Message From the Editor

By Diane L Richard
Editor, Wake Treasures

WELCOME TO THIS EDITION OF WAKE TREASURES

Dear Readers,

We are excited to bring you another edition of Wake Treasures just chock full of interesting information and names!

Before I give you an overview of the content, I wanted to let you know that long-time compiling editor Hope Blackford has retired from Wake Treasures. Her contributions to the journal both in terms of content (transcribing/abstracting) and formatting have been invaluable and she's been a great friend to your editor and WCGS for too many years to count.

Her absence was so keenly felt that a couple of weeks ago a meeting was held of those interested in possibly helping with the journal. Thanks to all of those who attended (and brought refreshments!). We talked about indexing, formatting and compiling! Three attendees had the availability and were willing to jump right in and you are reading this journal because of them. Thanks to Cynthia Gage, Donna Shackle and Lori Winkelstein for all you did to make this edition of the journal a reality.

Now let's talk records! This edition of the journal continues the long running series of Voter Registrations and the long paused one for Deed Book R. We also continue with the Raleigh Death Registers and we "finally" resume with the Raleigh Birth Registers. The latter of which was made possible by the efforts of Members of the Asbury Station Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, Cary NC, Historic Preservation Committee. If your organization would like to help with future transcription projects, please contact me.

Rounding out the content, we have another informative article from Debra Blake, an 1809 Divorce Petition, an 1881 African-American schoolchildren list, and lists of WWI "slackers" and "deserters."

Happy Genealogical Hunting!

Diane

Records of the American Red Cross in the State Archives of North Carolina

By Debra Blake

Editor's Note: In keeping with our exploration of WWI Red Cross records, we bring you a detailed introduction with respect to the State Archives of North Carolina holdings.

One of the largest series of the World War I Organizations Records (WWI 6) within the Military Collection in the State Archives of North Carolina is that of the American Red Cross (Series II). Since the late 19th century the American Red Cross has been a humanitarian organization that helps people deal with crises such as natural disasters, and in this case, war. This nonprofit group became the largest supporter of troops during World War I. In North Carolina there was a Red Cross chapter in every county, with women as the main organizers of them. In addition to the county-level chapters, there were some town and city chapters. Many of the chapters had only recently been formed when the United States entered the war. The individual chapters did an amazing amount of work to support the troops during the Great War. They rolled bandages, packed Christmas boxes, ran fund drives, served food for transport trucks and trains, as well as operated canteens and bath houses. They assisted with health care in the tragic influenza outbreak in 1918. They wrote letters to soldiers and cared for disabled troops. They offered nursing classes and served at Red Cross stations overseas.

Within the collection are ledgers and lists of women who volunteered for the North Carolina Red Cross, both on the home front and overseas. The series is housed in four boxes and includes work reports, supply lists, compiled histories, canteen registers, correspondence from soldiers and other individuals. It also includes War Department Questionnaires and Reports of Investigations since some chapters provided witnesses and information during investigations into suspected unpatriotic individuals, aliens, and suspected foreign agents. Also of great interest are the materials related to the efforts made by the chapters to deal with the Spanish flu epidemic in 1918. The collection contains a few photographs of some of efforts made by the chapters to bring comfort to returning soldiers. There are several of the canteen and bath house at the Johnston Street train station in Raleigh, for example. Among the materials are various lists of Red Cross members such as one that includes Wake County women and the badges for which they qualify. Receiving the service badge for 2400 hours were Mrs. William B. GRIMES, Mrs. J. R. SECHREST, Mrs. W. B. DRAKE, Mrs. J. J. BERNARD, Mrs. S. T. SMITH, Miss May V. JOHNSON and Mrs. T. C. POWELL. Of great interest to me was Mrs. R. D. W. CONNOR, who qualified for a 1600-hour badge. Her husband was the first state archivist of North Carolina and went on to be the first archivist of the United States.

The arrangement of these records is straight forward with general materials in separate folders followed by folders for county chapters. Please note that not every county is represented in these materials. The finding aid for the collection contains a brief annotation for the contents of the folders since some counties have multiple folders. The finding aid is available in the black notebooks in the Search Room and online at http://archives.ncdcr.gov/Portals/3/PDF/findingaids/pdf/MilColl_WWI_Organizations.pdf.

There are some miscellaneous records, as well, that are described in the finding aid. Among these are the aforementioned War Department questionnaires, as well as a folder entitled “Correspondence Regarding Locating Soldiers, 1918-1919.” In it are poignant letters such as the one pictured here from a mother, Mrs. L. R. CREECH of Goldsboro, asking for help in finding her son, whom she has not heard from in two months. Another relatively large group of materials are part of a series of general materials that cover all levels of the Red Cross. Many of these are national in scope, such as bulletins and pamphlets, or regional in scope, such as press releases. On a more local level are valuable folders of newspaper clippings, many of which can also be found in the county folders. Many of the newspaper articles contain articles about Red Cross activities and one from Wake County even includes lists of officers of chapters and in one article from December of 1918, includes lists of members serving as solicitors to raise money for a drive and the area in which each would be soliciting.

