying Wake County residents, places, and events of the past. We seek a balance of time periods and hope to address the needs of both new and experienced genealogists.

Proposals and submissions may be sent by email or postal mail. References used to compile an article must be included. Depending on the nature of a submission, minor editing may be applied, but no substantive changes will be made. Errors in original documents that are transcribed should not be corrected, but notations may be made if they are clearly indicated.

WCGS makes every effort to present authentic original material. The Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc. and/or the editors of Wake Treasures cannot be held responsible for the accuracy or the publishing rights of the material furnished by contributors. This is the sole responsibility of the contributor. All material is published with the permission of the contributor. Documented content corrections that are submitted to the Editor will appear in a later issue. Permission to reproduce or quote from an article published in any issue of Wake Treasures must be obtained in writing from the author or authors. Write to the author in care of WCGS.

Finding Female Ancestors at the State Archives of North Carolina

By Debbi Blake, State Archives of North Carolina

Finding female ancestors has never been a particularly easy task in genealogy. For most of their lives women were known by their married names rather than their maiden names. In order to study one half of one's genealogy, however, it is crucial that a woman's surname at the time of her birth is established. Developing strategies to conduct such research will be one of the purposes of this article. The other will be to suggest sources of such information at the State Archives of North Carolina.

Determining the Maiden Name

The search for female ancestors may be one of the most frustrating tasks in genealogy. Finding a woman's maiden name is not always easy. The two most common documents that record a woman's maiden name are a marriage record and a death certificate. As the researcher moves backwards in time it becomes less and less likely that such a document will be found. The successful search for that elusive woman and her born identity, therefore, ranks as one of the most rewarding achievements in genealogy.

Do we have to do something different to find our ancestress as opposed to our ancestor? Genealogy is the study of family relationships, after all, the search for sets of ancestors in family groups. The five steps of the research process are to first survey the secondary sources and analyze that research thoroughly. Plan a survey of primary research by determining goals and what records might contain the needed information. Use and thoroughly understand the primary sources. Evaluate all material in light of its reliability, validity, and context and, finally, present the findings.

Searching for women involves all these steps but is carried out in the difficult historical context of women who left few records of their own. Men owned the property, ran the government and the businesses. They gave their name to their wives and children, and they wrote the early histories. Hence, we most often have to search for women by searching for the men in their lives. A preliminary step that may motivate, as well as guide research, is to read case studies about finding the born identities of women. These remarkable articles illustrate the ingenuity and persistence of family historians who creatively used whatever records they could locate.

Most of the time, identifying a missing ancestress will involve building a case that meets the genealogical standard of proof, that is, a case built upon direct and indirect evidence in which pieces of evidence are exhaustively collected and weighed. The case must be documented and presented in a logical manner that takes into account that more evidence may be found at a later time that will alter the conclusion. Building a case such as this means that research must be very thorough and should rebut all contrary evidence. Research every variant of the surname. Be aware and considerate of naming conventions within the family and/or ethnic group. Check and recheck evidence and analysis. Verify as completely as possible each fact gathered about a female ancestor's life. Create a timeline of the known facts of her life. Intertwine historical and genealogical facts.

The first thing the savvy researcher must do is to begin to search for the woman where she is. Fix her in place and time. The earliest known sighting of her is the starting place. Do not search where you think she could be until you have exhausted everything in the earliest known location.
It is unlikely, though not impossible, that a man went outside his neighborhood to find a wife. Historically, marriages occurred between people who lived near each other, probably within a five-mile radius. An awareness of waterways that connect communities is important since it was on these waterways that people got from one place to the next. When studying the neighborhood and the neighbors, researchers may follow these steps: identify all reasonable possibilities, eliminate all that are not possible until there is only one possibility, identify and bolster all evidence that supports the above one possibility.

The first step, identifying all the possibilities, takes time and researchers should not rush through this step. Eliminating all that are not possible will not be as easy as it sounds and will probably take a long time. Every man that could be her father has to be investigated, as will all of his daughters. The third step will also be a time-consuming process. The researcher will come to know all the women that are possibilities very well as he/she keeps analyzing and checking for clues and relationships between pieces of evidence.

Gather Records

Another tried and true tenet of genealogy is to consider what records might contain the data you need to answer the question. To find the maiden name of a woman in North Carolina, we know to check a marriage record and a death certificate, if either is available. The savvy researcher knows to check her husband's and children's marriage, death records, and their obituaries. He or she knows to read county histories and locate any family Bible of any of her descendants. A researcher cannot just concentrate on the direct line. Cluster research is crucial in this case.

It is also a good idea to consider the life roles of a woman when searching for records about her. Consider this epitaph:

> "Here lies Henry's daughter, wife and mother
> Great by birth
> Greater by marriage
> Greatest by motherhood."

This is the epitaph of Empress Matilda (Maud), daughter of Henry I, wife of Emperor Henry V and Geoffrey Plantagenet, and mother of Henry II. For much of her history women have been forced to be measured by the men in their lives, and these men must be researched to find her.

