WAKE COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, INC. (WCGS)

WCGS was organized in April 1982 to promote genealogical study and research, to serve as a medium of exchange of genealogical or historical information, to encourage the preservation of genealogical or historical records, to provide cultural, educational, and social opportunities involving genealogy. In 1983 WCGS was incorporated as a non-profit organization under the laws of the State of North Carolina.

Membership is open to anyone with an interest in the purposes of WCGS as stated above. The membership year is from September 1 through August 31. Annual dues are $20 for individuals and institutions and $25 for families (two people, related by blood or marriage, residing at the same address). A membership form is available on our website. Membership dues received after May 31 will apply to the following membership year.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

Message From the Editor

By Diane L Richard

Editor, Wake Treasures

WELCOME TO THIS EDITION OF WAKE TREASURES

Dear Readers,

The start of a new year is a great time to deliver to you a new edition of Wake Treasures, chock full with helpful information and records.

We are pleased to have Debra Blake from the State Archives of North Carolina share with us World War I materials held there. Our ever reliable Phil Upchurch tells us about Green Hope School and its history.

We continue some series for records from the Ernest Haywood collection (at UNC), 1802 Tax Records, late 18th and early 19th century petitions, civil action papers concerning land for 1814, Voter Registrations 1902-1906, County Accounts, and 1816 court minutes. To round out this edition, there are some fun advertisements to give you a "slice of life" perspective for the year 1911. There are also some records included from the transcriber training held in March 2016 with a few more still to come.

We've had some volunteers make great progress with the Raleigh death registers and certificates, and we'll soon be publishing those. Additionally, the Asbury Station Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) located in Cary is helping transcribe some pre-1900 birth records. We cannot wait to publish those. If your group is seeking a volunteer activity to engage in, please consider abstracting/transcribing for Wake Treasures.

Speaking of transcribing, hopefully you read a recent email about the availability of the webinar I recorded for the North Carolina Genealogical Society, "Accurate Transcription for Historical Records," http://www.ncgenealogy.org/component/content/article/38-webinar-articles/697-accurate-transcriptions-for-historical-records-webinar. This virtual training video is FREE for anyone to view. The one-hour training provides examples, tips, tricks, and resources in best practices for transcribing documents for publishing and for genealogical research in general. After viewing, please visit the WCGS Journal Projects page, http://www.wakecogen.org/cpage.php?pt=32, or email me at dianelrichard@mosaicrpm.com (please put Wake Treasures in subject line) to find the right transcription project for you to help us! We are still seeking help with various material already acquired -- Ferguson family ledger (1870s, probably Wake Forest area), John W. Harris ledger (Volume #1, 1820s, Wakefield), WWI Red Cross related documents, The Yarborough Hotel register and more material soon.

Copyright© 2017, All Rights Reserved – Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc.

With the National Genealogical Society Conference coming to Raleigh this May, we would love to "publish" a few compilations that have been in the works for years (literally). Each of these publications is very, very close to being print-ready. Please volunteer to help project manage the last few steps needed so that we can get these available on Lulu by 1 May! Volumes that are definitely almost print-ready are Wake County Bastardy Bonds (1772-1937), Wake County Divorce Records (A-Z), Wake County Levy Dockets (1805-1897), and Wake County School Census (1897). We will probably also be close enough on Wake County Voter Registrations (as we are down to the about the last dozen precincts as part of the serialization we've been running in the journal) to publish those also! Wouldn't it be great to see at least five new Wake County books published? Please help make this happen!

Best wishes to all for a safe, healthy, happy, prosperous and genealogically successful 2017!

Diane

P.S. The State Library of North Carolina is busy digitizing material and placing it in the North Carolina Digital Collections. Some recent additions that you want to know about are:

World War I Materials in the State Archives of North Carolina of Interest to Genealogists

By Debra Blake
State Archives of North Carolina

Commemorations of World War I are in full swing worldwide and are due to kick into high gear in North Carolina in April 2017. New material related to World War I is being added to the digital collections all during this year and next, and news of those updates is posted regularly to our blog. The purpose of this article is to spotlight some of the World War I collections in the State Archives of North Carolina that may be of interest to genealogists. There are two record groups in particular to which family historians should pay attention since the bulk of WWI information will be found in them. By studying the finding aids for relevance to their research, a genealogist may be able to determine if the materials relate to their family, are geographically significant, or give background information on particular campaigns or units. Both record groups are part of the Special Collections of the State Archives of North Carolina. Special Collections contains materials that are not part of the government records holdings. The first collection is the Military Collection which contains a group of records on World War I. The second is the Private Collections.