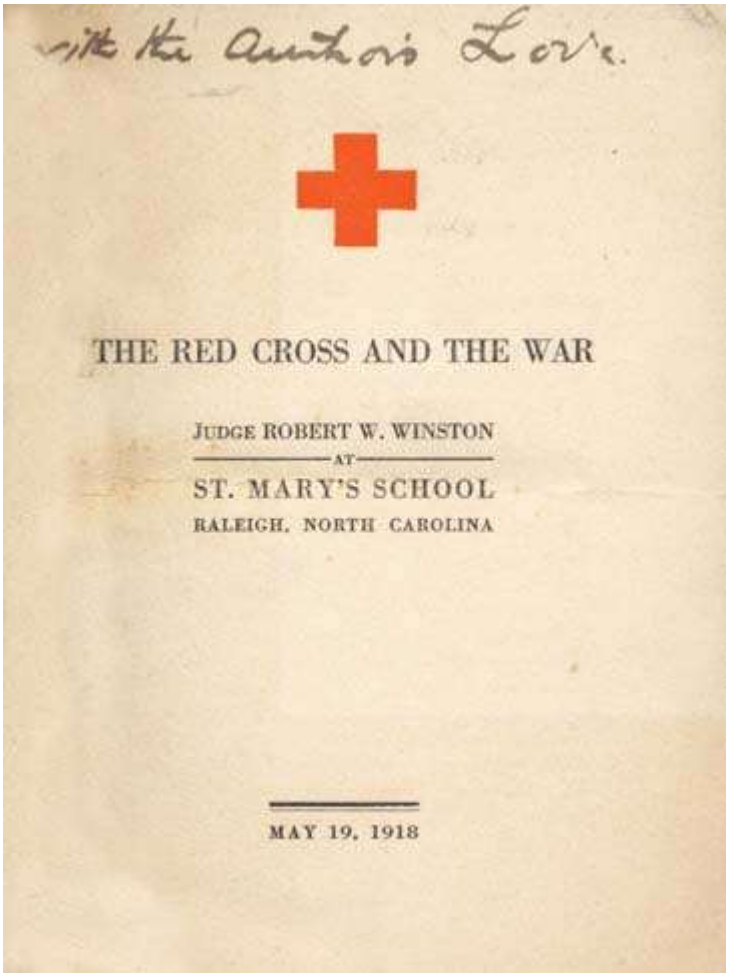
Some of these valuable materials, most notably the county chapter histories, are being scanned as part of the commemoration of the Great War and over the next few months will be available as part of the online collections of the State Archives of North Carolina. All of the history files contain lists of the officers, along with the various activities in which the chapter has participated, and some contain complete membership rosters. As a researcher it might be worth noting who the officers of the local chapters were. Many were the prominent women of the community, and may have left their own private papers related to their involvement to a local archives. Gertrude WEIL, for example, was an officer in the Wayne County chapter and the State Archives has her considerable private manuscript collection (PC 1488) which may give even more information about the workings and membership of the chapter.

While it may not seem at first glance that Red Cross materials would be helpful to a family historian, the collection of this organization is actually a hidden gem at the State Archives of North Carolina and well worth delving into.



With the Author's Love.

Wake County Deed Book R (Pages 336-347)

Transcribed by Hope Blackford

[Editor's Note: This is a continuation of the Wake County Deed Book R: March 1802 – October 1803, which has been published across many volumes of the Wake Treasures journal beginning with Volume 10, Number 1. (Pages 1-335 have already been completed and published).]

[Editor's Note: After a long pause, we resume sharing abstracts and transcriptions of Deed Book R (to be completed across 3 journal issues). Deed Book R is invaluable as fourteen of the earliest Wake County deed books are NOT extant. With land as the most valuable asset of many and the great mobility of the individuals who lived in Wake County from its formation in 1771 through the early 19th century (and continuing to the present), the inability to track land transactions when combined with missing tax and other records, challenges us to document many who lived in Wake County during the first 30+ years of its existence. The Deed Book R series follows in the footsteps of Joseph W. Watson who abstracted Wake County Deed Boks F, G, H, K and Q in his seminal work Abstracts of the Early Deeds of Wake County North Carolina 1785-1802.

Unlike the previously published material from Deed Book R as abstracts, the material below are full word transcriptions. As always, see a familiar name? Please consult the original deed book.

In anticipation of the NGS 2017 Family History Conference held in Raleigh, ALL Deed Book R materials were published in a stand-alone volume, Wake County, Deed Book R, March 1802-Oct. 1803, Wake County Genealogical Society, Raleigh, NC 2017. The volume also includes an introduction about deed records from the State Archives of North Carolina's own Debra Blake.]

Wake County School Census (African-American) – December 1881

Abstracted by Hope Blackford

[Source: Wake County (N.C.) Public Schools district 1, Rubenstein Library, Duke University, Durham, NC -- Collection contains the register, 1881-1885, of a school for African Americans taught by M. W. Brown. http://search.library.duke.edu/search?id=DUKE003880756]

[Abstractor's Note: The actual days of attendance have not been transcribed.]