During her lifetime a woman may play all or some of these roles: daughter, wife, widow, mother, grandmother, sister, niece, granddaughter, friend, neighbor, citizen/immigrant, and divorcee, among others. She might create records, or have records created about her, in any of these roles. An awareness of these roles is critical when considering records that may exist about her. What records might be created on her as a daughter? Her parents' or siblings' wills or estates or their obituaries, a birth or death certificate, a deed of the father or brothers, a family Bible, the census. Some of the records that might be created on her as a wife are her husband's will, estate, obituary, husband's death certificate, a deed of father, brothers, or husband, a family Bible, and the federal census. If there are accounts left by a regional midwife, could the ancestor appear in them as a mother? Records that might be created on her as a neighbor are deeds, a neighbor's will, and the census.

One must be aware of the time period and the laws in effect during it. That is, do not look for birth and death records in North Carolina prior to 1913. Other records can sometimes be used to find the dates of such events, but these specific records do not appear before October of that date. Unless there is reason to believe that records were saved, there is little to be gained from looking for court records before the date of a catastrophic fire in the court house. In other words, the researcher must learn about the area in which they find their ancestor as well as the records created there. The researcher must be aware of when the county was formed, what it was formed from, and when parts of it were removed to form other counties. They must also know which records that might help answer the questions.

An Independent Woman

At all times in human history there have been women who lived by their own rules and did not follow the mores of the time. While, in the future years this may not be a unique quality to search for, in earlier years of history such a woman will likely be easy to find. She will stand out. The woman who never marries, the actress or singer, the woman who masquerades as a man in order to participate in the Civil War, the woman who helps a war effort by spying, the woman declared insane, as well as the one who frequently appears in bastardy bonds, and the woman who works outside the home. An example is Diana Foster, a colonial North Carolina woman, who acted as a lawyer, a most unusual thing for a woman to do. The more common woman, the one who played the roles outlined above, is much harder to find.

Other Resources

In the search for sources to check, there are several that may seem to be a long shot, such as letters or diary and journal entries. Use the manuscript collections, including the account books, at the State Archives of North Carolina that include information about women during the period, and in the area, of study to get a sense of the feelings and experiences of her contemporaries.

Certain types of records call for special research techniques and knowledge of the laws at the time period. Marriage and land laws greatly affected women. Tax records are good examples as well. Most of the time women do not appear on tax rolls, but when they do, it is usually because they are widows or heirs. She should be tracked through the various years until she no longer appears. Several reasons might explain why she has dropped off the rolls. She may have married again, and the researcher must find her again in another man's household, a man owning the same property that she was paying taxes on before. She may have sold her property, and a deed index should show the sale. Deeds are often a surprisingly good source of information on women. It is often a married couple that is selling property so both are mentioned in the transfer. Some transactions call for the woman to be separately questioned about her willingness to sell. Some even mention that the woman received the property from her father. This is not an uncommon aspect of North Carolina's deeds.

There are several issues relating to the federal census that have direct bearing on the search for female ancestors. Firstly, a troublesome woman must be followed through the census completely. When she is no longer there on her own, follow each of her children since she may live with one of them during her widowhood. Specifically certain census years provide pertinent information about a female ancestor. The 1850 asked if the couple was married within that year. More helpful than the 1850 is the 1870 census. It asked if the parents were of foreign birth. This has direct importance to the knowledge of the woman. Check not only the entry that relates to the woman but also the entries of her children. Those entries give information about the birthplace of the person's parents. The 1880 census asks the birthplace of the parents, as well. They could have been born in a state other than North Carolina, and the entry indicates where else to look. The 1900 and 1910 censuses ask how many years a couple had been married. They also ask the number of children born by this woman and how many are now living. All of this information builds the case. The 1890 census is problematic for genealogists since it was destroyed during at fire. Parts of it survived, however, and they are worth looking at. The 1890 Veterans Schedule survives for half the states in the last half of the alphabet, KY-WY. The census takers were supposed to list Union veterans only but some listed Confederates, too. This census also lists widows.

Another group of records that bears study is that of cemetery surveys. Check the family plots of all the surnames that are associated with the woman. Especially if she died early, she may not be in the same plot as her husband who may have married again. Two definitions associated with tombstones are important. Often found on tombstones are "consort of", meaning that she died before her husband, and "relict of", meaning he died before she did. Related records are obituaries that are more common as we approach the twentieth century. Look, not only for hers and her husbands, look also for her children's and those of her siblings since the woman may be listed among the survivors of those gone on before.