In the 1920s, what was then, the Historical Commission sent out collectors, Fred A. Olds and Robert B. House, to procure materials that documented the state's activities in and during the Great War. Many of the World War I materials of the Military Collection were gathered by these men and include the papers of several soldiers that contain letters and diaries, as well as several record series that contain large amounts of material that list by name, or give information about, individual soldiers. The first of these is the North Carolina County War Records (WWI 2), which is a large series of miscellaneous materials that document each county's war-related activities. There are significant numbers of photographs, letters, compiled service histories, and biographical sketches of soldiers. This collection documents efforts to support the troops and provide troop training in North Carolina. In each county, Olds and House attempted to gather as much as they could that would document the county's activities during the war. Many of the materials were sent to the North Carolina Historical Commission for their collection, but sometimes they borrowed materials to write histories of the county's activities for the Commission and returned them to the owners. Each county was compiling very different information based on its own activities. Halifax County, for example, included biographical sketches of soldiers written by school children, while Surry County included files of printed forms related to individual soldier's record. The forms were given to the families of soldiers and returning soldiers themselves by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Copyright© 2017, All Rights Reserved – Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc.

Another series, the North Carolina Draft Records (WWI 3), contains lists of drafted men from each county, a complete file of deserters from the state, the enlistment records of about 55,100 North Carolinians inducted into military service, and a list of men reporting to the Rutherford County Local Board.

North Carolina School Wartime Materials (WWI 5) is a series of materials gathered by Historical Commission collectors that relates to the war activities on college and university campuses. There are records of the Students' Army Training Corps and Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Materials are from state-supported, as well as private, institutions and are arranged by the name of the institution.

The World War I Organization Records (WWI 6) series is composed of materials from war-related activities of organizations during and after the war. Included are the records of the American Red Cross, American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, North Carolina Bar Association, Freemasons, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, and Daughters of the American Revolution. The papers are arranged by the organization name. They include correspondence, newspaper clippings, pamphlets, photographs, publications, songs, posters, notes and reports, official records, activity records, meeting minutes, compiled histories, and soldiers' letters. Of all of the organizations that sent material to the Historical Commission, only the American Legion, the American Red Cross, and the Daughters of the American Revolution sent significant amounts.

Items of particular interest to genealogists within the American Legion Auxiliary material are the lists of women who were veterans themselves or spouses of veterans.

The second series in this group is that of the American Red Cross. Every county in the state had a chapter, and some towns and cities had chapters as well. The purpose of this organization was to help citizens with disasters, and it was one of the largest such organizations in the state. This material by its very nature will be of great interest to genealogists. Red Cross chapters provided Christmas boxes for overseas troops, served food to troop transport trucks and trains, operated canteens that served soldiers, provided health care during the 1918 flu epidemic, wrote letters to soldiers, and cared for disabled troops home from the war. There are ledgers and lists of members of each chapter, as well as some canteen registers. There are also thank-you letters from soldiers who received Christmas boxes.

The third series is that of the Daughters of the American Revolution and gives a view of the war-related activities of this organization. Series IV is the Freemasons, Series V the North Carolina Bar Association, Series VI, the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA), and Series VII is the Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA), all of which are small collections with miscellaneous material in them.

North Carolina War Industries (WWI 4) documents for the U.S. Army War Plans Division, the factories and businesses that created products for the war effort in the state. It contains correspondence, photographs, posters, forms, newsletters, and other materials arranged in three series.

Guilford County War Savings Committee Records (WWI 41) contains correspondence, membership lists, and financial and operational records. The correspondence is from local schools, organizations, churches, colleges, and businesses, as well as county citizens and officials.

The Military Collection contains some private collections of papers related to or collected by one person. Most of these come from soldiers or their families and are composed of correspondence, official papers, service and campaign histories, photographs, and various official publications.

One such collection is the Frank H. Bynum Papers (WWI 44). Bynum, who was from Raleigh, served in the Headquarters Detachment, 60th Infantry Brigade, 30th Division. The collection contains correspondence, photographs, and notes about his division's activities.

Another such collection is that of Leonidas P. Denmark (WWI 35). Also a native of Raleigh, Denmark served in the U.S. Engineers Reserves and was assigned to the

Copyright© 2017, All Rights Reserved – Wake County Genealogical Society, Inc.

105th Engineer Regiment. This collection includes correspondence, photographs, and military service records.