[Editor's Note: School lists are always valuable and even more so when parents/guardians are listed and their surnames differ from that of the associated pupil. Also note that some of these students were born during the civil war; any student older than 16 would fall into this category. It is likely that they were enslaved. Interested in school records? If so, check out the current Subject Index to Wake Treasures, https://wakecogen.org/cpage.php?pt=18, and learn what other school records have been included in past editions of the journal.]

World War I Deserter List for Wake County

Transcribed by Hope Blackford
Introduction by Diane L. Richard

Introduction

Draft classifications for WWI were not the same as what many are more familiar with and instituted later. Everyone classified as 1-4 could be drafted, with prioritization to those classified as 1. The only group which could not be drafted were those classified as 5.

That said, as you'll see from our Wake County example, the registration of several were invalidated when it was determined that they were under-age. This article about U.S. World War I Draft Registrations by Jean Nudd, Archivist, U.S. National Archives and Records Administration Northeast Region, as appeared in Dick Eastman's Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter, 19 January 2004, http://www.eogn.com/archives/news0403.htm#WorldWarIDraftRegistrations, gives further insight into WWI draft registration.

You will notice that one list is for "slackers" and the other is for "deserters." A bit of research indicates that "slackers" often referred to those attempting to dodge the draft though extended to many actions that might have been considered "unpatriotic." Read more on this When "Slacker" Was a Dirty Word: Defamation and draft Dodging During World War I, by David Kluft, Trademark & Copyright Law, 30 June 2014, http://www.trademarkandcopyrightlawblog.com/2014/06/when-slacker-was-a-dirty-word-defamation-and-draft-dodging-during-world-war-i/.

A search via Newspapers.com into the articles published in the News and Observer, 1917 to 1920 revealed over 500 editions of the newspaper where the term "slacker" was used in some manner.

A summary about North Carolinians and The Great War, Introduction to the Solder's Experience, Dr. Michael Sistrom, Documenting the American South, http://docsouth.unc.edu/wwi/soldiersintro.html, states …

The vast majority North Carolina's draftees accepted their fate and left home for training and eventual combat, but 1,612 North Carolinians earned the opprobrium

"slacker" for evading registering for the draft. The United States District Court for the Eastern District (North Carolina) tried 390 cases of draft evasion and convicted fifty-two of the "slackers". The evaders amounted to only 2.6 percent of North Carolina's total draft pool, giving the state one of the lowest rates of draft evasion in the country.

As you can see from the transcription, most "slackers" were eventually either registered or deemed to be underage. The paperwork does not provide any details on the so-called "deserters."

Interestingly, many man in 1918 (reported 1 Jan 1918, News and Observer), were declared deserters because questionnaires addressed to them were returned as undelivered. "Failure of these registrants to make known their post-office addresses automatically designates them as deserters and works a forfeiture of any claim of exemption."[1] Further research would be needed to see if these men were truly deserters or had moved without appropriately providing a forwarding address. Named were:

An article appearing 25 June 1918, News and Observer, identifies some individuals apprehended as deserters[2]. Included were: Ernest Lane (negro), Charles Bryant (negro) as well as Exie Stewart, Abraham Horton and Ernest Markham (also negroes) and one assumes other individuals not identified by name since otherwise the math doesn't work otherwise.

As with all records about transgressions, do further research to learn more. Sometimes a true transgression has occurred and sometimes it's an administrative error. Regardless, we do learn more about your ancestors!

Divorce Petition (1809)

Transcribed by Hope Blackford

[Editor's Note: The General Assembly Session Records collection is full of petitions, as are Governors papers. One category found are Divorce Petitions. Until the power to grant divorces shifted to county superior courts in 1835 (see introduction to Wake County Divorce Records, 1831-1952, Surnames A-M, Wake County Genealogical Society, Raleigh, NC, 2012), very few divorces were granted and they were handled by the General Assembly, Though, many of these divorces were not granted, we can still learn from the paperwork (e.g. marriage dates, places, names of parties, impetus for petition, etc.) via the claims made by the complaining party. Additionally, it was quite common to find that many in the community would sign such a petition of divorce in support of the complainant. Sometimes hundreds in a community have signed these petitions. Even if your ancestor did not divorce, they just might have signed a petition in support of someone else's efforts.]

[Editor's Note: We are excited to continue, after a bit of a hiatus, the transcription of these invaluable birth registers. As found for death records, Raleigh was one of the few locales to institute documenting deaths and births before statewide civil registration commenced in 1913. Consult Volume 25, Number 2 for an introduction to these wonderful records and transcriptions covering January-March 1890. Intervening issues continue the intervening years.]

4 Since 1890, the mission of the DAR has been to promote historic preservation, education, and patriotism. The Historic Preservation Committee, established as a national Committee on March 1, 2008, seeks to honor the nation's heritage, focus on the future, and celebrate America. This includes preservation of buildings, landmarks, monuments, cemeteries, historic districts, statues, museum collections, manuscripts, documents, and archival materials. It also includes writing or compiling and publishing books on historic preservation projects, historical properties, genealogical and court house records, and photography collections; as well as compiling oral histories; and serving as historical guides, interpreters or docents.