Write Her Story

Another helpful tactic is to write up a narrative that includes all of the information known about the woman in question. Include all hypotheses and questions in this account. Somehow the discipline of writing everything in a logical sequence helps illuminate holes in thinking and even clarifies previously unseen connections. Such a narrative can later become the basis for the last of the genealogical research steps–present findings. It can also become the basis for an article that will aid and motivate other researchers who are stymied by an elusive female ancestor. All the charts created to summarize knowledge serve as the basis for the narrative. The maintenance of this narrative, as well as the charts, is an ongoing process. The researcher must continue the agonizingly slow process of collecting one piece of evidence at a time. It continues until enough evidence is amassed to present a convincing case.

The End of the Story…Or Is It?

Women are one half of a pair located on a family group sheet and pedigree chart. To have a complete genealogy the information on both sides of the family must be included. Women have not been traditionally treated the same way that men have and that is apparent in the historical records. Crafty researchers can overcome this lack of information by a thorough study of the records that do remain. The use of original documents and the constant analysis of the evidence can yield results where one thought that there were none. It will likely be time consuming, but isn't the quest itself one of the greatest appeals of genealogy? Do we actually ever want to be finished with our family history? There is always just one more piece of information to find and add to charts that will help flesh out the story. While the search for female ancestors can be frustrating, it is also very rewarding when she is found.

According to his Rev War pension papers: Micajah Ferrell resided in Wake Co., NC when called into service. He was born in Pittsylvania Co., VA on 25 Feb 1757. He moved to Wake Co., NC at the age of 4 (1761) and resided there 41 years. Colonial America and the Upchurch Family

a ggg-grandson of Nathan Upchurch I, Revolutionary War Soldier

Property of Nathan Upchurch I[1] and Neighbors, Green Level Community, Wake County, North Carolina

The stories of Nathan Upchurch I raising his family in the Green Level area of Wake County proved accurate since the existing Green Level Church is almost centered on the tract described by Nathan in his will as "the tract of land where on I now live", Tract 1a of the following map. (See Will[2] in Upchurch Bulletin, Volume 1, Number 1, dated January 1980, page 31.)

When determining the location of the lands where Nathan Upchurch lived during the period from about 1800 until his death in 1835, the Will was the base instrument, with the deeds of the adjoining properties supporting the Will description.

The tract of land referenced on the map as 1 is the land claimed by or deeded to Nathan Upchurch with the referenced letter suffix indicating a subdivision by Will or by deed referenced in the Deed Index or the descriptive text.

No acquisition deeds for Nathan Upchurch were found prior to year 1819. This was probably because in 1832 a fire destroyed 18 irreplaceable Deed Books in a Wake County Courthouse fire. The books destroyed were not consecutive, so some of the old deeds are available.

The William Ward property (5) referred to in the Will and which was located east of Nathan Upchurch has one division which can be traced directly from the 1800 period to the present day owner (present day Tax Map 541 Tract 4). The Ward property did not change bands during Nathan's lifetime, so no reference to Nathan Upchurch property was made on the east Side.

The John Scott property (4) located north of Nathan Upchurch land was acquired on 5 May 1794 and did not mention Nathan Upchurch land. This Scott tract is not plotted on the map because the original purchase does not coincide with later divisions. On 18 November 1805 John Scott divided his property and gave it to his two sons with the dividing line being – "the new road that leads from Henry Berly's to where Upchurch now lives". Subsequent deeds made reference to Nathan Upchurch's line and the Will referred to Byrd's line and John Scott's line all being the original property of John Scott.

On the west side of the Nathan Upchurch property, the line was described in the Will, "Beginning at the Flat branch on John Scott's line and running south with the meandering of said branch to Fuller's line" was located by a work note on Wake County Tax Map 512 which indicated a short segment of this line as "Flat Branch Line". In October 1806 Moses Upchurch purchased land (2) and made reference in his deed to "a red oak in Nathan Upchurch's line thence south with said land to Jones Corner" (3). This was along the flat branch but was not mentioned by this name in the Moses Upchurch deed. On 20 January 1798 John Scott bought a tract of land (not plotted on the map) south of and adjoining the Jones tract (3) and located north of a road and, "Beginning at a pine north of the road". This corner, while the property description partially conflicts with the Moses Upchurch property of 1806, appears to be the beginning point for the portion of Nathan's Will where he gave Tabitha Upchurch property, "beginning at the Flat branch in John Scott's line and running south…" (1c & 1d). This description "Beginning at a Flat branch in John Scott's line", used twice in Nathan Upchurch Will, are two separate locations along the same branch.

[1] In this article, Nathan Upchurch I refers to the progenitor of his line in North America, not necessarily the father of Nathan Upchurch II.

[2] For the remainder of this article, Will refers to this published article in Upchurch Bulletin.

Willie J. Fuller owned the land (8a) adjacent to and south of the Nathan Upchurch property. No acquisition deed was found for the Fuller property which was probably owned by the Fuller family from before the time Nathan Upchurch moved into the community until he died. The location of the property line between Upchurch and Fuller was in dispute and was revealed in deed transactions after Nathan Upchurch's death when the "Upchurch stubbornness" was not prevailing.