While there are additional collections of private papers in the Military Collection, the largest number of personal manuscripts are part of the Private Collections, a record group within the Special Collections of the State Archives. There are several of these that bear mentioning. Unlike the series within the WWI Papers, which give information about many different people, the private collections generally relate to one person. For the genealogist, however, their primary usefulness is in the people, places, and events that are mentioned in their correspondence, journal or diary entries, or photographs. The majority of the collections include correspondence which may, of course, contain mentions of local families and friends. Using the index to the Guide to Private Manuscript Collections in the North Carolina State Archives or MARS, the researcher can see the various collections that contain World War I material. This article will conclude with a mention of some of the journals and diaries kept by soldiers during the war. PC 529 is the Robert B. House Diary. This is the same Robert B. House that was a collector for the Historical Commission after the war. His diary covers the period Jan. to April 1918 and was kept while he was in France with the 103rd Infantry. The diary covers primarily events that were taking place at that time.

PC 1138 is the R. Gregg Cherry Papers and includes a diary about his service with the 1st N.C. Cavalry (Co. A, 115th Machine-Gun Battalion, 60th Brigade Division). Cherry, who later would serve as governor of North Carolina, was a resident of Gastonia, and his diary covers the period April to July 1918 and considerable correspondence.

The Rodolph Nunn Papers, PC 1308, includes a diary kept by Nunn dated May 1918 to April 1919. Nunn of the 2nd N. C. Infantry Band (119th Infantry, 30th Div., A.E.F.) describes his time in France with many mentions of sights and friends made.

PC 1385, the Robert R. Bridgers Papers, contains the diary of his sister, Ann Preston Bridgers, who served as a hostess for the YWCA in the A.E.F. in France and covers 1919.

There are many private collections that contain substantial information about World War I, primarily in the form of correspondence. Most collections include additional materials such as photographs, pamphlets, and military information as well. Indeed, this article is in no way exhaustive when it comes to available documents, but it does hit the highlights of the material of interest to genealogists. Consultation of the finding aids for the Military Collection and the Private Collections is encouraged. In these two collections the researcher may be able to determine whether or not an ancestor fought in World War I, read a history of an ancestor's unit, or flesh out his or her activities during the war. Regardless, the information found in these two collections gives the researcher an unparalleled view of North Carolina's people and activities during the war to end all wars.

A Slice of Heaven Fades – A History of Green Hope School, White Oak Township, Wake County

Robert Phillip "Phil" Upchurch

Based on an article previously published in Upchurch Bulletin,
Volume 1, Number 2, April 1980; used with permission by the publisher/author.

Green Hope School, pictured here in all of its glory, was in service only 24 years from 1927 until 1951, and then burned in 1963. Previous memories are here referenced as a tribute to those who played a role in the life and time of this school and community. This photo was provided by Col. George A. Upchurch. He and his brother, Franklin, attended Green Hope and have championed the preservation of the history of the institution.

Upchurch Bulletin* Ed. Note: Before providing details on Green Hope, we wish to challenge Upchurch family members across these United States to reflect on similar schools that served their ancestors. A great many of the schools that served earlier generations in the 1850-1950 era are rapidly becoming distant memories. Members will do a great service to local and family history if they will collect, share, and preserve memories associated with such establishments.

The story of Green Hope School is but a way station in a chain of memories going back to the period right after the Revolution when the Wake/Chatham border was a wild, sparsely settled frontier. Such is the setting that I have tried to visualize for nearly 40 years as I have, from time to time, visited the area. We can recall that this is the area to which two of the twenty-two Upchurch clans called home, starting about 1802. Their patriarchs were the brothers, Moses and Nathan Upchuch. The records of Upchurch land holdings, participation in the schools, churches, and enterprises of the area have been peeled off like the layers of an onion. And yet the layers do not come off in order. It took me years of probing before it became clear that Green Hope School represented a very special layer of history for the area. Beneath the Green Hope School layer, there is another layer dealing with the three schools that were absorbed when Green Hope was formed in 1927. That story will take more work and be for a later time.

The story of Green Hope School is reasonably well told in seven articles which appeared in The Western Wake Herald newspaper from 1987 to 1990. Over the years, former attendees and graduates have gathered on a more or less annual basis. The 1989 gathering was addressed by former student Avery C. Upchurch, Mayor of Raleigh (1983-1993).

Green Hope School absorbed three local schools when it was formed in 1927: Green Level School, Carpenter School, and Upchurch School. The new school had eleven grades and thus accommodated elementary and high school students. Soon after Green Hope was formed, the students and the community decided they should emphasize basketball as a competitive sport. One and all pitched in to build a gym. Their determination paid off as they were State Champions in 1940 – a huge accomplishment for such a small school. Fifty years later, the members of the winning team and their supporters were still giving each other “high fives.”