Deeds were found in Nathan Upchurch's name for the purchase and sale of several tracts of land southeast of the Green Level Church. These tracts were adjoining, and the plotting could not be accomplished by the individual deeds because of the poor descriptions and the Fuller line dispute, but as a group the plotting was done in accordance with Nathan Upchurch's claims.

Other tracts purchased or owned by Nathan Upchurch's children are plotted where the locations have been determined. Burtis Upchurch bought tract 2c. Hubbard Upchurch bought tracts 9a, 9b, and 9c as shown on the inset which is located approximately 3 miles directly east of Green Level Church, and Gilbert Upchurch sold tract 7a three years before he died. Burtis Upchurch bought another tract which has not been located, but is believed to be south of Clark's Branch. Edmund Cole, husband of Mackey Upchurch, sold a tract of 168 acres on 20 January 1824 which has not been located.

No holdings for Nathan Upchurch I have been found away from the home place. No sales have been found made to anyone other than family members.

Commentary on John Lee Upchurch. Jr. Article on Property of Nathan Upchurch I

By Robert Philip Upchurch, the editor of Upchurch Bulletin

Nathan Upchurch I (1759-1835) is the direct ancestor of several thousand members of the extended Upchurch family and is my gggrandfather. I have always dared to hope that we could find the exact location of his plantation in western Wake County, North Carolina. AND NOW, this magnificent feat has been achieved by the dedicated research of John Lee Upchurch Jr. The location of the property has several significant implications.

So far as is known, Nathan Upchurch I is the only fifth generation Upchurch for which exact property boundaries are known. One hopes that more research will be done and that the land owned by other Upchurch ancestors of the 4th, 5th, and 6th generations will be located. The fact that we know the neighbors of Nathan Upchurch I means that we can learn more of him through them. Several of the neighbors were in-laws and in some cases descendants.

The fact that Nathan Upchurch I's property embraces two key crossroads, a post office area, a church site, a present day cemetery, and a Masonic lodge site holds considerable promise for learning more about our ancestors. Most stimulating of all is the possibility that the actual home site of Nathan and even one or more family burial plots may be found on the original plantation. Perhaps present day owners can be persuaded to allow us to probe for foundations and evidence of burial sites. John Lee Upchurch Jr. speculates that Nathan's home site would have been a hundred yards or so south of the present Green Level Baptist Church. He reasons that Nathan would not have built where the church is now as this would have been exposed to the wind; whereas a site just south would have been below the brow of the hill, and near the junction of the old road and the new road.

We close this commentary with an expression of deep appreciation to cousin John Lee Upchurch, Jr. of Raleigh, NC who has through his many hours of research bequeathed to generations yet unborn an additional increment of rich heritage.

Registers of Signatures of Depositors in Branches of the Freedman's Savings and Trust Company, 1865-1874

Transcribed by Hope Blackford

Background

[Source: http://persi.heritagequestonline.com.ezproxy.co.wake.nc.us/hqoweb/library/help/aboutfreedmans.html]

On the 27 rolls of this microfilm publication are reproduced 55 volumes containing signatures of and personal identification data about depositors in 29 branch offices of the Freedman's Savings and Trust Company, 1865-74.

The Company was incorporated by an act of Congress approved March 3, 1865 (13 Stat. 510), as a banking institution established in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, for the benefit of freed slaves. The military savings banks at Norfolk, Va., and Beaufort, S.C., were transferred to the Company soon after if was founded. From 1865 through 1870 a total of 33 branches were established, including an office that was opened in New York, N.Y., in 1866.

In 1874 the Company failed and by the terms of an act of Congress approved June 20, 1874 (18 Stat. 132), the trustees were authorized to select, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, three commissioners to take charge of the effects of the Company and to report on its financial state to the Secretary of the Treasury. The arrangement was altered by an act of Congress approved February 21, 1881 (21 Stat. 327), whereby the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized and directed to appoint the Comptroller of the Currency to administer the affairs of the Company. The Comptroller was made commissioner ex officio and he submitted annual reports to Congress. The final report on the trust company was submitted in 1920.

The information contained in many of the registers is as follows: account number, name of depositor, date of entry, place born, place brought up, residence, age, complexion, name of employer or occupation, wife or husband, children, father, mother, brothers and sisters, remarks, and signature. The early books sometimes also contain the name of the former master or mistress and the name of the plantation. In many entries not all the requested data are given. Copies of death certificates have been pinned to some of the entries. In each case the certificate has been filmed immediately after the page that shows the registration of the person's signature.

The registers are arranged alphabetically by name of State. The entries are arranged alphabetically by name of city where the bank was located, thereunder chronologically by date when the account was established, and thereunder numerically by account number. Many numbers are missing, a few are out of numerical order, and in some cases blocks of numbers were not used. Many registers seem to be missing. The volume for Philadelphia, Pa., dated January 7, 1870, to June 26, 1874, contains signatures of officers of societies.

Filmed after these introductory remarks is an index that gives the location and the date of organization of the branch. The first part also gives the account numbers and the numbers of the rolls of microfilm on which the registers are filmed. There are no account numbers or registers available for the branches listed in the second part.

The records reproduced in this microfilm publication are part of the records in the National Archives designated as Record Group 101, Records of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Closely related records in the same record group include indexes to deposit ledgers (42 vols.). The ledgers are arranged alphabetically by name of State, thereunder by name of city, and thereunder by name of depositor. As the indexes to the deposit ledgers include the depositor's account number they can serve as a finding aid to the registers of signatures reproduced in this microcopy, which are not indexed. Other related records include loan and real estate ledgers and journals, 1870-1916, arranged roughly in chronological order; inspectors' reports, minutes of meetings of committees, and a journal of the board of trustees, 1865-74; dividend payment records, 1882-89, arranged alphabetically by name of city and thereunder by depositor's account number; and letters received by the commissioners of the Company and by the Comptroller of the Currency as ex officio commissioner, 1870-1914. Interspersed among these records are legal papers, canceled checks, payrolls, expense checks, and passbooks.

Other record groups containing related documents are Record Group 105, Records of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands, and Record Group 94, Records of the Adjutant General's Office, 1780's-1917.

The records reproduced in this microcopy were prepared for filming by Lockwood Wright, who also wrote these introductory remarks and provided the other editorial material.

Index

The first part of the index, arranged alphabetically by name of city in which the branch was located, gives the date of organization of the branch, account numbers, and numbers of the rolls of microfilm on which the registers are reproduced. There are no account numbers or registers available for the second part.

US Freedmen Bureau Records of Field Offices, North Carolina, Application for Rations, 1865-1867

Backgound and transcribed by Judith Pittenger Rysdon

October 10, 2013

[Source: See footnote[4] for complete source list.]

I began transcribing the list of rations in 2011 and restarted again two years later. Not finding the Freedmen's Bureau on Ancestry using searches, I went to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) website. Even though the government was closed down, I found some information at http://www.archives.gov/research/microfilm/m1909.pdf. This site verifies that the microfilm listed below does contain book 227 which has rations for North Carolina. Explanations of the contents of the microfilm are at the NARA site, but the images of the microfilm are not there.

I clicked on the first option on the NARA site to look for M1909 which brought me to a link to all of the microfilm published by NARA's partners Ancestry and Fold 3. The list of microfilm followed with a link to Ancestry. Following M1909, and I was taken from NARA to Ancestry to the following: http://search.ancestry.com/search/db.aspx?dbid=1105. Using the browse feature, I selected North Carolina and rations and was brought to exactly where I had been two years before: Book 227…the first of 128 images. The second page/image begins with page 10, like I had copied in 2011. (Blank pages had not been filmed.)

For other states: For Virginia, Census returns, image 14, begins a census listing name, age, former owner, etc. Montgomery County, Virginia; and Virginia census returns for date, not stated, lists names, ages in household, where they lived, religion, plantation, etc. Amazing.

About U.S., Freedmen Bureau Records of Field Offices, 1863-1878

The Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands, also known as the Freedman's Bureau, was established in the War Department by an act of Congress on March 3, 1865. The Bureau was responsible for the supervision and management of all matters relating to refugees and freedmen, and of lands abandoned or seized during the Civil War.

While a major part of the Bureau's early activities involved the supervision of abandoned and confiscated property, its mission was to provide relief and help freedmen become self-sufficient. Bureau officials issued rations and clothing, operated hospitals and refugee camps, and supervised labor contracts. In addition, the Bureau managed apprenticeship disputes and complaints, assisted benevolent societies in the establishment of schools, helped freedmen in legalizing marriages entered into during slavery, and provided transportation to refugees and freedmen who were attempting to [be] reunited with their family or relocate to other parts of the country. The Bureau also helped black soldiers, sailors, and their heirs collect bounty claims, pensions, and back pay. Using Y DNA to Disprove Parentage: 2014 Final Y DNA report proving that Nicholas Baucom, who died 1762 in Johnston County, North Carolina, was not the father of John Baucom, husband of Rachel Barker of Wake County, North Carolina, plus information about John's probable parents

By Jim Baucom

[Editor's Note: Jim Baucom is a retired aerospace electrical engineer, currently living in Centennial, Colorado.]

Background

I started researching my Baucom line in 1969…back in the dark ages…BI, Before Internet. I was able to trace my line back to Cader Baucom with census records, county court records, and libraries in Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina, and the Church of Latter Day Saints' Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah. The LDS library had a reprint of John's will naming his eight sons, including Cader (my ancestor), Josiah, and John (Jr), and three daughters. In some genealogical publications, I found two other Baucom researchers: Banks McLaurin and Margaret Parham. When I talked to Banks he told me he was doing a book on the Baucoms, and we exchanged information. We and other Baucom researchers had found records in Baltimore, Maryland where a Nicholas Baucom and Mary had a son 1725 named John. In 1740s a Nicholas Baucom obtained land in Johnston County, North Carolina. When Nicholas died in 1762 he left a will naming a wife Sarah and sons John, Nicholas Aaron and Moses plus other children. So without any hard proof, most of us concluded that Nicholas's son John was the John who married Rachel Barker, and that Sarah was Nicholas's second wife.