The records about people who have come down to us regarding Green Hope represent a “who’s who” of western Wake County. Included are students, teachers, parents, and local supporters. A sampling of the available names includes the following:

Ellis, William
Beal, Melvin
Daniels, E. J.
Ennis, Billy
Ferrell, Carl
Glover, Richard

Hemphill, Charlie

And now, let us have a look at a map of the area where our “slice of heaven fades.” One notes that Highway 55 runs north and south [technically east-west] through Upchurch country in western Wake County. The site of the former Green Hope School is marked with an X on County Road 1621, which is also known as Green Hope School Road. The sites of the three schools that were consolidated to form Green Hope are shown on the map as Green Level, Upchurch, and Carpenter. In earlier years, Green Level consisted of the 1,000-acre plantation of Nathan Upchurch I who died in 1835. The site of Upchurch community to the east of Highway 55 was named for one of Nathan's descendants, and it is there that the Upchurch School existed prior to 1927. Among the Upchurches living at the Upchurch community was William Burtis Upchurch I, who married a Civil War widow and started an especially productive branch of the family. It is this ancestor that present-day local resident Billy Upchurch is named. Billy has continued in the "productive" vein. One aspect of his success helps us to place Green Hope School forever. Billy owned land across the road from the Green Hope School. He has partnered with a group to convert the site into a new cemetery, known as Wake Memorial Park. In that way, this park serves to commemorate Green Hope School.

In Section I of this issue [of the Upchurch Bulletin] the reader will note that a book has recently appeared. It documents the rise and fall of the Village of Carpenter. This book and the story of Green Hope School fit together to tell a more complete story. Both are rich in local history, but reveal that the march of progress is rapidly changing the local landscape forever. The housing needs of the Research Triangle area to the north and the nearby towns of Cary, Morrisville, and Apex are beginning to dominate the area. In a few years, we will have an eighteen-mile segment of the Wake Outer Freeway [Triangle Expressway] (I-540) running north and south through the area of Green Level. While all of these forces are gathering, we still have people with memories that need to be captured and preserved for posterity. Who will join the parade?

From Section I [of the Upchurch Bulletin] ("Sojourns of the Editor"): Also, I picked up a copy of the book Carpenter, NC As I Remember and What I have Learned by Bryan Edwards, 2006. This is a valuable account of how this village developed and is rapidly disappearing under the pressure of development. It sits in the midst of the larger community in which Upchurch clans headed by Moses Upchurch (Clan No. 1) and Nathan Upchurch (Clan No. 3) unfolded from about 1802 onward.

[Phil Upchurch is editor of the Upchurch Bulletin, now in the 37th year of production. He is also President of Upchurch and Allied Families Association, which was formed in 2013. The website is www.alliedfamilies.com. The U&AFA has a research library and office located at 1130 Kildaire Farm Road, Suite 120, Cary, North Carolina.]

Wake County School District Report – 1856

Transcribed by Jane Bartlett

Introduction by Diane L Richard

[Source: Wake County School Records, 1856, 1871-1899 (broken series), C.R.099.926.1, Folder: School Committee's Report (1856), State Archives of North Carolina, Raleigh, NC]

This transcription is a continuation of those done by some volunteers in March 2016. The first batch of materials (Constable Bonds) appeared in Volume 26 No 4.

School records are a wonderful resource. Unfortunately, the records for Wake County are very spotty, a few districts for the years that survive (and many years are not extant). The lists are typically in order by families. So, when you see the same surname on both lists in the same place in the list, this is suggestive of siblings. For example, odds are that William, Mary and Martha Weathers are siblings. We would need documentation to corroborate this.

Some lists do "group" children. Some lists name the parent (fathers unless deceased). Some lists give ages. Some lists include all the children in the district and then indicate which children actually attended school. Though the type of information provided greatly varies, the one constant is that you can find information on those aged 6-21, which is hard to come by.

We, the School Committee, in District No. 46, of the County of Wake, do hereby report the number of white children six years old and under twenty-one, to be 58, and their names are as follows:—

[Editor's Note: This item continues select Wake County petitions found in the General Assembly Session Records for November-December 1805, Box 2, Folder: Petitions (Miscellaneous), State Archives of North Carolina, Raleigh, NC.]

Though a petition might be for an individual and his/her grievance, often, many in the community would sign the petition in support of the petitioner. What a great way to learn more about a community. It is not unusual for these petitions to bear the original signatures of those who signed. Unfortunately, in this case, it is clear that someone neatly copied the names of those who signed. Such benefits our transcription though original signatures are nice to collect.