When Margaret Parham and I exchanged information, she provided a copy of a Union County, North Carolina newspaper article about Josiah Baucom, Cader's brother, that stated Josiah's father John was the son of James Baucom and Frances Drake from England. I filed it away and decided, for the time being, I was staying with Nicholas as my ancestor, as did most other researchers. As the years went by I had this nagging thought that Margaret's Information could be correct. I dug out Margaret's copy; but it was so faded, it was difficult to read. When I went online I found some helpful folks at the Union County Public Library in Monroe, North Carolina who sent me a scan of the article. The article has actually been printed twice: in The Monroe Journal on 16 September 1932 – The Baucom Family, and The Monroe Enquirer on Thursday, 30 January 1958. The article was written by D. Nance who used the local John Foster Chapter of the Daughters of the America Revolution for the source of information. The article is reprinted end of this article.

Today, thanks to science advancements in DNA in the past few years, it is possible to accurately determine if Nicholas is my ancestor. For a detailed exclamation of how this is accomplished, visit some of the many websites on this subject. The short version is that there is less than 1% of a male's DNA that is inherited from his father exactly for many generations with mutations rarely occurring. This is called Y DNA. Found at certain locations, called markers, in the DNA Helix, are a number of a pattern of molecules that are repeated a number of times. So when a male has his Y DNA tested, the results are reported by stating the number of times the pattern is repeated at markers. No other DNA is reported.

So how is this useful for us to answer the question posed above? First several males need to be found who are very sure that their line goes back to John and Rachel via one of his eight sons named in his will. Their numbers will match on all markers unless there is a mutation. This is true for testees 1-4 on the chart on the following page.

#1 is my line via Cader (tested at Gene Tree).
#2's line is via Cader's brother Josiah and his son Ransom. He mailed me his results.
#3 is via Josiah's son Wiley found at http://www.baucum.org/ (tested by DNA Heritage).
#4 is someone who does not want his ancestor known.

The next step was to find at least two males who have traced their line back to different sons of Nicholas and Sarah.

#6 is a descendant of their son Aaron (tested at Gene Tree).
#7 is a descendant of their son Moses (tested at Gene Tree).

#6 and #7 did not match each other.

#8 is a Baucom in Texas, also a descendant of Moses. His Y DNA (tested by Family Tree DNA) is an exact match to #7 (Jerry) on those locations tested for different labs, except for one mutation. They have 31 out of 32 that fall into this category.
#9 is a Baucom uncle of Colette O'Sullivan (tested by Family Tree DNA) whose line goes back to Nicholas (II), son of Nicholas Baucom and Sarah Lee. The Y DNA of #7 and #8 and #9 MATCH each other at marker numbers tested. All labs test some different markers.

http://www.familytreedna.com/public/baucum/default.aspx?section=yresults shows some of the people named previously. I am Kit B3595 (tested by Genetree). (Results entered manually.) Note: DYS 442 at Genetree is 5 higher than Family Tree.
The Texas Baucom is kit 312982.
Colette's Baucom uncle is Kit 192140.

Now we positively know that testees #1-#4 – who match each other with only 1-3 mutations (marked with an X) who are descendants of John Baucom, husband of Rachel – are not related to #6, #7, #8 or #9. This does not prove that James Baucom and Francis Drake were John's parents, but I assume the DAR Chapter had some evidence of the facts. I personally will go with James Baucom and Frances Drake as being the parents of John Baucom, father of Josiah and my Cader Baucom as stated in the newspaper article, until better proof of other parents comes along. (A cousin pointed out that the article names Lewis Baucom as Josiah's son; Lewis and Josiah were brothers to Cader, and the remainder of the children listed were really Josiah's). A history book states that OUR BAUCOMs were ENGLISH, even if you do not except James and Frances as ancestors.

Those of you whose line goes back to Nicholas and Sarah Lee will have to decide if this is the same Nicholas, who with Mary, (1) fathered a son, John in Baltimore in 1725, (2) moved to North Carolina with a new wife, and (3) named a son John in his will; and decide if Nicholas is really of German descendant, as many have reported. My goal when I started the DNA research was to prove or eliminate Nicholas as my ancestor. The answer is he was NOT.

The remainder of the chart is important to some people who have a Baucom/Baucum/(et al) ancestor. #12 on my chart is a descendant of Isham Baucom in the 1800 Wake County, North Carolina census. Banks had assigned Isham to be the son of John Jr., son of John and Rachel, probably because Isham, who had gone to Kentucky, had appointed a person to represent him in Wake County, North Carolina when his father John died. However, his Y DNA does not match any one on the chart. So he is from a different John.

#15 represents a father and son whose Baucom ancestor goes back to a George Washington Baucum in Arkansas. The information for these two came from http://www.baucum.org/. When these people were tested, different standards were used to count at a few markers. On my chart these particular markers have been updated by adding a certain number to the original value. http://www.hprg.com/hapest5/page2.html is where I found the website for this correction.

Others need to be tested, including Jerry at http://www.pbalkcom.com/gwb/Jerry-o/main.htm. His line started in New England then came to North Carolina in the 1700s and then went to Georgia, Alabama, and later everywhere. It is very likely that this could be the source of some of the other Baucoms of all spellings throughout the south. The Balcoms, of all spellings in early New England had names like Uriah and Isham Baucom in 1800 North Carolina. I would speculate that this could be their line and not John, the son of John and Rachel as previously speculated.

If anyone decides to have their DNA tested to verify their Baucom line, only the Y DNA can do that. For questions or comments contact me at: jim0400@aol.com.

Prominent Union County Family Forbearer's James Baucom And Frances Drake (By D. Nance)

Tradition says that James Baucom and Frances Drake were lovers in England, but poor James indentured himself for transportation to America. After working out his transportation, he sent for his true love on the same conditions; they both worked out her transportation and were married in North Carolina. They had two sons, Ransom and John. The author knows nothing of Ransom, but John was living in Wake County In 1790. There were only fifteen Baucoms in North Carolina in 1790, and they were descended from the above John.

Josiah Baucom, with Sally, came with their family prior to 1803 and settled on Richardson Creek on land now owned by John Prichard and are buried near his old home in unmarked graves.

Josiah reared nine, children, to-wit:

a. Alfred married m1) Ann Pistole, who died 4 September 1840 and is buried in Davis cemetery, and m2) Sarah E. Thomas, daughter of Isaac F. Thomas and granddaughter of John D. Green. He left no children. (See Will Book D, page 132 for his family.)

(See Will Book D. Page 102. Anson County.)

He owned a large horse-apple orchard which descended to his son Bill, who had them cut down and had an old-fashioned log rolling to pile up the logs to burn. The neighbors tramped Bill's crops in visiting the orchard to such an extent that he became angry and destroyed this fine orchard.

Willis Baucom, fifth son, was one of the champion fighters of this section, known far and wide. It was a custom in his day for men to fight, not because they were bad, but to see which was the best man: They would strip to the waist, strike a ring, and the neighbors would stand outside to watch until the best man had conquered. Then they would shake hands and depart without any bad feelings.

Henry Baucom, son of Lewis, own owned a mill on Richardson Creek in which wheat and com were ground, and an old-fashioned saw mill of the upright sash variety. On this mill, it is said that he sawed all the lumber for the old church building at Olive Branch and would not accept a cent on saw bill and also donated the land for the church. The writer does not recollect seeing him in the church.

Alfred Baucom was the most successful Baucom of them all. He said when he was a young man that he was going away from his people and see if he could not get along better than his kinsmen. He devoted himself to grist and saw milling and was considered a rich man for his day and section.

The older Baucoms were said to be just and upright men with a quick temper and would not allow anyone to impose on them. But with true hospitality, they dispersed their cider and brandy with their neighbors on all occasions.

(Queries and rules for the feature will be in next Issue.)

f) Levi went to Tennessee.
g) Annis married Madison Godwin.
h) Adllne married Harris Pope.
i) Tilda
j) Fronnie
k) Jane never married.

(Girls Tilda and Fronnie went to Tennessee.)

8. William or Bill lived at the Bill Baucom ford on Richardson Creek and was the father of four children:
a) John F. buried on home place.
b) Rowena married Drury Allen.
c) Leah married Capt. D. Hancock.
d) Martha married Edmund Carpenter, son James.

Bill Baucom sold his land and went to Mississippi.

9. Green Baucom, brother of Bill, was born 24 December 1816 and married Emeline Hornback. They had one son:

a) John, who married a sister of Rev. R. H. James and five daughters:

a) Louise married Hosea Thomas.
b) Sarah married James Hannah.
c) Rowena married Brown Staton.
d) Nancy married John Q. Thomas.
e) Sirlina married Thomas Harrington.

Josiah Baucom, the progenitor of all Baucoms of Union County and surrounding counties, was a wagon maker and was considered one of the best. He detested sham work and would curse a blue streak when he saw bad work.

END OF ARTICLE

Point of Interest: Cader's grandsons, John and Mark, were wheelwrights in Tennessee, and John's son was a wagon maker.

Gaston Wilder Plantation Book

"Gaston Hillary Wilder (1814-1873) was a planter of Johnston County and Wake County, North Carolina. The collection includes antebellum deeds, legal papers, and scattered accounts and letters of Gaston Hillary Wilder. Included are Wilder's account book as paymaster in the United States Army during the Mexican War; scattered household accounts and letters of Wilder's wife, Sarah E. Hinton Wilder, after his death; and papers of his brother, Samuel Wilder, of Greene County, Alabama, including a farm account book, 1876-1880, general merchandise account books, 1885-1911, and other business papers."

It's possible that this book was connected to the family's Alabama activities. Regardless, the contents are connected to a Wake/Johnston County (North Carolina) family and its roots. Interestingly, I only live about ½ mile from the Wilder's Grove Youth Center and spent nights there when my son was young and played T-ball. When I fill my car with gas, it's often in sight of the cemetery where Gaston Hillary Wilder is buried. The examiner.com published an article "Wilders Grove and the surgeon" where the writer revisits the locale about the time of his death.

Reproduced here is the "index" from this volume and a sample page. If you find a name of interest mentioned, the entire volume can be accessed at UNC.

Tax Records Matrix for Nathaniel Jones and Henry Jones of Wake County, North Carolina (more than one of each)

By Diane L Richard

[Author's Note: This was a project undertaken on behalf of a client.
This client gave permission for this particular research to be shared with WCGS members via Wake Treasures.]

We know that there is more than one Nathaniel Jones and more than one Henry Jones living in Wake County in the early 1800s. In order to clearly establish that Nathaniel Jones (father of Henry) is different from Nathaniel Jones (father of Nancy) and two other Nathaniels, tax records (c. 1800-1820) were reviewed for Wake County to show that these individuals consistently and uniquely identified with various tax districts and individuals. Additionally, there were more than one Henry living in Wake County also. These same tax records also help "separate" out these individuals.

Notes about tax records:

Tax details are typically listed as name, acreage, white polls, black (or slave) polls. If only 1 poll number is listed, then it is a "combined" list of polls.

Tax Law for this time period was the following[9]:

1784 – traditional poll tax freemen and male servants twenty-one years old and upwards, and slaves male and female between the age of twelve and fifty years
1801 – exempted free males over the age of fifty 1817 – the upper age limit lowered to forty-five

Tax records for Wake are incomplete until c. 1809 (the first bound volume), although there are some records as early as 1802 which include some records of the various Nathaniels.

There are NO Nathaniel Jones listed in extant tax records until 1793; these are only records of tax district captains, justices, and constables – not full tax compilations.

Lack of entries for pre-1809 is only indicative of records not found, not necessarily records not created.

NOT all Jones entries are listed; only those to assist in "separating out" the various Nathaniels.

This matrix summarizes Wake County tax records for Nathaniel Jones. The highlights of the tax records are:

Henry Jones has a land grant in Wake County, North Carolina for 236 acres in 1797. Starting with the tax lists of 1802, we see "this" Henry Jones with this land in a district. In this district we also find a Nathaniel Jones, later referred to as Nathaniel Jones Senior (Senr).

Contemporaries to Nathaniel Jones Senior include Nathaniel Jones WP (White Plains) and Nathaniel Jones MC (Middle Creek) and Nathaniel Jones CT (Crabtree). These were how these gentlemen were identified in the tax records. Based on these tax records, we can clearly show "which" Henry was associated with which Nathaniel, re-enforcing the already found records.

[9] Source: North Carolina Research: Genealogy and Local History, 2nd Edition, Helen F. M. Leary, CG, FASG, editor, North Carolina Genealogical Society, Raleigh, 1996

The tax records clearly show that Nathaniel Jones Senior lived near the Henry Jones of the 236-acre land grant and that after the death of said Nathaniel Jones in 1809, Henry had responsibility for the residue of the estate until at least 1820 (when the research stopped), probably on behalf of his mother. By the time of the death of Nathaniel Jones Senior in 1809, all his children were "of age" since the daughters were all listed with their married names, and land subsequently listed for the heirs was substantially reduced.

Additional evidence of "which" Nathaniel is connected to the lineage is via "who" Nathaniel Jones Senior's son Henry marries in 1813 – Nancy (Ann) Jones, daughter of Nathaniel Jones WP (clearly stated in the newspaper).

When Nathaniel Jones WP dies in 1815, we see that Henry is paying taxes on about 304 more acres; the same amount of Nancy (Jones) Jones's portion of the land division.

This also helps us separate out the other Henrys – one living in Crossroads district and another who shows up in Swift Creek after Nathaniel Jones WP dies in 1815.

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., April 8th, 1889.

I wish it to be understood that the following sketches of the University of North Carolina are not intended as a grave history for the public, but chiefly for the gratification of the students, old and new. I have been compelled to prepare them hastily, even hurriedly, while much engrossed with other duties. I have not hesitated to use extracts from my published addresses, now out of print. Fragmentary and imperfect as the sketches are, I venture to hope that they will be of interest, not only to those for whom they are especially designed, but to all friends of our University.
